In the presence of a large and enthusiastic audience and with favorable and auspicious appointments, the class of 1903 of the East Liverpool high school was graduated last evening at the Grand opera house, to enter upon higher and broader education.

Great hopes are entertained for the success of the class of 1903, owing to its large number of 35 and sterling qualities, combined with unlimited energy.

Promptly at 8:15 o'clock the seniors marched upon the stage, making a beautiful appearance, the 10 young gentlemen in black and the 25 young ladies in elegant white gowns.

Forming in two lines, the graduates stood while the opening prayer was made by Rev. D. W. McQuiston, after which they were seated on the stage, and the scene at this point was most effective, representing a garden scene. The fancy Japanese lanterns suspended on the stage made the garden scene brilliant as well as perfect and unique. On the front of the stage the senior class colors, green and white, in crepe paper strips, were arranged in curtain effect draped back on both sides in double loops.

A feature of the evening was the excellent music rendered by the large high school chorus.

The commencement program was a new departure. The seniors took for their discussion a trip to European lands and each one talked upon the subject in an interesting manner.

The exercises began with a description of leaving home and successively

POLITICAL SKIES ARE CLEARED UP

Harmony Will Rule in the Republican State Convention at Columbus.

PLACES STILL IN DOUBT

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, May 29.—The threatening clouds which overcast the political sky, have all disappeared, leaving an atmosphere of absolute tranquility. It was the masterful hand of Senator M. A. Hanua which wrought this. The R oosevelt endorsement question and its advocacy by Senator Foraker and his adherents and the shape in which the proposition confronted Senator Hanna all served to make the situation disquieting; but as soon as the president requested endorsement by Ohio, Senator Hanna at ance gave him his word that he should have it. The happy solution of the question is the sause of general satisfaction and now that it is settled there seems no reason why next week's Republican state convention should not be harmonious throughout. The slogan now is "Roosevelt, Hanna, Herrick and Harmony."

Some of the places to be filled by the convention are still in doubt. Herrick will be nominated for governor; Wade Ellis will be nominated for attorney general; Guilbert for auditor; McKinnon in all probability for treasurer, with the nomination for lieutenant governor, judge of the supreme court, and school commissioner are somewhat uncertain. Sheets seems to have the call for supreme judge at this time, but the contest is close. Summers, of Springfield, is pushing him hard. Norris, of Youngstown, has dropped behind in the race, but it is not impossible that he will take a spurt. Bonebrake is strong for commissioner. He is now on his second term and is backed by a powerful organization. Little attention is being paid the lieutenant governorship. Harding may be nominated. General Boothman is working hard for the honor as is Captain Nutt, of Sidney.

Senator Archeh has come out in favor of Senator Hanna for president. As he has always been known as a great Foraker man, his words have drawn much attention. "If Hanna comes out for president in 1904, I am for him," said he. "I think the Belmont county delegation is for him, too." The senator also stated that he has all along been in favor of endorsing Roosevelt.

The remains of Colonel Albert Brewer, the former pottery manufacturer, who died at his home at Tiffin Wednesday, have been taken to Trenton, N. J., his former home, for burial. He was the son of William Brewer, of Trenton, and came from a prominent and aristocratic family of New Jersey. Mrs. Brewer was Miss Harriet Niles, of New York. He leaves a seventeen-year-old daughter by a former wife. An escort of Elks accompanied the bodys to Trenton. Colonel Brewer was a graduate of Princeton college.

Nick Wessig, western representative of Marsching & Co., of New York, which supplies potteries and glass plants with color, was here yesterday, on his way to East Liverpool.

Arrested in the Yard.

Railroad Detective Jewell arrested two young men this morning in the Wellsville yards and placed them in the city hall. They were brought before Mayor Fogo this morning, and gave their names as Jem Smith and Pat Mackessy, and their homes as Buffalo. Not being able to pay a fine they were taken back to the lockup, where they will remain for a few days.

Will Meet Two Teams.

The Crockery City base ball team will play two games at Rock Springs park tomorrow. The first will be with the Eclipse team of this city, and the second, in the afternoon, with the Federal Juniors, of Hickman, Pa.

Bids for New City Hall.

Lisbon, May 29.—(Special.)—The bids for the erection of the new city hall in Lisbon will not be opened until Monday evening.

TOWBOAT WALTON SINKS IN THE OHIO

Crew Escaped Without Injury—A Large Number of Barges Lost.

Carried along with the fierce current, the big tow boat Nellie Walton struck the dyke near Sewickley late yesterday afternoon, and in a few moments had settled to the bottom of the river. Her hull was crushed in in several places and soon filled with water. Her tow also drifted against the dyke and several of the barges laden with coal, were sunk. The loss will aggregate many thousands of dollars.

All of the officers and crew, numbering about 15, escaped to the barges from the sinking craft and were rescued without injury. The Walton is in about seven feet of water and experts think she can be easily raised.

The Walton left Pittsburg with ten barges of coal about noon yesterday, the accident occuring about 12 miles from the starting point. The boat and cargo are the property of the Monongahela Consolidated Coal & Coke company.

TWO SCHOOL BOYS KNOCKED FROM CAR

Accident Came Dangerously Near Ending Lives of Young Picnickers.

BOTH GOT BAD WOUNDS

While riding on the running board of a Rock Springs street car in Chester this morning John Franklin and William Stone, of Basil avenue, lads of about 15 years, met with an accident that came dangerously near ending their lives. They had boarded the car for the school picnic and being unable to find room on the inside, were standing on the board.

They had their backs turned to the front of the car and did not notice the actions of a frightened horse which was being driven by a farmer, who held in his hand a heavy iron pipe. In some manner when the animal reared the man lost control of the pipe and it fell from his grasp, striking Franklin and Stone with such force that they went reeling to the bricks.

The car was immediately stopped and many ran to their aid. They were found to be seriously hurt and were at once taken to the office of Dr. Hobbs. The physician examined the wounds inflicted on the boys' head and discovered Stone to be suffering from a terrible gash and Franklin from a fractured nose.

The boys displayed remarkable nerve while the physician was dressing their injuries, neither wincing while stitches were being made and plaster was being applied. The gash in Stone's head is fully an inch deep and three inches in length.

That the boys were not killed under the circumstances can hardly be accounted for, both lighting with terrific force on the hard pavement.

STARK AND CARROLL NAME CANDIDATE

Robert Pollock, of Carroll, Nominated by Republicans for Senator.

Canton, May 29.—The nomination of Robert Pollock yesterday as the Republican candidate for state senator by the Republican senatorial convention in Canton was a genuine surprise. Stark county presented two candidates for the office, J. B. Snyder, ex-speaker pro tem of the house of representatives, and Pollock, who resides at North Lawrence. Carroll county, which is included in this district, together with Stark county, for years has been furnishing the Republican majorities, while Stark county always got the offices. This year little Carroll determined to get the senatorship, but after three ballots had been taken Carroll nominated Pollock by casting its entire vote for him.

The convention altogether was a very harmonious meeting, and Carroll county delegates think that by throwing their vote to Pollock their county will be well cared for by the nominee, who will be elected, since the Republican majority is quite large.

Three Arrests.

Three old stagers were arrested last night for being drunk. They were fined $2 and costs each this morning and released.

WOMAN IN LOVE WITH A CONVICT

Seeks the Pardon of John Eells' Who Killed His Brother at Lisbon.

HE SECURED A PARDON

But Is Again in Durance for Horse Stealing And His Lady Love Wants Him Set Free—A Romantic Case from Alliance.

Alliance, May 29.—A peculiar case of love and devotion is just coming to light in which an Alliance woman and a twice-convicted inmate of the Ohio penitentiary are the principals.

They became acquainted in Carroll county about 1892 and their acquaintance ripened into love, and if the story as told by the woman is true, would have culminated in matrimony, had not her lover taken a horse which did not belong to him. He was detected in the act of selling the animal, and for his offense he received a life sentence to the Ohio penitentiary at hard labor.

The story of the life of the man so devoutly loved by this woman is this: In 1875 John Eells lived at Lisbon, and in a sudden fit of anger he shot and killed his brother Charles. An effort to prove the shooting justifiable in self-defense failed. It was not a premeditated killing, and yet it was a cold-blooded murder and one of the most appalling in the annals of crime in that county. Every effort was made to lessen the crime for which he was to answer in the court, but they all failed. The trial was long and tedious and ended in the jury returning a verdict of murder and the judge sentenced him to hard labor and solitary confinement in the penitentiary for life.

In 1890, through an effort on the part of some of his friends, a petition was circulated asking for his pardon. Many believed that confinement within stone walls for 15 years was punishment sufficient to reform the man and atone for his deed.

The pardon was granted as prayed for and Eells came home and later went to Carroll county to live, where his deeds were forgotten. It was while there that he met the now Alliance woman, who was then a girl, and the two formed a mutual admiration for each other. If they had been wedded they probably would have lived happily together, but the innate desire to sin and transgress the laws was uppermost in the heart of the man and as before stated Eells stole a horse and for this crime was again sentenced for life, for his pardon was conditional that he sin no more.

Ever since their first meeting, the twain have been lovers and the nine years of incarceration in the cells of the penitentiary for his second offense has not dampened their ardor, although he is 51 and the woman 30 years of age. This is a case where love laughs at locksmiths and iron bars and stone walls are no barrier.

The woman is having her prayer in the nature of a petition drawn up and will go to Lisbon and Carrollton and try and induce the officials and the ex-officials of the two counties to aid her to open the door of the bondsman and set her lover free. Such devotion is seldom heard of but her efforts will hardly be rewarded for her pains and she will go through life unconsoled unless a second love appears upon the scene.

A GREAT RECORD BY HOMING PIGEONS

Made a Flight of 488 Miles from Indiana to This City in 24 Hours.

The six homing pigeons, owned by Teddy McDermott, Barney Peterson and Edward Sherwood, which they shipped to Terre Haute, Ind., a few days ago, were freed at the latter city yesterday morning at 5 o'clock and all of them arrived in East Liverpool, a distance of 488 miles, at daybreak this morning.

The record is said to be unparalelled and the owners are very proud.

A JOLLY TIME FOR CHILDREN

Four Thousand Youngsters Enjoy Themselves at Rock Springs Park.

ALL SORTS OF FUN ABOUND

Four thousand children, pupils of the East Liverpool schools, spent today at Rock Springs, where C. A. Smith and his scores of assistants made the day one long to be remembered by the small boy and his brother. Yesterday was the last day of school, and the youngsters, after finishing their term, were ready to cut things wide open. This they proceeded to do in the most approved and up-to-date manner.

Long before 9 o'clock this morning large crowds of school children had assembled at the Diamond, and anxiously awaited the arrival of cars to convey them to the other side of the river. All who resided in the suburbs were compelled to pay their fares on the East Liverpool railroad, but after they had been deposited in the Diamond everything was free, thanks to Mr. Smith's generous impulses. The present instance is the second upon which the management of the park has offered free transportation, admission to the park and other privileges which the pupils of the school could enjoy. Last year the affair was something of an experiment. This spring every one knew just what to expect, and all looked forward to the event with pleasant anticipation for weeks.

The East Liverpool & Rock Springs road carried over 6,000 passengers during the day, and when evening came the park was thronged with a happy crowd of youngsters, among whom had been added many of the parents, who had come over after dinner.

John Franklin and William Stone were seriously hurt during the morning and were compelled to return to the city. Aside from this no one was reported to have been hurt in any way. The day passed off without incident and was not notable for anything save the complete enjoyment of the occasion, it being a pleasant and fitting end to a busy and prosperous school year.

Johnny Headley was there from Gardendale, and he had been "staked" before he left home. With 25 cents he was enabled to see the whole show, and as the circus fiend would say, "he stayed for the concert and drank his fill of red lemonade." John is 13 years old and was in his bare feet. When he was on the grounds 10 minutes his face looked like the tattooed lady in a side show, but Johnny didn't care. He went down to the spring and threw stones at the tin cups until there was not a whole one left.

Emmet Cunningham was all by himself. He told his mother he would be good and promised to stay near his teacher. He never knew the world was so big, and when he landed in Chester, the place was so strange that he thought he would never get home. He began to cry and not being able to locate his teacher was about to start for East Liverpool on foot. He did not know the way and no one would tell him, so he cried harder than ever. About this time "Gillie" Anderson

H. H. HUGHES FOUND DEAD WITH HIS NECK BROKEN

LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA MADE HIM HELPLESS

Lying cold in death, the result of a terrible accident, Harry H. Huges, though a resident of the city less than 15 years, one of its most widely known citizens, was found between the hours of 1 and 2 o'clock this morning by Mrs. William Fortune, at whose home, 133 Third street, he had roomed for nearly a year.

When discovered the lifeless body was in a heap at the foot of the stairs, which he had been attempting to climb when seized with an attack of locomotor ataxia, a disease of which he had been a victim for five years. It is thought that he reeled and fell backward, striking his head on the side of the wall with such force that his life was blotted out almost instantly. His neck was broken.

Mrs. Fortune thinks that life had been extinct but a few moments when she found him. She states that, contrary to his usual custom, he was about the house several times at short intervals during the early evening. At about 11 o'clock she and her daughter retired and did not awaken when he entered the house. At nearly 1 o'clock both she and daughter were suddenly aroused by a crash in the hallway, but were not frightened, believing it to be caused by Mr. Hughes, and knowing that he was subject to spasmodic attacks of his distressing malady.

However, after listening closely for further sounds and hearing nothing, they feared that he might have been rendered unconscious by a fall, and decided to investigate. Donning their wearing apparel, they approached the door leading to the hall and grasped the knob. They found it difficult to force the door. Against it lay some heavy object and their doubled strength was required to make the opening. A light had been procured and when the couple got a view of the motionless form, they realized with all its dreadfullness the true situation.

Both were horrified at the sight. From the position into which he was thrown by the fall, the blood of his body had coursed over his head, blackening the face and swelling it, until only one well acquainted with the man would have been able to recognize him. For a short time the women were so horrified that they could not conceive of the proper plan to pursue, but finally recovering from the shock, they called in a neighbor family and watch was held over the inanimate form until early morning, when Undertaker Rinehart was summoned. He quickly prepared the body

DELEGATES ALL WELL SATISFIED

Friendly Feeling Toward Harrison County May Secure Her Honors Later.

Lisbon, May 29.—(Special.)—The Lisbon delegation returned from Wellsville last evening, well satisfied with the work and results of the senatorial convention.

The entire Columbiana county delegation has a friendly feeling toward Harrison county and its candidate, J. H. Beal, and that county will probably yet something two years hence when this county will have power to bestow it.

POTTERY AT MANNINGTON

West Virginia Town to Give Free Site and $45,000 Bonus.

S. E. Strickline and Charles Macauley, of the Cameron Pottery company, were in the city today to confer with the local pottery machinery manufacturers. Mr. Strickline stated that they would make a contract for the machinery for a new plant the Benedum brothers, principal owners of the Cameron venture, are to build in Mannington, W. Va.

The terms by which Mannington was chosen are said to be a bonus of $45,000 and a free site of three acres. The promoters are to invest an amount equal to the bonus. All the details for the Mannington plant have been arranged and the contracts entered into. Mr. Strickline stated that ground has been broken for the buildings. The plant is to be an exact counterpart of the one at Cameron.

LAST OF SERIES D VOTES

If any voter is unable to get them here this evening, this office will be open for a short time tomorrow evening and the votes will be received at that time. An unfortunate typographical error yesterday made it appear that Matthew Curran was going backward rather than forward, which is far from being the case. The list of votes published today gives him proper credit. The lists are mounting up rapidly, and two months more of voting will show totals for many which will be something to be proud of, even if the recipients are not prize winners.

WITH THE WORKMEN IN THE CLAY PLANTS

PEORIA NOTES.

Peoria, May 28.—The pottery here is running about the same as usual, the clay hands only working six days last pay. The trouble is a shortage of saggers. The firm claims to have lots of orders and it looks that way, as Barney Foutts sent to East Liverpool for Harry Farmer to come and help him in the packing shed.

Harris Smith, the big jumbo jigger man, is working out his notice after a service of 11 years. He will leave a host of friends who regret to see him go. He has not decided where he will locate, as he intends to rest for a few weeks and probably until the holidays and go camping with the boys. He received an offer from New Castle, but has not decided for the reasons given above.

John Blank, Harris Smith and Walt McKeone went over to Bloomington to see Kid Barker pitch Sunday, but fate was against them as it rained all day. The Kid and Godwin are taking good care of themselves and both say they never felt better in their lives, and their looks show it. The Kid is pitching wonderful ball and says they are going to win the pennant. Stoffel, who pitched for Rochester against East Liverpool in 1899, when Kid beat them 4 to 2, was to pitch against him Sunday for the first time since that game. The base ball fans are wild over the fielding, bating and base running of John Godwin and they say his fielding is the finest ever seen in Bloomington. He made a catch the other day, and when he came in they showered money on him. If they both keep up their gait they will be in one of the big leagues next season.

READY FOR THE PICNIC.

Nothing but unfavorable weather will stand in the way of the success of the N. B. of O. P. picnic, which is to be held at Rock Springs park on next Monday. The operatives are looking forward to this event with a great deal of pleasure and if the weather is fair they will not be disappointed. The picnic committee has arranged several interesting contests among them a race for old men, a handicap race and a ball game between the pressers and jiggermen. Word from Sebring is that negotiations are on for a special train to carry the operatives from Sebring and Salineville. The New Cumberland operatives will be up in force and several other towns will be represented.

POTTERY OFFICIAL SCALDED.

T. J. McNicol, an official of the Salem China company, met with a mishap at the pottery which will confine him to his home for some time. There was something the matter with the steam pipes and the pump in the water pit and Mr. McNicol himself decided to remedy the defect. As he was going down the ladder he slipped and fell in the pit in the scalding water. He managed to save himself from falling fact downward, but as it was, both legs to the knees were immersed in the boiling water. The skin has already peeled off of one leg and it is thought that the other limb will be affected the same way.

A NEW LOCAL.

The operatives at Derry are to be organized into a local of the N. B. of O. P. by President Duffy, who will visit that city one day next week. The Derry operatives will have the distinction of being the first local organized by the new president. Many of the operatives are from this city and prior to leaving the city were members of the different locals here, so President Duffy will have no difficulty in his work. The local will be a mixed one.

WILL LEAVE THE TRADE.

Harvey Walker, the well known clarionetist of Hayne's band, has concluded that a potter's life is not one to be envied and has announced his intention of leaving the trade. He will accept a position at the Dueber Watch company's works in Canton and will leave for that place next Monday.

IMPROVEMENTS COMPLETED.

The new addition to the decorating department of the Homer Laughlin China company's plant No. 3 has been completed. A portion of the glost warehouse has been partitioned off and fitted up as a wareroom for the decorators, and four new decorating kilns have been added to the plant.

WORK RESUMED.

Work has been resumed at the Keswick China company's plant, New Brighton, after a shut down, due to a lack of material.

AMONG THE WORKERS.

Miss Kate Early has taken a finishing bench at the Dresden.

Clarence McDole, finisher at Brunt's, has gone to the Dresden.

Albert Lowe, of McNicol's kiln department, is working his notice.

Edward Bratt has accepted a jigger in the Warwick plant, Wheeling.

John McBride, clay maker at McNicol's, who has been suffering with rheumatism, is recuperating at Mt. Clemens, Mich.

Arthur Lowe, boss of the McNicol combination crew, has left the trade to devote his entire attention to his grocery business.

GUARANTEED BY WILL REED

Hyomei the Only Cure for Catarrh Which Returns Your Money If Not Satisfactory.

It is seldom that a druggist has enough faith in a medicine he sells even when prepared by himself, to be willing to refund the money if it does not cure; but Hyomei has cured so many cases of catarrh among the customers of Will Reed that he offers to refund the money to all who use it and report that they are not satisfied.

Hyomei is the simplest and most convenient remedy for catarrh ever offered to the public. Breathed through an inhaler so small that it can be carried in the vest pocket, for a few minutes four times a day, it will absolutely kill all the germs of catarrh and cure the disease.

Catarrh cannot exist where Hyomei is used. It has a two-fold action, killing all the germs in the air passages and lungs and soothing and healing the irritated mucous membrane.

Many of the prominent men and women of the country have gladly given testimonials to Hyomei. After seeking relief in vain for years, this wonderful remedy has cured them of catarrh, and it is no wonder that they want others to know it.

Rev. Dr. Stryker, of the 34th street church, New York city, writes: "Hyomei gives wonderful relief in catarrh when other remedies have failed. It has been of great service to me."

If you have catarrh, accept Will Reed's proposition and use Hyomei.

TRIED TO TAKE HIS CHILD AWAY

Mahoning County Man Figures in a Sensation at Salineville And Is Arrested.

Salineville, May 29.—(Special.)—Salineville citizens were treated to a mild sensation Tuesday afternoon when Walter Hufford, from near Youngstown, attempted to spirit away his child from its mother, Mrs. Hufford, who is now employed at the hotel recently opened by E. E. Swisher, formerly of Petersburg, Mahoning county. Hufford arrived in town Tuesday and was seen in the vicinity of the hotel where his wife is working and who has the care of the child.

He had been drinking some in the forenoon and told several persons that he would steal away the child. About 3 p. m. the child, which is about 18 months old, was playing on the sidewalk when Hufford put in his appearance and forcibly carried it away. He started up the railway and was fast making away when H. E. Blazer saw him. He at once started in pursuit after the man, at times attempting to have him stop, but he was deaf to all alarms and kept on running with the child. A man by the name of Knox then joined in pursuit after the alleged kidnapper. Finally Blazer overtook the man, who threatened him, but his pursuer was not frightened. Hufford was overtaken and shortly overpowered.

He was then placed under arrest and brought to the city jail by Knox, where he was incarcerated in the cell. Marshal Higgins, who was busy, arrived a short time after the man was placed behind the bars. The child was left with its mother at the hotel.

The coupe have been married for some time, but they have decided to separate, she taking the child with her. He claims that the child belongs to him. Excitement ran high until it was found that the man had a right to the child, there having been no order from the court to the contrary. An investigation soon satisfied the authorities that nothing but a charge of disorderly conduct could be lodged against the man, and it was filed. Wednesday forenoon a brother of the prisoner was present. Hufford pleaded guilty, was fined $3 and costs and given his freedom.

Cured His Mother of Rheumatism.

"My mother has been a sufferer for many years with rheumatism," says W. H. Howard, of Husband, Pa. "At times she was unable to move at all, while at all times walking was painful. I presented her with a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and after a few applications she decided it was the most wonderful pain reliever she had ever tried, in fact, she is never without it now and is at all times able to walk. An occasional application of Pain Balm keeps away the pain that she was formerly troubled with." For sale by Alvin & Bulger.

EAST END

SUNDAY SERVICES

Special Features Have Been Prepared at Several of the Churches And Field Day Will be Observed.

Wayne B. Wheeler, attorney for the Anti-Saloon league, will occupy the pulpit of the Second United Presbyterian church Sunday and will deliver a lecture upon the subject of temperance. He is one of the speakers sent to this city for the observance of the league's field day and the people of the East End are fortunate in being afforded the opportunity of hearing one of the most eloquent men in the state.

Quarterly meeting will be observd Sunday at the Erie street Methodist church. Rev. G. W. Orcutt will preach at the morning service, after which communion will be administered. Rev. Dr. C. E. Manchester, presiding elder of the district, will conduct the evening services and after the sermon the love feast will be held.

There will be services at the Second Presbyterian church both morning and evening, one of the services to be devoted to a lecture upon the subject of temperance.

The first services will be held Sunday in the new Second Christian edifice, which was dedicated last Sunday. Rev. C. A. Kleeberger will be in charge.

School Children's Outing.

The East End furnished a full quota of school children for the picnic at Rock Springs park today. The little ones were in charge of the teachers of the East End schools and were brought down town on the street cars. The children were happier than they have been for months, as they were going out for a day of pleasure and entering upon a long respite from school work. The cars down town this morning were crowded with the children until 10 o'clock this morning, and from their young throats came sweet music. There were no mishaps to mar the beginning of the day, the car crews taking particular pains for the safety of their little charges.

A Narrow Escape.

Robert Larkins, a prominent and popular young business man, had a narrow escape from serious injury Wednesday night while driving his team of spirited young colts. He was sending the animals at a rapid pace to escape an approaching storm and attempted to pass in front of a street car at the corner of Fifth and Washington streets. The car struck the rear of the vehicle, but luckily did not overturn it. The damage was very slight, and Mr. Larkins escaped unhurt.

Will Close Tomorrow.

All the establishments in the East End that usually close at 6 o'clock in the evening will remain open tonight until a late hour, owing to the fact that Memorial day is to be observed. There will be no attempt to do business tomorrow. The rush at the grocery stores commenced early this morning and continued all day, the sales including provisions sufficient for three days. Quiet will reign in the East End tomorrow.

A Wrong Impression.

The impression has been given out that the P. H. C. lodges of this section were giving the picnic, which is to be held at Rock Springs park tomorrow. This is a mistake, as the affair is entirely in the hands of the Pennsylvania orders. The five lodges hereabout nave accepted invitations to attend and have appointed committees to assist their hosts.

Trip Postponed.

Notice has been received by Pan-American court, Tribe of Ben Hur, that the meeting of the Braddock, Pa., tribe, to which they were invited, has been postponed owing to the graduating exercises which are scheduled for the same night, Wednesday, June 10. Quite a number had intended to accept the invitation and they will do so later.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

William McVay will spend Decoration day at Toronto.

Robert Hutchinson will spend tomorrow fishing at Alum Cliff.

Ray McDaniel will leave for Pittsburg in the morning to take in the ball games.

Henry Neininger, of Mulberry street, moved his family to Wedgewood street this morning.

Miss Myrtle Barber, who has been the guest of Will Andrews and family, returned to her home in Washington county today.

D. Frank White left this morning for Sharon, Pa., where he will remain for a few days on business.

A. P. Myler, field agent for the Tribe of Ben Hur, received word this morning that the new tribe at Toronto had initiated 19 candidates at its last meeting and accepted 15 additional applications.

Broke

Down With Nervous Prostration.

Confined to Bed. Doctors Failed,

But Dr. Miles' Nervine Cured Permanently.

"Some six years ago I completely broke down from evangelistic work. I suffered from nervous prostration and stomach trouble and was confined to my bed and room for months. While I had as good a physician as this city affords he failed to pull me out, and I tried many remedies and they were so hard on my stomach that I could not take them. At last I found Dr. Miles' Nervine. Ah, that was a nail in a sure place and enabled me to cry out 'Eureka.' I was soon able to be out and at work. I consider Dr. Miles' Nervine the thing for nerve and stomach trouble. I also use in my family most of Dr. Miles' Medicines, as household remedies." —Rev. Geo. W. Draper, Danville, Ill.

"About a year ago I failed in health and my case was said to be nervous derangement and heart trouble. My stomach was also affected and I suffered from a variety of symptoms such as wind on the stomach, shortness of breath, smothering spells, pain around the heart and left shoulder. My ankles were frequently swollen and my face was often feverish. There were little puffs under my eyes at times and I had headache almost constantly. I wrote to you for advice and in addition to general directions as to taking care of myself you prescribed Restorative Nervine, Heart Cure and Nerve and Liver Pills. I will state that my complete and permanent return to health followed."—Miss Josephine Kern, Galena, Ill.

WEIGH YOURSELF BEFORE USING

Weigh yourself before commencing to use Mi-o-na, the great flesh-forming food. The wonderful sale on this preparation, since first introduced in East Liverpool and the remarkable results following its use, have made Will Reed such an enthusiastic believer in the great value of Mi-o-na, that he gives his personal guarantee to refund the money if Mi-o-na will not make thin people fat, cure indigestion and restore health.

This is a strong guarantee, but Druggist Will Reed has seen so many of his customers who a few weeks ago looked like walking skeletons, become plump and well, solely through the use of Mi-o-na that he feels he cannot say too much to induce people to try it.

This marvelous flesh-forming food is assimilated as soon as it is taken into the stomach, makes good, rich blood, tones up the weakened digestive organs, helps the food to digest, and makes permanent cures in the worst cases of indigestion.

Nervous Depression.

Summer months are peculiarly the months of nervous diseases, especially nervous prostration and other depressed states of the nervous system. People who are not at all inclined to be nervous or suffer from weak nerves find this time especially trying. Sultry heat and electrical disturbances of the atmosphere are probably the cause of this.

Invalids need to be particularly careful to fortify the nervous system by the use of Peruna.

Miss Helen Rolof, Kaukauna, Wis., writes:—"Several times during the past two years or more my system has been greatly in need of a tonic, and at those times Peruna has been of great help in building up the system, restoring my appetite and securing restful sleep. I know a great number of women who are using it for the troubles peculiar to the sex, and with the best results." —Helen Rolof.

MISS HELEN ROLOF.

MISS LOUISE BERTSEL.

MISS JENNIE FINLEY.

Miss Louise Bertsel, 191½ Second street, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:—"My health was excellent until about six months ago, when I seemed to have a collapse from overdoing socially, and the doctor ordered an entire change of scene and climate. As this was an absolute impossibility at the time, I had to try and regain my health in another way and was induced by a friend, who gave Peruna such a good recommend, to try Peruna. I cannot tell you the condition of my nerves when I began to use it. The least noise irritated me, and I felt that life was not worth living, but Peruna soon changed me into a well woman, and now I do not know I have nerves."—Louise Bertsel.

Miss Jennie Finley, 79 Madison Street, Memphis, Tenn., a popular young society lady of that place, writes:—"Three years ago I had very poor health, and while I was only sick abed occasionally, I was unable to enjoy life, and lacked vitality and strength. I was an easy subject to cold and malaria. Four bottles of Peruna changed my entire physical condition. My head stopped aching, my strength returned, and the poison was driven out of my blood till I felt like a new and well woman once more. It is a truly great medicine and well worthy the good things its friends say about it, and it will always have my indorsement."—Jennie Finley.

'A newspaper contributor was lately admitted into the extensive suite of offices which constitute the headquarters of Dr. Hartman, who treats catarrh patients by the thousand. Among the busy swarm of assistant doctors, clerks, stenographers and bookkeepers, Dr. Hartman stopped long enough to say a few words.

"A large number of female patients visit me every year, but the number who are entered on my books as regular patients and are treated by correspondence is very much larger. Hundreds of letters are received and answered free every day. A yet greater multitude take my catarrh remedy, Peruna, and are cured, of whom I never hear. Some of this latter class write me years after their cure.

"I never allow a name published except by the written consent of the patient. We make no charge at any time. The medicine only is obtained by each patient at her own drug store. Those desiring to become regular patients have only to send address, duration of disease and treatment previously received, and directions for the first month's treatment will be sent at once."

Over half the women have catarrh in some form or another. And yet, probably not a tenth of the women know that their disease is catarrh. To distinguish catarrh of various organs it has been named very differently.

One woman has dyspepsia, another bronchitis, another Bright's disease, another liver complaint, another consumption, another female complaint. These women would be very much surprised to hear that they are all suffering with chronic catarrh. But it is so, nevertheless.

Each one of these troubles and a great many more are simply catarrh—that is, chronic inflammation of the mucous lining, of which organ is affected. Any internal remedy that will cure catarrh in one location will cure it in any other location. This is why Peruna has become so justly famous in the cure of female diseases. It cures catarrh wherever located. Its cures remain. Peruna does not palliate—it cures.

"Health and Beauty," sent free by The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

MISS LUCY M. RILEY.

Miss Lucy M. Riley, 33 Davenport street, Cleveland, Ohio, writes:—"I wish to add my indorsement to thousands of other women who have been cured through the use of Peruna. I suffered for five years with severe backache, and when weary or worried in the least I had prolonged headache. This fall I caught a bad cold and was advised to take Peruna for it. Imagine my astonishment and pleasure to find that after taking two bottles not only was my cough gone, but I had no more backache or headache. I am now in perfect health, enjoy life and have neither an ache or pain, thanks to Peruna." —Lucy M. Riley.

Memorial day will be appropriately and impressively observed tomorrow by the veterans, sons of veterans and patriotic orders generally. It is a cause for regret that it cannot and will not be so observed by everybody. The tendency to turn it into a day of pleasure is one that ought to be frowned upon. The day was set apart for solemn services, and its quiet ought not to be disturbed by shouts of revelry and merry-making. Enjoyments ought to be in keeping with the character of the day. Fast day, in New England, first observed by the Pilgrim Fathers, has so lost its character in these modern times, that the governor of Maine, in issuing a recent proclamation appointing the day, as law and custom require, said he hoped the day would not be observed, probably meaning that he hoped it would not be observed in the usual fashion, with scarcely a thought of the causes which first led to its celebration. Let us hope that Memorial day will never fall into similar disuse and desecration. There are hundreds of days in the year which can be devoted to work or pleasure, and surely we can spare one day for recalling the bravery and the deeds of those who died for their country and holding it sacred to their memories.

The Republican senatorial convention at Wellsville resulted in nominations that are eminently satisfactory to Columbiana county and ought to be likewise to the entire district. That Messrs. Connell and Heinlein will be elected there is no doubt. The former has had one term in the senate and his good work there certainly entitles him to another. That was the view taken of the matter, not only by Columbiana county, but by the majority in the convention. With his previous experience and his well known ability and his plainly demonstrated desire to serve his constituents faithfully, he ought to be a more valuable man than ever during his second term. Mr. Heinlein is a lawyer of acknowledged ability and high standing in Belmont county and will represent the district with credit and honor. Matters ended entirely satisfactorily to everybody, except perhaps a portion of the Jefferson county delegation. Whether justly or unjustly, Jefferson's prospects were clouded at the start by rumors of her alleged intentions, and were not helped by the disposition shown by some of the delegates to carry a county fight into the district convention and to wash dirty linen in public. However, all is well that ends well, and the convention ended in a manner that will meet with the general approval of the Republicans of the district and assure the ticket of hearty support.

When, as will be the case some day, "joint" senatorial districts shall cease to exist, it will be a cause for rejoicing among the people who now live and vote in such peculiar subdivisions as place counties of different congressional districts in the same senatorial district. Linking together counties whose community of interest is small is not the best way to produce harmonious conventions or to give all their rights politically. When the time for redistricting comes, Columbiana county and probably every other county in what is now styled the Twentieth-Twenty-second district, will be satisfied if it can be placed in one senatorial subdivision of the state and not in two.

The men most strenuously opposed to an endorsement of President Roosevet by Ohio Republicans are most positive in their declarations that there is no opposition to him. What, then, the harm of an endorsement?

A class of 35 high school graduates in East Liverpool is a great credit to the city. The graduates can, if they will, so shape their careers as to reflect still greater honor and credit upon both the city and themselves.

The milliners are joining in the crusade against the decorating of women's hats with stuffed song birds. It is evident that the milliners have found out how to make ribbons just as expensive.

A European physician contends that there is a mental disease called automobilomania. It is probably too expensive to become troublesomely common outside of a limited circle.

King Alfonso of Spain has just inherited $7,500,000. He makes no secret of it, owing to the fact that he can appoint his own tax assessors.

It is a great pity that the earthquakes, if they must kill off Turks, do not strike at others than inoffensive peasants.

Mr. Cleveland fully understands that a noisy fisherman gets few bites.

H. H. HUGHES FOUND DEAD WITH HIS NECK BROKEN

for a coffin and then it was thought best to inform the dead man's wife, with whom he had not lived for a number of years. She was terribly shocked upon receiving the news, but insisted that she see the body. In company with her son, Harry Louis, she went to the home, and the scene as they gazed upon husband and father was most dramatic. Mrs. Hughes was hardly able to bear the ordeal and gave way in deepest emotion. She ordered that the body be removed to her home, Walnut street, where the funeral services will be conducted.

Harry H. Hughes was 41 years of age and was born in Ohioville, where he worked as an oil operator until 1887, when, with h is wife, whose maiden name was Louie Potts, and theid only child, Harry Louis, he moved to this city. He accepted a position with the Bridgewater Gas company, as inspector. While in the employ of the company he worked under the superintendency of J. M. Kelly, who in the following words spoken this morning briefly but descriptively portrays the character of the man that made him quickly the friend of every acquaintance:

"Harry Hughes was a gentleman and socially there was never a better man in East Liverpool. He was generous to a fault. Though he had one common fault, his good characteristics shone bright enough to hide it."

Until 1897 he worked with the gas company, and within a few months left for the south. While at Ashville, Ky., he enlisted in Company B, of the Second U. S. Regulars, and was immediately stationed at Lithia Springs, Ga. A short time later he was ordered to Porto Rico, where his company remained but ten days, receiving orders to return to America. While stationed at Montauk Point, he contracted malaria and became so bad that he was removed to St. Peter's hospital, Brooklyn. After a while he recovered somewhat and secured a furlough. He spent the time in East Liverpool, and upon his return to camp was ordered before a nexamination board at Savannah, Ga. The physicians pronounced him a victim of locomotor ataxia and the disease rendering him totally unable to serve in the army, he was honorably discharged. # WELLSVILLE

MEMORIAL DAY

Elaborate Program for Its Observance in Wellsville.

The citizens of Wellsville have made all the necessary arrangements to have the celebrations of Memorial day be such that will be long remembered. The principals of this movement are the members of the G. A. R., W. R. C. and S. of V. The various committees appointed by the different organizations have worked unceasingly to have the day prove successful in every way.

At a recent meeting of the executive committee selected to make all arrangements the following officers were appointed: General J. W. Reilly, master of ceremonies; T. A. Lloyd, chief marshal; F. K. Hutcheson, aid; George B. Aten, officer of the day. Those who have charge of the schools are: Prof. J. L. McDonald, W. C. Fraser and T. L. Apple.

The procession will form at the public square and will march promptly at 8 a. m. down Main street to Tenth street, stopping at Ninth street, where the school will join, out Tenth to the cemetery. Returning up Tenth street, to Commerce street, Commerce to Ninth, Ninth to Main, thence to G. A. R. hall, where it will be dismissed.

The program at the cemetery will be:

Prayer .....Rev. W. C. Prewitt
Song, "America"..... Chorus
Decoration of graves.....
.....G. A. R. Services
Reading of President Lincoln's address at Gettysburg.....
..... Dr. B. R. Parke
Benediction.....Rev. C. E. Clark

Quite a number of organizations have expressed a desire to join the procession and the various labor organizations of the city have engaged Haines' band, of East Liverpool, to furnish music for the day. If this fine weather continues the celebration will be one that has never been surpassed.

An Enjoyable Musical Event.

The organ recital given last evening in the M. E. church by Paris R. Meyers, of Wheeling, was one of the finest ever rendered in this city. His program consisted of nine instrumental pieces and several selections by a male quartet from Wheeling. The church was crowded despite the hot weather and all enjoyed the program. While Mr. Meyers' pieces were exceedingly fine still the vast crowd seemed to enjoy the beautiful singing of the quartet. A neat sum, after all expenses were deducted, was added to the church's treasury.

READY FOR LIFE'S BATTLE IS THE CLASS OF 1903

described points of interest, scenes and events in the old world, including Europe, Asia and Africa, the return journey and its pleasant memories. It was all well rendered and deeply interesting to the large audience.

Following speeches of the class Prof. Rayman made a few brief remafks which were fitting and interesting and received the due appreciation o. the audience. Following these remarks the presentation of the highest honors to Miss Alta Flowers and the diplomas to the class of 1903 concluded the exercises.

The words of the closing s ong, "The Buckeye State," sung in an impressive and pleasing manner by Will A. Rhodes, were written by Walter J. Blakely, a former well known resident of East Liverpool. He now lives in St. Louis, and is a member of the Louisana purchase exposition commission. Mr. Blakely spend several days in this city about two months ago, and while visiting the schools promised the verses for the melody. The class joined in the chorus with much spirit.

The discussions of the evening are here summarized:

Bailey Davenport Gipner

Had the honor of decribing the events leading up to the beginning of the imaginary trip abroad and told of what happened to the class while it was making the journey across the sea. He explained that the board of education had agreed to pay all expenses and provide a suitable chaperon. The start was made from East Liverpool the second week in June and there was an affecting scene at the station as the class took its departure. Friends, relatives and even the enemies had assembled for the occasion and bade them godspeed. The journey to New York and the voyage across the Atlantic was without event and on the tenth day out the European shore was sighted. It was night when the class disembarked and all were too tired for sightseeing.

Mabel L. Pilgrim

Took particular notice of famous points of London and described the interesting features attached to each in a manner quickly grasped and much enjoyed. She saw Westminster abbey, the place where kings and queens held forth for more than 800 years, where the crowned and royal families lived. The coronation chair brought to mind many historical stories and impressed her deeply. The old tower of London on the Thames and the British museum were visited by her and must have been hugely enjoyed, as they were painted with the words of a poet.

Minnie Stoddard.

London's famous streets were of particular interest to Miss Stoddard and her observation and impressions of them were instructive and interesting. She told of the wanderings of the class through Trafalgar Square, one of London's most historic spots, of the famous national art galleries, the ancient cathedrals, the Nelson monument, almost as familiar to Americans who have never visited London as those who have lived years in the great English capital.

Will A. Rhodes

Enjoyed a personal interview with Lord Balfour, who is now the chief colonial secretary. He found the great statesman to be a lover of strenuous living, like our president, Theodore Roosevelt. He is refined, fastidious; loves books and has a noticeable taste for art. He delights in righteous discomfort for a rival, but never triumphs over the victory of an opponent. He enjoys a commanding influence and though now famous has seemingly only entered on his grand career.

Maude Emeline Barlow.

There was a great attraction in the homes of the English to Miss Barlow and from her observation she contrasted them with those of America. The different in our mode of living with that of our English cousins is very marked. The stately homes of England are very beautiful, the tapestry, decorations and other adornments being of a most princely and inimitable type. Regret was expressed that the stay in London was not long enough to permit of more precise investigations.

Blanche N. McDonnell.

The peculiar names given to the inns of England attracted the attention of Miss McDonnell. In every one that sheltered the members of the class they found a royal hospitality. From the names their places of shelter were selected, and among the appealing names were the White Horse, the Red Dragon and many others famous in history and fiction.

Ruby Agnes Kinsey

Remembered well the experience of her self and classmates on the glorious Fourth of July in London. She noted that American patriotism shown forth on many faces in the mother country, but thought it queer when apprised of certain restrictions placed upon the people. She knew that restrictions were made on many things in the old country, but thought that on the celebrated day rule and government should be dispensed with. She was with a crowd of Americans that chartered a boat for a sail down the Thames. One of the party fired a sky rocket and all were surprised to see a nearby ship suddenly stop and then start toward them. It was later discovered that the rocket was similar to a sign of distress.

Mary Brozka.

Sunny Spain and her people found a place in the heart of Miss Brozka, although the national capital, famous old Madrid, was a disappointment. She found Madrid a great city of almost 400,000 inhabitants, where luxury and beggary was emphasized above any other city of Europe. The number of peddlers is greater and they are a pest to the traveler, following one until the square, called "the Gate of the Sun," is reached. Here they are forbidden. Miss Brozka noted that the famous old fountains of the city were crumbling and that instead of being repaired new ones were being constructed. Madrid is the first city in the world in promenades, theaters and shows and the passion of the Spaniard for music almost equals that for bull fighting.

Jessie S. Shaw

Was much enthused over her visit in Constantinople. She saw cities more beautiful on the long trip, but the metropolis of Turkey had features to be found only in Constantinople. Narrow streets and high buildings whose eves almost intermingle from opposite sides of the thoroughfares. The streets are lined almost continuously with men, women and children. Their characteristics are plainly to be observed. Laziness seems to be a disease among them, those who can afford it having not less than three slaves to do less than the average American would scoff at as work. The streets are filled with dogs and they are ever dominating, every one being compelled to make room for them.

Josiah Clare Smith.

The crumbling ruins of Rome, the eternal city, and the capital of one of the greatest empires the world ever knew, drew the attention of Mr. Smith. He visited the forum, where once was heard the unparalleled eloquence of Cicero. He spent hours in the temple of St. Anthony, the stragetic key to the city, and was lost in wonderment at the Coliseum. There he observed the natives enter the crumbling ruins to worship at a crucifix of the virgin.

Florence L. Webber

Will never forget her sojourn in Cairo, the famous capital of ancient Egypt. Its scenes recalled the numerous biblical stories of which she had heard and read, and a gaze upon the realities made a l sting impression. Considerable time was spent in viewing the mosques. In one where the children attend daily school a noticeable feature was the absence of tiers and desks; the books being printed so that it is necessary to read from right to left, and the children before entering the mosques are seen to lay aside their shoes, but all wear hats. The streets are filled with beggars, who are mostly all cripples. It is said that one-third of Cairo's population are blind, or have defective eyesight.

Maude Shive.

Gliding upon the black waters of the Nile, aboard the Mayflower, one of the stately steamers that ply the stream, Miss Shive received her most vivid impressions of the foreign lands. Snugly esconced upon the steamer chairs the members of the class were carried past scenes historic through all the ages—past the pyramids, the giant accomplishment of ancient hordes which time has sought in vain to efface. They

NAU'S DYSPEPSIA CURE— IT CURES THE CAUSE.

"For 20 years until within the last 15 months I have been greatly troubled with indigestion and have used a great many remedies without obtaining any permanent relief. About the 15th of June, 1900 I commenced using Nau's Dyspepsia Cure, and am pleased to say that I consider myself entirely cured of all stomach troubles. I have delayed expressing to you my opinion of your valuable remedy until such a time has elapsed as to convince me of my entire recovery. At the time I began to use Nau's Dyspepsia Cure, my health was in a critical condition and my friends had almost given up hopes of my recovery, and I am satisfied in my opinion that had it not been for Nau's Dyspepsia Cure, I would not be alive to write this letter." ## WELLSVITLE VS. CANTON

A Series of Three Interesting Games at Central Park Promised.

The Marines, of Canton, are in Wellsville today to open a series of three games with the local team at Central park. One game will be played today and two tomorrow at 10 a. m. and 3 p. m. The visitors are strong and skillful players and will make the home team knuckle down to hard playing to win. They have crossed bats with the Y. M. C. A. team, of East Liverpool, and proved a worthy opponent.

The Wellsville team has started out on another winning streak, since Zanesville left town, and it would be a great disappointment if it loses to Canton.

The outfielders will not have a very desirable place to play, as, it is alleged, that Murphy got tired the other day while mowing the grass and broke the machine to keep from cutting it. He says ball playing is all right, but that he and "work" fell out long ago. The holes caused by the bad rain have been filled and the diamond is in the best of condition.

The crowd will probably not be so large today, but Saturday about 800 people are expected to attend, as all business houses will close.

Sebring Gets Potts.

Dennis Potts, the much-advertised base ball pitcher, who went to Alliance last week to pitch for the Alliance team this season, has already sought new pastures. Saturday Potts, with the consent of Alliance, pitched a game for Sebring against New Berlin. After the game Potts was persuaded, it is said, by the offer of a handsome salary, to agree to play with Sebring for the season. Sebring fans are enthusiastic over the valuable addition to their team, while Alliance enthusiasts are correspondingly depressed.

SPORTING MISCELLANY.

New York leads the National league in batting averages.

The Canton Marines play at Wellsville today and tomorrow.

West Virginia university defeated Homestead at Morgantown by a score of 5 to 4.

Kid McCoy is having luck playing the races and again announces his retirement from the ring.

President Comisky, of the Chicago White Stockings, wired Manager Callahan at Cleveland to purchase a hat for each member of the team as a reward for the victory of Wednesday.

The body of Hank L. Owens, a former wealthy turfman and horse owner, who was found dead in his room in a Memphis hotel Monday, was buried in the potters' field. He is said to have left an estate of $71,000 in mining property in Montana.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

Has Again and Again Cured After Physicians Have Failed.

For years men and women in every rank and walk of life have been sounding the praises of Paine's Celery Compound, and telling of its victories over disease and death. Those who were most heavily burdened with disease, victims of suffering pronounced incurable by doctors, and who stood on the brink of the grave, are the people who most gratefully remember Prof. Phelps, of Dartmouth College, the eminent physician and scientist who discovered Paine's Celery Compound, the medicine that never fails to conquer blood diseases, dyspepsia, rheumatism, neuralgia, liver and kidney troubles. Mr. F. Marion Sikes, of Cronley, N. C., happily rescued from a complication of dangerous ailments, long standing dyspepsia, muscular pains and after results of typhoid fever—nervousness, weakness, watery blood and sluggish circulation, gratefully and thankfully writes for the benefit of thousands of men and women who suffer today. Mr. Sikes says:

"For many years I suffered with dyspepsia. All that I ate did me no good, and I could find nothing that would give me relief. Last year I was taken with a pain in my leg that ran from my hip to the end of my toes. I had as good a doctor as I could find in Wilmington, but he only gave me relief for awhile. I was then taken with typhoid fever and my family and friends had given up all hope. A friend of mine, Captain Walter Taft, advised me to try Paine's Celery Compound as I was so nervous I could not stand alone. I began the use of the wonderful medicine and before I had taken half a bottle I felt like a new man. I have now used two bottles and am today a well man and feel better than I have for ten years. I thank my God for the use of this great and marvelous compound."

Read This—It Costs You Nothing

And May Be Worth Thousands of Dollars to You.

Mr. H. K. Mitchell, of New Philadelphia, O., speaks of Life Plant in the following emphatic language:

Life Plant is a wonder. We have used it in our family for nearly a year and find it to be all that is claimed for it in giving tone and vigor to the system. It certainly cures rheumatic trouble. In fact I believe it will cure any disease that is reached through the blood.

We guarantee the genuineness of every TESTIMONIAL. The above was indeed a remarkable cure, but it was simple and easy when the proper method was followed. It is a notable fact in science, that disease germs can not exist in pure matter. There must be some impurity else they die. You might arrest a disease by local application, and take some poisons fatal to disease germs, but you cannot hope for a cure by that system of treatment. You must get at the cause.

Impure blood is the cause of practically ALL diseases. To cure any disease you must by some means purify the BLOOD. Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Rheumatism, Eczema, Hives, Tetter, Catarrh and Asthma, are the most familiar forms of blood diseases. Life Plant purifies the BLOOD. It renews LIFE, it restores the vital element in the BLOOD. That is why it cures diseases, and prevents disease. It is nature's way. It's the common sense way. Try it NOW. DELAY is DANGEROUS.

READY FOR LIFE'S BATTLE IS THE CLASS OF 1903

traveled through a country where rain and even clouds are unknown and where the monotony of clear skies became oppressive.

Lillian Brookes

Chose Benares as a panoramic spot from which she could gaze upon the beauteousness of British India. She thought she was in the center of the earth. It was the greatest city of India and in it was the beginning and the creation of the universe. The trip to the city was an enjoyable one and the scenic production, all of God's handiwork, barred the description she thought it worthy of. In the city of her choice there are four noted universities and numberless colleges. There are very few in the city that have not had the advantage of a college education and all of them have studied the English language.

William Harrison George.

The idiosyncrasies of the German student solemnly impressed Mr. George, and he wondered how young men who devoted so much time and thought to educational pursuits could still maintain the ancient and cruel custom of dueling. Yet the students are proud of the scars received in combats with the sword with fellow students and the custom flourishes. There are but few if any fatalities; in fact, the percentage of permanent injury is less than in the American game of foot ball. When the class stopped at Heidelberg he met a celebrated professor and from him learned many of the methods of the great universities and the ambitions of the students.

Cora Mae Fisher

Found a most pleasing incident while visiting in the Netherlands. One day, she in company with a number of other Americans, was enjoying the enchantment of the beautiful woods surrounding Holland and all were met by a stranger, a young girl. She treated the American tourists with much courtesy and made them feel much disappointed when she suddenly left the forest with a young gentleman who had found her among the strange gathering. All were mystified as to her name. The following day they were so surprised upon seeing the very same girl riding through the streets in the royal carriage and were more surprised when upon inquiry they were informed that the lovable and common-appearing and acting lady was Wilhelmina, Holland's queen.

Anna Brozka.

The peasantry of Europe has long been an interesting subject for scientists, historians and fictionists, and in studying this class she traveled from place to place. Miss Brozka found much of interest. There is a vast difference in the peasants of the different nations of Europe. Spanish peasants, as she found them, are thrifty, and active, but ignorant. The opportunities of advanced civilization have been denied them and they live crudely but contentedly. French peasants cling to old manners and customs and have an undying love for their traditions and liberties. Italian peasants are indolent, deceitful and dishonest. These traits form a dark cloud in the moral atmosphere and hangs like a curse over that fair land.

Claudia Evelyn Gill

Did not catch the same vessel that bore her classmates home and was compelled to make the trip alone. Her experiences were thrillingly interesting and she will never regret the voyage. She never ralized, however, what grand old America means to an American born until the morning that she awoke and going to the hurricane deck noticed the sight of American soil in the distance. What a magnificent sight it was to her. She saw the nation's emblem flying in the breeze for the first time since leaving New York and was struck with its true meaning. Arriving at Boston she tarried there a short time, continued to New York and gave a sigh of relief when she landed in the union station at Pittsburg. There she had to wait an hour on a C. & P. train to carry her home, and it was an awful hour. When she did finally get the train and it pulled into the vicinity of Dry Run she was so thankful at a sight of dear, old, dark and ugly East Liverpool.

Blaine Hamlet Cochran.

During the entire trip the energies of Mr. Cochran were devoted to the observance of peculiar characters and he found many of them in all the lands that were visited. Some of them provided him with a great deal of amusement and he was moved to tell of them in rhyme. His verses jingled nicely.

Mary Belle Hill

Was genuinely surprised at the impression made upon Lady Bassett by the graduating class of '03. Her ladyship was almost unequal to the occasion. She could hardly convince herself that her appearance was such as to meet the favor and approval of such a distinguished body of American society leaders. Her confusion was soon lost to her, however, when she noticed the wincing of our crowd and the uncomfortable glances that issued from us. It was then that laughter was reversed. The awkwardness of the graduates in the presence of Lady Bassett was indeed amusing.

Mary Eusebia Beal.

On the trip down the beautiful Rhine, which pursues a winding course of 950 miles and loses itself in the German ocean, Miss Beal found the greatest points of interest. On every crag loned a magnificent castle, most of them built centuries ago in the feudal days of the Anglo-Saxon. She visited Heidelberg castle, supposed to have been built in the fifth century, and saw the huge trees growing in the moat. Between the crags are many pretty little villages inhabited by a thrifty and contented people.

Maude Harris

Was bound and determined to tell a story that when related to her was one of interest, though she knew at the time that it was merely a dream. She was informed that the Cologne cathedral was the greatest in the country, was designed by a man whose name was never known and never will be. He agreed to give the plans and specifications to a young man should he in return grant him his soul. The young man agreed, but did not fulfill it. He made an appointment with the maker of the plans and while the latter was unawares he grabbed the plans and stayed the hand of the ingenious one. The only words of reproach offered by the men were that he would never let it be known who had completed the great architectural feat—and he never did.

Hazel Hanley.

Many women go to Europe for no other reason than to shop in the great marts of Europe, and Miss Hanley confessed this to be the chief objective of the girls of the class. She visited the shops of London and soon learned to be a shrewd buyer, an accomplishment in which she took a great deal of pride. She delighted in the flower market, where a few pennies would buy huge bouquets. In Paris she encountered the shrewd and talkative merchant; in Constantinople, the bearded Turk sitting, smoking his pipe, among his wares. Miss Hanley observed three rules in her shopping—first, to always look bored; second, to exhibit no interest, and third, to apparently have no idea what she wanted to buy.

Richard Reeves Rigby

Decided after witnessing the enjoyment of the English with their common sports that they should be introduced into America. He was much taken in with the game of cricket and gave an excellent description of the sport, the one that is played by all classes of England. He also liked the great parade, in which every one of the old country indulges. Both of them demand generalship and are essential to the improvement of physical needs.

Pearle Marie Albright.

The members of the class had some amusing experiences during the visit to Germany when they discarded their native tongue and attempted the use of the language of that country, and Miss Albright told of them. One of the girls, in calling for the services of a porter, actually proposed marriage, much to the astonishment of the good man, who already had a wife and five children. They soon realized how little they knew of the language in spite of the study they had given it in the East Liverpool public schools. Miss Albright agrees with Mark Twain, when he said the German language was the most slipshod, slipper and elusive to the grasp.

Lillian Inez Deringer

Had read Longfellow's beautiful description of Nuremburg and Bruges and would never have been satisfied had she missed the visit. Both cities were her ideal living places. She loved to view the relics in the mammoth German museum and the crumbling walls that are to be seen on every side. The narrow streets in Bruges appealed to her, especially when filled with the typical Germans. The sights of the two palatial appearing cities will never pass from her memory.

Mary Ethel Fisher.

Many beautiful ballads and tales of love have been told with the scene laid in Venice, that city of canals and piazzas, gondolas and cathedrals, and there Miss Fisher was held spellbound as she contemplated the soft beauty of the streets of water, lighted by the soft moonlight. Many cities boast of their piazzas, but none equal that of Venice's San Marco, which is thronged nightly with the gayest people of the world. The very first day of her visit Miss Fisher secured a gondola and gondolier and traversed many of the 147 canals, through the beautiful arches, around sharp curves and beneath the famous bridge of sighs, by the ancient cathedral, where she heard voices take up the evening song until the chorus was swelled by three hundred.

Georgia Croxall

Avowed that Paris was the most beautiful city visited by the class. She noted the lovely characteristics of the people, the men and the women. The Parisians, she says, are a beauty-loving people. Until her visit she never half realized what a true Parisian was, and she found them an enjoyable lot, a people that believe in pleasure and only pleasure. Their capacity for enjoyment is not limited. They love sunshine, elegant attire and genteel manners. The gay capital is thought of every time the word France is spoken. Its boulevards are a blaze of light and the enchantment of the magnificent city is wonderful.

Arthur Dickson.

Like many other European tourists, Mr. Dickson found great delight in that unsurpassable work of nature, the Alps. The class visited the village of Lucerne, on the beautiful little lake of the same name. After a ride upon its clear waters, the class made the ascent of one of the mighty peaks, whose crest is reared high into the heavens, capped with snow eternally. Teams were secured and they wound around and up the mountain roads until it became impassable for the vehicles. They toiled on foot, until overtaken by a torrent, when the scene became grandly impressive. Rain fell in torrents and vivid lightning flashes rent the heavens while thunder roared from crag to crag.

Ethel Grace Herbert

Had witnessed a fog in the Smoky City and thought it mysterious but she never got lost in one. While in London one night she was promenading one of the principal thoroughfares when very suddenly one of the fogs for which the great city is widely known settled over and around her. It completely enveloped the earth. She could not penetrate its depth. For many minutes she stood in one spot, having not the least idea which way to turn. She finally started—she did not know where and it was into a most embarrassing dilemma that she found herself. Before she was rescued she had fallen down a number of times and is now suffering with a broken ankle as a result.

Mabel Claire Nellis.

Bonny Scotland is a land greatly loved and she greatly enjoyed her visit there. One of the first spots in the itinerary was famous Gretna Green, the haven of runaway or eloping couples. They saw the famous old blacksmith shop, whose smith was the necessary witness to the many marriage ceremonies. It is claimed that he made a better living from his witness fees than he did at smithing. They traversed through Dunfries, made famous by Douglas and Anna Laurie, and down the winding river of Ayr, sung so nobly by Robert Burns, Scotland's greatest poet. They visited Edinburg, Scotland's center of learning and thence on to Inverness over the highlands.

Ernest Willard Thompson

Enjoyed while visiting in foreign lands in pointing out to the countrymen where American products are being sought. It was with pride for his home country that he gazed upon the handiwork of the American at every turn. America's invasion of Europe is discovered quickly by the tourist. He found our competition in Europe to be great but in all cases it was his pleasure to note that we lead. Under a protective tariff we have been able to build up and develop. Our advantages will be more with the passing of years and though we are a great country today, we are only at the threshold of what is destined to be ours.

Alta Virginia Flowers.

The keeping of a diary for the class did not prove to be a successful experiment, although Miss Flowers had recorded many amusing experiences, incident to their travels, before it was abandoned. Through their ignorance of foreign customs they were constantly trespassing some regulation but managed to extricate themselves without serious results.

Maud Elsie Webber

Treasures the memories of her sojourn in Athens. She only regrets that she did not have more time in the metropolis of Greece. In the acropolis of the pretty city she found hundreds of things of interest. Visiting it by day and by night she saw it in every phase. It is a most picturesque city and it was with reluctance that she terminated her stay. The New Athens is a clean white city. In her opinion its the pleasantest city in the east.

William Earl Cripps.

The average American citizen regards the hotel porter with a great deal of awe and in Europe he is even more formidable but Mr. Cripps found the only way of pacifying him. One word tells the secret—tips. The ways of the porters of fleecing innocents are many and varied but Mr. Cripps learned of them all and that tipping was an ancient custom.

James Howard McBane.

Traveling is one of the greatest known educators. There is nothing that so broadens the mind. It appeals strongly to one, it develops the mind and forms character. The impression one receives is lasting and has an elevating effect. It is the only way that we can get a real idea of life. There is a kind of emotion about it and by travel all nations are sewed closer together. The speaker will ever remember the impressive sights and recommends every one wishing a true education to travel.

NERVOUS HEADACHE BREEDS INSANITY

Many a person's whole pleasure in life is ruined by the fear of nervous headaches. Any little excitement, no matter what, business or social, brings them on. The feet and hands grow cold, the head is hot, the eyes stiff, the temples throb, and only in the quiet of a darkened room is relief found. This condition must be checked or it means complete mental ruin. To those people Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills come as a blessing. They do not stop, they cure the headaches. They do not blanket, they build up. They put the nervous system in a strong, vigorous, sturdy condition—a condition that gives one resistive power and enables them to again enjoy life's pleasures.

Mrs. George Hall, of No. 386 West Market Street, East Liverpool, Ohio, says: "I was bilious—had nervous headaches, hard and constant—there was a general feeling of weakness and depression. I was asked to try Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills and did so, getting them at Larkins' drug store. The result was very good indeed as the biliousness overcome—the headaches cured and bodily and nerve strength furnished."

said a great business man, "are my partners and they need all the strength and courage I can give them," and he forthwith paid for a $1,000,000 policy in The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York. Not without the most careful investigation, however, extending over six months. He was convinced by just such facts as led the President of a National Bank in New York to make the curious and shrewd provision in his will, which is contained in "A Banker's Will." ## A HINT TO THE WISE

This Advice Will Bear Repeating in East Liverpool.

"Don't chase shadows."

Doubtful proof is but a shadow.

You can rely on testimony of people you know.

You can investigate local evidence.

Mr. G. H. Garner, the well known manufacturer of ice cream at 168 Jackson street, says: "My trouble set in with a soreness and stiffness over my whole body; my appetite was poor and I was annoyed a good deal with bloating at the stomach. There was a uniary difficulty and I felt generally used up. I tried two or three different remedies, but they did not do me the least good. Having heard Doan's Kidney Pills so highly spoken of I purchased a box at the W. & W. Pharmacy. I did not take over half of it before I was entirely free from any trouble, my appetite was good, and my old time vigor restored. I recommended them to many of my friends among them P. J. Green, V. S., and they all speak of them in the highest terms."

TRIFLING WITH YOUR HEALTH

Is like Playing with a loaded Gun. If you have Kidney Trouble attend to it at once.

It is easy to tell whether your Kidneys or bladder are diseased. Take a bottle or glass tumbler and fill it with urine. If there is a sediment—a powder-like substance—after standing a day and night, if it is pale or discolored, ropy or stringy, there is something wrong with the Kidneys. Other sure signs of disease are a desire to urinate often, pain in the back, or if your urine stains linen.

There is no question that Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the best and surest medicine in the world for diseases of the Kidneys, Liver, Bladder and Blood, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Chronic Constipation, and the sicknesses peculiar to women. It quickly relieves and cures inability to hold urine and the necessity of getting up a number of times during the night, and puts an end to the scalding pain when passing urine.

The Rev. Henry P. Miller, pastor Baptist Church, Spartenburg, S. C., writes:

"For years I suffered with Kidney, liver and heart troubles, swimming in the head, dull headache and numbness of the limbs. Physicians prescribed for me and I took different medicines, but none of them did me any good. But Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy cured me in about two weeks."

It is for sale by all druggists in the New 50 Cent Size and the regular $1.00 size bottles—less than a cent a dose.

CRUSHES OUT THE LIFE

The most loathsome and repulsive of all living things is the serpent, and the vilest and most degrading of all human diseases is Contagious Blood Poison. The serpent sinks its fangs into the flesh and almost instantly the poison passes through the entire body. Contagious Blood Poison, beginning with a little ulcer, soon contaminates every drop of blood and spreads throughout the whole system. Painful swellings appear in the groins, a red rash and copper colored splotches break out on the body, the mouth and throat become ulcerated, and the hair and eye brows fall out; but these symptoms are mild compared to the wretchedness and suffering that come in the latter stages of the disease when it attacks the bones and more vital parts of the body. It is then that Contagious Blood Poison is seen in all its hideousness. The deep eating abscesses and sickening ulcers and tumors show the whole system is corrupted and poisoned, and unless relief comes soon this serpent disease tightens its coils and crushes out the life. The only antidote for the awful virus is S. S. S. It is nature's remedy, composed entirely of vegetable ingredients. S. S. S. destroys every vestige of the poison, purifies the blood and removes all danger of transmitting the awful taint to others. Nothing else will do this. Strong mineral remedies, like mercury and potash, dry up the sores and drive in the disease, but do not cure permanently.

Send for our home treatment book and write us if in need of medical advice or special information. This will cost you nothing.

A JOLLY TIME FOR CHILDREN

came along and with a nickel stopped the tears and secured the boy a ride on the "flying ginny." Emmet is just 9 and is a pupil of the McKinley school.

The reporter was just in time when he visited the lower end of the grove to rescue Kittie Smith's box of cake and sandwiches from the hands of "Red" Mason and "Skinny" Adams. The boys had brought no lunch, and being of the true young American stamp, they were not backward when they saw that Kittie was all alone and had a shoe box under her arm. The property was restored to its rightful owner and the boys "bummed" a dime from Charley Denning and invested it in a couple of sardine sandwiches.

Carl Thompson tore his coat all the way up the back, showing some of the fellows how the professor loops the loop. Carl is an athletic young man, but in this instance he had not made anowance for the length of his legs and they got tangled. He fell down the steps at the roller coaster and tore his stockings. This was no drawback, however, as he said he was going in his bare fell, anyhow. He was afterward seen to trade a gum ball for a stick of chewing gum, and was looking as happy as anyone on the ground. His friends say he is a "Smart Alex" anyway.

The large crowd began to disperse as early as 4 o'clock and from that time until after 7, the railway men will be busy. Not a single incident occurred at the park during the day that interfered with the complete enjoyment of the more than four thousand boys and girls.

RIVER NAVIGATION IS ON ONCE MORE

Whistles of Towboats and Packets Again Heard Along the Stream.

The whistles of the packets and coal boats were heard yesterday for the first time for several weeks, signifying that navigation had been resumed on the river. A rise has been noted since early yesterday morning and before night a light boating stage had been reached. Capt. Martindill, of the wharfboat, received messages from all the boats in this trade, stating that regular trips would be resumed.

The Greenwood passed up last night at 8 o'clock with a good trip and is due down tonight at 8. The Ben Hur passed down last night, and will be one of the up boats Sunday. The Keystone State and the Kanawha will be up on scheduled time Sunday afternoon.

The towboat Cruiser led the coal fleet, which left Pittsburg yesterday. The other boats to pass here were the Fallie, J. C. Risher, and Dave Wood. The entire shipment aggregated 700,000 bushels.

Hall-Jackson.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Good, of Seventh street, East Liverpool, last evening at 8 o'clock. The contracting parties were Samuel B. Jackson, messenger at the American plate and sheet mill, Wellsville, and Miss Katherine Hall, of this city. W. M. Payne, of Wellsville, and Miss Nora Ormes, of East Liverpool, attended the couple. Rev. J. H. Mason, of the A. M. E. church, performed the ceremony. A fine wedding supper was served. The house was very tastefully decorted. The couple left this morning for a trip through the east. They will visit Washington and other cities.

One man in New York had social aspirations which somewhat warped his admiration of his homespun father. The father actually sometimes relapses into the barbarism of eating with his knife. But the man has a little son whose eyes seek and find out the truth. The other day the little boy licked some mashed potatoes from his knife, and his mother chided him. "Sammy, dear," she said, "only stupid people eat with their knives." "How can you say that, mamma?" cried the child. "Grandpa eats with his knife. And he made all our money!"

Why We Say Bandbox.

"The collars worn by the English in the seventeenth century," said an old hat dealer, "were big, starched things a good deal like a ruff. Sometimes indeed they were bigger than the biggest ruff. They required a box of a good size to be carried about in.

"These collars were called bands. Ben Jonson in 'Volpone' says, 'This band shows not my neck enough.' Steele says, 'The next that mounted the stage was an under citizen of the bath, a person remarkable among the inferior people of that place for his great wisdom and his broad band.'

"Bands, you see, were collars, and by the same token bandboxes were collar boxes. They were big and round, just big enough to carry a clean, well starched band—just as big, in fact, as they are today.

"Whenever, therefore, you talk of bandboxes you are unconsciously referring to the collars as huge as ruffs that the English of the seventeenth century wore."

Character Building.

Character is the wool of honor from which a coat of mail can be woven that the swiftest arrow of shame or the keenest knife of disrepute cannot pierce. Every thought that enters our mind, every act we do and every word we utter adds a link to the golden chain of character. The strength of a steam engine can be estimated to within an ounce of its limit, but it is impossible to estimate the force of a noble character. The hardest hearts are softened and the most repulsive dispositions become fascinating. Our failures and our successes help to form a reputation that may be destroyed by an external force, but the destruction of a character can only be effected by some internal force.—Our Boys' Magazine.

CARE OF INSANE A GRAVE PROBLEM

Agitation Started in Stark County Reveals a Serious State of Affairs.

HOSPITALS OF THE STATE

Not In Shape to Receive Those Who Should Be Removed From Infirmaries — Improvements Not Ready For a Year—Legal Question.

Canton, May 29.—The agitation participated in by Prosecuting Attorney R. H. Day, of Stark county, and the commissioners, as to what disposition shall be made of the insane and epileptics in the infirmaries of the state after June 1, has stirred up the governor and other state officials as to the gravity of the situation, and it is possible that an extra session of the legislature may be called to make an appropriation to meet the expense of caring for the unfortunates.

When the appropriations were made for the building of the Massillon state hospital and the enlarging of other similar institutions, the condition was inserted that after June 1, 1903, it should be unlawful for any infirmary to retain any insane inmates. They should all be turned over to the state and cared for in the proper asylums. This also included epileptics.

It is now within a few days of the time when the law goes into effect and hospitals of the state are not in condition to receive the insane. Realizing that they cannot legally be kept in the infirmary, the county commissioners called the attention of Prosecutor Day to the matter about a week ago and he at once notified the authorities at the Massillon and the Ohio state hospital for epileptics at Gallipolis and Governor George K. Nash that after June 1 the state would have to take charge of the 70 or more insane and epileptics in the Stark county infirmary, as there was no warrant of law after June 1 by which the county could support them.

Prosecutor Day received a letter from Governor Nash stating that he had taken the matter up with the attorney general, and sent a copy of his communication to Sheets, in which the fact was set forth that the legislature had made no appropriation for caring for the extra number of insane which would become its charge after the law goes into effect. Money was appropriated to enlarge the asylums, but the improvements will not be completed until a year or more.

The governor submitted to the attorney general two questions which were practically those raised by Prosecutor Day, as follows:

"What can the trustees and superintendents of these hospitals legally do when the insane from the infirmaries are offered to them? And what can the county commissioners and infirmary directors of the different counties legally do under the circumstances?"

The governor promised as soon as his legal advisor gave an opinion to send a copy of it to the prosecutor.

The situation is one that is embarrassing. The insane cannot be turned loose in the community, yet apparently no one is authorized to care for them. If the infirmaries are compelled to keep them, the county may demand that the state pay the expense, by a future appropriation if no money is available at the present time.

LIVE TOPICS ABOUT TOWN

Will Reed, the popular druggist, had a pleasant experience yesterday. One of his Mi-o-na customers called at the store expressly to thank him for recommending that remedy. Although beginning its use less than a month ago, this party, a prominent business man, considers himself completely cured of indigestion today and has gained about 10 pounds in weight.

In a letter received by Mr. Reed was the following testimonial from Francis Murphy, the famous apostle of temperance. Mr. Reed wants everybody in East Liverpool to read what Mr. Murphy writes: "Mi-o-na is a wonderful remedy. I have used it and with all my heart and my renewed strength I would thank you for it. I would gladly recommend Mi-o-na to all who are suffering from indigestion or dyspepsia."

Mi-o-na has gained fame through being sold on the "No Cure No Pay" plan. Although Mr. Reed has sold hundreds of packages with his personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure, he has had less than 2 per cent ask for their money back. Remember that if Mi-o-na does not cure you, your money is cheerfully returned.

It pays to advertise articles of merit in the News Review. Mi-o-na has been advertised but little, yet Druggist Will Reed reports it the best selling medicine he handles. This shows the advantage of the News Review's advertising when one has an article of superior merit to sell on the "No Cure No Pay" plan, the way Mi-o-na is sold.

STRONG RESOLUTION WAS PASSED

By Sons of Veterans for Purpose of Bringing About a More Strict Observance of Memorial Day.

At the last meeting of the local camp Sons of Veterans, a strong and very significant resolution was passed. The organization has been endeavoring for several years to bring about a more strict observance of the day set apart for the decoration of the soldiers' graves. The resolution reads as follows:

Resolved, That we, the members of Gen. Garfield camp, No. 3, S. of V., think it proper and desire to place ourselves on record as being against anything not in accord with the proper observance of Memorial day. We call upon all patriotic citizens to refrain from pleasure seeking, ball games, picnics and all other sports. Let us give the old soldier at least one day in the year, for all that they have done for us and our country.

SUMMER THEATRE

Contracts Let for Plumbing, Scenery, and Other Work.

The contract for the plumbing work at the summer theatre at Rock Springs has been secured by D. J. Hyams, and work upon its early completion has already been started. The house was opened this afternoon, but it is far from being in a completed state. An additional force of carpenters were put to work early in the week, but the best they could do by working overtime did not result in the task being finished in the time the management had hoped.

The artist who is preparing the scenery has not progressed as rapidly as had been expected, and though there are plenty of drops and other scenery finished to permit the play house to be opened, the task promises to be long drawn out. Stage Manager Joe Bradley, who was engaged several weeks ago, is mounting the scenery as fast as the artists turn it out, and this with other duties demanding his attention, has kept him very busy lately.

EARTHQUAKE KILLS THOUSANDS

Details of Calamity of April 29 Received from British Consul at Erzroom.

Constantinople, May 29.—Two thousand persons were killed by the recent earthquake in the town of Malazherd.

London, May 29.—The foreign office received some details from the British consul at Erzroom regarding the recent earthquake at Malazherd, according to which a strong earthquake, lasting 30 seconds, was felt in the morning of April 29 throughout the entire district between Lake Van and the Russian frontier and as far west as Kharput. The town of Malazherd, consisting of 500 houses, was destroyed and much havoc was wrought in the surrounding villages Colonel Khalil Bey, commanding the garrison at Malazherd, with his whole family; three other officers and 80 soldiers perished in the ruins. Lieutenant Colonel Tayib-Bey, whose family perished, became insane. The telegraph operator who sent the news of the catastrophe said he himself was badly injured and that his wife and sister had been killed.

The foreign office has appealed for subscriptions for the relief of the destitute Mohammedans and Christians of the Malazhard district.

ALMOST 100 YEARS OLD IS MRS. REBECCA SHARP

A Resident of Columbiana County Who Vividly Recalls Pioneer Days.

Mrs. Nancy Roseberg Sharp is 98 years old and has lived in Columbiana county nearly all her life. She now resides with her son, Robert B. Sharp, near Clark's Mill in Washington township, on a farm where she has lived for the last 63 years. Mrs. Sharp remembers all the incidents in the early history of the county and can name many men prominent in its affairs. She is still in possession of a bright and active mind, an accurate memory and delights in recounting the incidents connected with her childhood days. She expresses keen interest in the Lisbon centennial celebration and owing to her physical infirmities will be unable to attend.

Nancy Roseberg Sharp was born in December, 1805, in Pittsburg. With her parents, Thomas and Margaret Roseburg, she descended the Ohio river to Wellsville when she was but seven weeks old. They came to West Point and later located on a farm in Wayne township which is still owned by a member of the family, George Roseberg, of Idaville, Ind. Mrs. Sharp's parents moved to this homestead in the spring of 1806, and this is where she spent her girlhood. In 1833 she was married to Dr. John Sharp and moved to Minerva. After a short residence there they moved to Clark's Mill which was then being built, and where she has since lived. Mrs. Sharp has been a life-long member of the United Presbyterian church.

Bulgarians Worsted.

Salonica, European Turkey, May 29.—In an encounter between Turks and Bulgarians, May 26, in the forest near Smerdesh, south of Lake Presba, 17 Bulgarians and 3 Turks were killed. At Ploshka the Bulgarians destroyed a Turkish tower with dynamite, after which a detachment of Turkish troops arrived on the scene and routed the insurgents, killing four of them.

Emperor Introduces New Exercises.

Berlin, May 29.—Emperor William assembled all the commanding generals of Germany at the annual review on the Doeberitz drill ground, near Potsdam, to initiate them into new exercises, which are kept a profound secret from the public. No civilians were permitted to be present. A grand concert preceding the military spectacle contained only pieces by royal composers.

McGovern and Attell Matched.

Buffalo, May 29.—Terry McGovern and Abe Attell have been matched to fight 20 rounds at Fort Erie, June 15.

To Settle the Question.

He was engaged to be married, and every one knows how the engaged man talks when he gets a friend cornered.

"She is the loveliest and best girl that ever lived," he asserted.

"Sure?" inquired the friend.

"Sure! Of course I'm sure. You don't doubt it, do you?"

"Certainly not," replied the friend hastily, "only"—

"Only what?"

"Oh, I suppose it's all right, but I'd like to introduce you to Dobley."

"Who's Dobley?"

"Oh, another friend of mine who told me yesterday that he was engaged to the loveliest and best girl that ever lived, and I'd like to have you two get together and settle the matter."—Chicago Post.

HOW TO SAVE MONEY

Take Advantage of Half Price Offer Made by B. C. Ansley.

In these times when living expenses have increased from thirty to fifty per cent, it is unusual to hear of a standard remedy being offered at half price.

Yet that is the way B. C. Ansley, the popular druggist, is selling Dr. Howard's celebrated specific for the cure of dyspepsia and constipation. In addition to selling a 50c bottle, containing a month's treatment of 60 doses, for 25c, he gives his personal guarantee with every bottle he sells to refund the money if it does not give satisfaction.

Doctor's bills can be saved by the use of Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of dyspepsia and constipation, and by taking advantage of this special half price introductory offer, our readers can save half the regular price of the specific.

MONEY WASTED

By the Present System of Useless Work on the Country Roads.

The county commissioners are going to expend about $2,000 county funds toward paving about two miles of what is known as the Calcutta road. This will be the first country road to be paved in the county and the experiment will be watched with interest. There ought to be more roads permanently improved every year than there are.

Half the time and work on the roads now is time and work wasted and the sooner the farmers change the present system of useless scraping and put in their time and money in permanently fixing the bad places the better it will be for them in every sense of the word.—Columbiana Ledger.

Whitsuntide Feast.

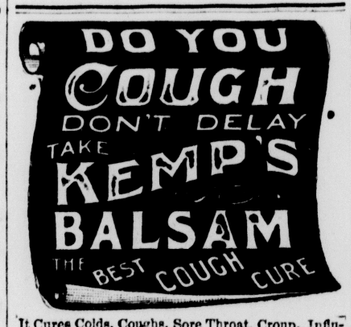
Sunday, May 31, is an important feast of the Catholic and Episcopal churches. It commemorates the descent of the Holy Ghost upon the Apostles, as recorded in the Acts of the Apostles. It is known as Pentecost, or more commonly, Whitsunday. In the Episcopal church the faithful are commanded to receive Holy Communion three times a year, namely, Christmas, Easter and Whitsunday. In England the Whitsuntide is given over to holiday pastimes and is a season eagerly looked forward to by young and old



It Cures Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Croup, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Large bottles 25 cents and 50 cents.

Letters from Women

Cured by the use of Kodol are received daily. Their troubles nearly all begin with indigestion or other stomach disorder.

If the food you eat fails to give strength to your body, it is because the juices secreted by the stomach and digestive organs are inadequate to transform the nutrient properties of the food into blood. That is indigestion. The system is deprived of the amount of nourishment required to keep up the strength, and the result is that one or more of the delicate organs gradually grows weak, and then weaker, until finally it is diseased. Here a great mistake is made. That of treating the diseased organ. The best doctors in the land make this very mistake. Why should they? It is so easy to see that the trouble is not there.

Kodol Cures

This famous remedy puts the stomach and digestive organs in a healthy condition so that rich, red blood is sent coursing through the veins and arteries of every muscle, tissue and fiber throughout every organ of the entire body, and by Nature's law of health, full strength and vigor is soon restored to each.

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders.

I have taken Kodol for nearly two months after each meal and it is the only remedy that gave relief from the terrible pains I endured. After a time I would take it but once a day, and now, while I keep a bottle handy, I seldom need it, as it has cured me. MRS. J. W. COOLBAUGH, Milo Center, N. Y.

A Memorial Day Story

By ROBERT C. V. MEYERS Copyright, 1898, by R. C. V. Meyers

TOMORROW would be Memorial day, and Mrs. Grand was not entirely pleased as she made her way into the station crowded with people to meet her expected visitor. She wondered if Carolina Hemperley were as gray as herself. She scarcely expected her to be as stout, the Hemperleys being the thin side of the family and Carolina having been decidedly lank thirty years ago. Thirty years ago! That was an age. In those thirty years she herself had gone through a lifetime—a wife, a mother, a widow whose only child had married a foreigner and now wished her mother to take up her residence with her in Paris. In those thirty years Cal had stood still—an unmarried woman, living in a secluded southern village and upon the pitiful income that had been hers after the war had taken her former possessions from her. It was just like her to live near the place where all her misery had been seen, her father shot down in battle, his property confiscated, her friends scattered and—

Here the ten minutes were exhausted, and Mrs. Grand became impatient. She was not used to waiting for any one. A servant might have come in her place, but how could she have described "Calline" to a servant? Besides, Cal had written that she would come if her cousin would be at the train to receive her. The letter detailing as much had seemed very humorous to Mrs. Grand and forced her to enter into the spirit of the thing.

"But I doubt if there is much humor in it, after all," she thought as she restlessly trod the platform. "It all comes of finding that trunk of hers now that the house is being inventoried. Another of her lapses to leave that trunk with me for thirty odd years. Why couldn't she have stayed with me that time she brought it? But, no; she must go back and see if the poor liberated slaves had any place to go to. As though she had homes to offer them! And why couldn't I have sent the trunk to her instead of writing her that I had found it? Of course then she thought of old times and must see me for the last time, as though I went to Paris to occupy a slab in the morgue, and— Here it is at last!"

For the train puffed into the shed. The people poured out. There was not a woman she recognized.

"Madam!"

For a lady had stopped in front of her, a pretty woman, with great eyes and much brown hair rolled back from a low white forehead, a woman with a girlish figure and jauntily carrying a tiny umbrella with a bunch of violets tied to its handle.

"Therese!" she said, her eyes suffused.

"This is never you, Cal!" almost gasped Mrs. Grand. "Why, you are almost young!"

But her cousin had thrown her arms around her and was aiming kisses at her. "I knew you at once, Therese," she gurgled. "Therese, duchess of York, don't you remember, we used to call you? How handsome you are! Duchess! You look like an empress now."

Mrs. Grand had grown to regard herself as a decidedly middle aged woman despite the exigencies of her toilet and her maid, but this flattering comment from another woman whom she had not seen for over three decades was not displeasing.

"Come," she said, pressing Miss Hemperley's hand. "The horses will be wild standing so long."

"You are just the same as ever," returned the other, with a soft little burr in her voice. "And, oh, I am so glad we go in the ferry, for I do so want to see the statue of Liberty. I read so much about it in the papers some years ago." And she went on disseminating information learned from the newspapers regarding New York city, breathlessly skipping from architecture to politics, harking away to crime and incidentally touching upon the fashions.

Mrs. Grand considerately engaged her in conversation on topics calculated to be of general interest and sincerely hoped that the magnificence of her house would not awe her visitor, the details of whose get up she had had time to note and found very sketchy. She wondered if she might not offer Cal a new gown or two without giving offense. Later on, when she saw Carolina come down to dinner in a much worn black silk with magnificent old lace at the throat and wrists, she concluded to say nothing about new raiment, especially as Carolina took the appointments of the establishment as a matter of course and passed over the majestic butler as she would have passed over one of the dusky servitors in her father's old home, though Carolina admired her hostess vastly as that lady, with bare neck and strewn with jewels, faced her at table.

"All you want is a crown, Therese," she remarked. "Though I read in the paper that crowns are very common in New York, all the women wear them, even at the horse show. And your house is very sweet. And to think it is all to be let to strangers! I understand how you feel."

Mrs. Grand turned the subject, bringing before her mind's eye Carolina's old pillared home, its thousand acres and its hundreds of cabins, where of nights you could hear the strumming of banjos, the squeaks of fiddles and the rich voices of the slave population.

"You see, Cal," she said, "there is a little reception tonight, some Union and Confederate officers, the blue and the gray together. I shall be gone only an hour or so. You won't mind, will you? I thought maybe you would take the time to look over your old trunk."

Carolina crunched a salted almond between her even teeth.

"Yes, indeed," she returned, "for I don't mean to take all that old trash with me. I really don't know what is in that trunk, I was so confused when I packed it. Our house was burning down when I packed it, and the bullets were singing round me. I packed it out in a cotton field. I could see very well, the flames were so bright."

There was not a tremor in her voice. She seemed perfectly callous to the recollection. Mrs. Grand felt that it was almost silly.

"What sleeves those old frocks must have in them!" Miss Hemperley went on, helping herself to glaces. "Go, dear; go to your reception. You'll be the finest woman there. Just have the trunk brought to my room, and I'll look it over. First you must show me the marquise's picture. You know I never saw her. Oh, there is so much for you to show me and tell me, for you know I am going back day after tomorrow! It was so sweet of you to ask me to come. I'll always love that old trunk for it. And, oh, Therese, you'll be late for the reception! It is 9 o'clock."

"I shall not go till 11," Mrs. Grand told her and took her to the drawing room and showed her the portrait of her daughter, the marquise.

Miss Hemperley looked at it long and silently.

"She resembles her father." Then she said softly, "She has his eyes."

"Yes," responded Mrs. Grand. "Here is Tom's picture."

She indicated a portrait on the opposite wall, the portrait of a young man in all the glory of epaulets, a sword in his hand. Her cousin slowly turned her eyes toward it. Mrs. Grand, looking at her, thought she grew suddenly old.

"Does it bring back your young days, Cal?" she smiled. "We were all such good friends in spite of differences of opinion as to the war. This was painted in 1865, just after our marriage. And I have been a widow twenty years!"

Miss Hemperley turned from Captain Grand's portrait. "And you'll write to me from Paris," she said hastily, "and tell me all about your fine goings on? What a lovely sheer stuff that is in your robe, and what pretty lace!"

"The lace is not so fine as that of yours," Mrs. Grand returned.

"Oh, this was ma's," Miss Hemperley replied clinchingly. "I've always kept my lace. There was more of it." She stopped abruptly. "Upon my word, Therese," she said, "I shouldn't be surprised if it is on one of those frocks in the old trunk. I never thought of that till this minute. Let us go and see."

Mrs. Grand let her have her way, and in a little while they were beside the trunk in Miss Hemperley's room.

"Really, Therese," Carolina said, "no one would think I am meeting you for the first time in over thirty years. Here I am acting as though I had seen you only yesterday. It was the same when I got your letter. I was wild to come to you. I seemed afraid of being alone any longer."

"I like it this way," Mrs. Grand returned quizzically. "It shows how little you have altered. And I can't help looking at you, Cal. You are positively youthful looking. I had thought you would be gray like me, for you are only a few months younger."

"Five," nodded Miss Hemperley.

"Really, if living alone has done it," her cousin said, "one might almost wish not to have married. Besides, there were your stormy experiences. One would say that they should have aged you. Maybe you have thought a great deal of young days, and that has done it."

"Maybe," laconically returned Carolina.

"But the trouble you had!" persisted Mrs. Grand, herself now lost to present surroundings. "And all the time I was north with papa enjoying the ease of the winning side. Don't you remember how I wanted you to side with the north? Some of your property might have been saved that way."

Miss Hemperley's face was quite pink as she said quietly, "I suppose Captain Grand had something to do with your siding with the north."

"Papa's interests were in the north," corrected Mrs. Grand.

"But you were in love with Captain Grand," smiled her cousin, twisting her rings round her fingers.

"It was not my fault that he took the side papa was on," said Mrs. Grand. "You know how it was at that time. Brother was against brother. Yes, your father and my father and Captain Grand and Colonel Trask were friends at West Point, and yet they took opposite sides in the war."

"Now for the trunk," inconsequentially said Miss Hemperley and tugged at a strap.

"By the way, Cal," Mrs. Grand went on, "I've met Colonel Trask several times lately. He came from Europe last month after he gave up the consulship and is in New York. We have spoken of you. He brought up the old times very vividly."

"Yes?" Carolina said. She was on her knees in front of the trunk. She had brought the key with her and was busy with it. "How rusty this lock is! So!" She had the lid open and disclosed the contents of the box, all neatly folded and laid carefully, as though a more peaceful light than that made by her burning home had served her in their arrangement.

She picked up a garment.

"Oh, Therese," she said, "look at these sleeves and this waist! How we must have laced in those days! I wonder if I could get it on now. I've a mind to try."

In great good humor she donned the gown and ran to the glass to note the effect. Peal after peal of laughter came from her lips as she regarded her reflection. "And the pocket!" she said. "Think of pockets in these days!" She slipped her hand into the aperture at the side of the skirt.

"Did we used to carry things in our pockets?" Mrs. Grand asked. Her cousin looked at her with eyes that had become glassy.

"Why, Cal!" cried Mrs. Grand.

Miss Hemperley took off the gown.

"I did not remember," she said. "This is the dress I wore that night."

"That night?"

"The night Captain Grand escaped."

Mrs. Grand smiled.

"Oh, Calline!" she said, using an old loving paraphrase of Carolina's name. "You surely do not recollect the frock you wore!"

"It was this," Carolina insisted. She laid the gown in the trunk again.

"Aren't you going through the things?" Mrs. Grand asked. "Your lace may be there."

"I'll wait till you've gone to your party," was the answer. "It will give me something to do."

At this Mrs. Grand seemed to think that she was an inattentive hostess.

"I wish you would go with me," she said.

"Me!" laughed Carolina. "I look like it, don't I? Why, I haven't a white mull dress to my name!"

"Mull!" Mrs. Grand was repeating as she marched before her to the drawing room. "The next thing she will be talking about artificial roses in her hair."

Already her cousin pulled upon her. But in the drawing room Miss Hemperley's eyes were fastened on the portrait of Captain Grand. "He was a brave man," she said. Mrs. Grand called herself to account.

"I wonder," she said, "if you ever heard that incident after the Second Bull Run. His shattered arm rudely bound up, he met the general. 'Where is your company?' asked the general. My husband pointed to himself and a solitary private. 'Here,' he said. They say the tears were rolling down his face, for all the rest of his company had fallen."

Carolina's hands tightly grasped the back of a chair. Her eyes were glistening.

"You can say it like that?" she demanded.

Mrs. Grand smiled. "It is ancient history now, Cal," she said. "It was brought up quite vividly the other night by Colonel Trask. He said that it was through his own misadventure—Colonel Trask's, you know—that Tom could even say that; that if order No. 160 had not been lost the night he stopped at your father's Tom would never have said that."

"No, for he would have murdered Captain Grand," Carolina said quickly.

"They scarcely call it that in war," laughed Mrs. Grand. "The colonel had the order giving directions for the movement of the brigades the following day, and he was hurrying from headquarters to his general with it when he lost it at or near your father's house, where he was to be quartered for the night. He wrote all about it to Tom years afterward. At any rate, Tom was saved by the colonel's carelessness, though the colonel nearly lost his shoulder straps in consequence, for if Colonel Trask had 'met up with' Tom, as you would say, in obedience to that order, I should not be having to get ready to live in Paris just now." She moved to the doorway. "Now, Marker." Her maid entered with a voluminous satin wrap, which she placed upon the shoulders of her mistress. "You are sure, Cal, that you can amuse yourself? Marker, please attend to Miss Hemperley."

But Miss Hemperley rather curtly dismissed the maid and went toward a cabinet crowded with bibelots, not even responding to her hostess, who threw her a parting word over her shoulder. She occupied herself for some little time. Then she found herself in a chair contemplating Captain Grand's portrait. All at once a sob seemed to choke her. She stifled it and went to her own room, to the old trunk there. She lifted the gown she had so recently slipped on in mocking jest and held it for a moment up to her heart. Then she sat down heavily and, reaching her hand, touched a little ivory disk, and all the lights went out.

When Mrs. Grand returned home she passed by her cousin's room, the door of which was open on a crack. She looked in. All was dark.

"Is that you, Therese?" asked a low voice.

With an exclamation Mrs. Grand entered the room.

"Can't you sleep in a strange room, Cal?" she said. She touched the disk in the wall, and the chamber was brilliantly illuminated. There sat Carolina beside the open trunk, the old gown lying over her knees.

"You don't mean to say you have sat here in the dark?" cried her cousin.

THERE SAT CAROLINA BESIDE THE OPEN TRUNK.

"I have been thinking," was the answer. "Is it late?"

"It is past 2 o'clock," Mrs. Grand told her. "I don't understand. I—I should have forced you to go with me. It was wrong to leave you here to conjure up the old times. I wish you had gone. Colonel Trask was there. I told him you had come. He may call tomorrow morning."

Miss Hemperley folded the old gown and laid it in the trunk. "It is unfortunate, Therese," she said, "but tomorrow will be the only day I shall have you to myself. I—you must take me somewhere where we shall be quite alone. There is so much to talk about. I did not come to see visitors. Therese, take me somewhere—anywhere." She had clutched her cousin's arm, while there was so much energy in her that Mrs. Grand was astonished.

"Why, of course," she said. "You shall go wherever you please."

Carolina dropped her arm and gave an apologetic cough.

"I don't care for visitors," she said, "and really I do not wish to see a lot of strangers. Why should I?"

"An old friend!" retorted Mrs. Grand.

"That's it!" cried Miss Hemperley. "He remembers me as a young girl. He will see me quite an old woman. His wife"—

"He is not married," interrupted Mrs. Grand.

Miss Hemperley shrugged her shoulders.

"Therese," she said, "let us go somewhere tomorrow where we can talk for hours uninterruptedly. There will be great crowds in the city, and we want to go somewhere in the country. Where shall we go? We might as well settle it now. Can't we go up the Hudson? I've read that the trips are lovely—the American Rhine, you know. You pass by West Point, where Tom used to be, and there's Stony Point, where Arnold and Andre met to betray Washington." She laughed. "Surely I ought to see such points of historical interest. Let us go."

There was nothing to do but to let her have her way, though Mrs. Grand was not a woman to rush to a crowded boat at 9 o'clock in the morning and cast her fortunes with picnickers out for the day.

"I might have known," she told herself in the privacy of her own room, "that this visit would not do. She is positively silly. The vanity of the woman refusing to meet an old acquaintance for fear he should see the change time had made in her! It is on a par with the white mull. It was certainly foolish to write to her."

At 8 o'clock in the morning Carolina was in her room waking her.

"We'll be sure to be late, Therese!" she said.

Mrs. Grand groaned. Nor was she better pleased that her cousin stood by while Marker helped her mistress make her toilet.

"Carolina," she said at one point, "I am not used to being seen in the forenoon. Look at the lines—how they show in this raw light. Nobody would believe that that is your own complexion."

"I've always used buttermilk," Miss Hemperley replied. "Ma used it before me. However, I never think of my skin. The truth is, Therese, I never think of time. I seem to be the same as I always have been."

"Nonsense!" dissented Mrs. Grand. "You live on memories. That's the worst of being unmarried. Why did you never marry?"

Her cousin's youthful laugh broke out. "I don't believe I ever thought of it," she answered.

"Nonsense!" Mrs. Grand said, as before. "Every woman thinks of marriage at one time in her life. Now that you have finished pulling my hair, Marker, I will have my coffee."

"No breakfast?" cried Carolina. "No wonder you're not in good humor! I've had a chop, some griddlecakes, some marmalade and two peaches."

"I never breakfast till noon," Mrs. Grand replied coldly.

Carolina laughed.

"Do we take sandwiches?" she asked.

"Do we take what?" demanded Mrs. Grand, her spoon in the air.

"Oh, excuse me!" Miss Hemperley said deprecatingly. "I suppose we get lunch on the boat. I've read that we can do that."

Mrs. Grand laid down her spoon in consternation.

"Marker," she said, "what do we do?"

Marker informed her that lunch might be had on the boat.

"Pshaw, Therese!" Miss Hemperley laughed again. "We can take a sandwich with us and make no more fuss about it."

Mrs. Grand was not used to such words, and she wondered if she and her cousin should not quarrel before the day was over.

"We shall wait till we return home," she said, "for luncheon."

"If you please," ventured Marker, "the boat won't get back until this evening."

"We shall wait till we return home," Mrs. Grand repeated, "for luncheon."

"We'll do nothing of the sort," Miss Hemperley spoke up. "I am not going on the water with a fainting woman." And she left the room.

Mrs. Grand was more than annoyed—quite fuming. But in five minutes her cousin was back, bearing a plate on which there were a smoking chop and a square of toast.

"You'll eat every scrap of this," she announced.

The humorous side of the situation appealed to Mrs. Grand, and she took the plate.

"I believe I always did obey you, Cal," she said. "I remember years ago how I obeyed you when you sent me north to be out of harm's way and"—

"Mercy! I've stuck myself!" Carolina cried. She was pinning in her corsage a fresh bunch of violets which she had got somewhere. "Now, hurry," she said. "The boat will not wait. Put a thick veil on if you are afraid of your lines."

Mrs. Grand stiffened a trifle.

"Really, Cal"— she began.

"Come, come," interrupted Carolina. "Come!"

They reached the boat, whose fluttering flags waved over a mass of struggling humanity.

"I will not go," decided Mrs. Grand. But her cousin seized her arm. In a whirl she felt herself borne along, jostled, pushed, crowded, and then she found herself on the lower deck of an immense craft seated on a carpet camp stool, Carolina straightening her bonnet for her and consoling her.

"I knew you'd enjoy it, Therese," Carolina said.

Mrs. Grand looked into her eyes.

"Cal," she said, "you are tremendous. I feel positively young again." She certainly had entered into the spirit of the thing and gave momentary expressions of her satisfaction.

Though, strange to say, Miss Hemperley had become grave, her vivacity appeared to evaporate, yet there was a look of relief on her face.

"And now we're off!" gayly cried Mrs. Grand. But Carolina's eyes were fastened on the placid waters of the Hudson.

Her cousin, with a sparkle in her eye, regarded her. She knew that Carolina paid no attention to her surroundings or to the points of interest on the twin shores of the river.

A party of men and women close at hand raised their voices in an old war song. Even this did not distract Miss Hemperley.

"Cal," Mrs. Grand said after awhile, "if we had stayed at home we should have had a call from an old acquaintance. You are not enjoying this at all."

Carolina looked up.

"It is beautiful," she said. "What"—

"Now," interrupted her cousin, "don't ask me what building that is. You know you don't care. I repeat, if we had not come here we might have received Colonel Trask."

"Yes," she said; "that is why I wanted to get away."

"You used to see a great deal of him," pursued her cousin.

"Yes," laconically replied Carolina.

"The wonder is," persisted Mrs. Grand, "that you did not get to be fond of him."

For a moment Carolina's lips tightened. Then she edged a little closer to her companion.

"Therese," she said, "I want to tell you something. This boat will take us near to the place, won't it, where Benedict Arnold met Major Andre? I am as great a traitor as Arnold ever was."

"In paying a visit to me," asked Mrs. Grand, "who did not agree with you during the great 'unpleasantness'?"

"Don't laugh at me," pleaded Carolina. "Please don't."

"I never was more serious in my life," asseverated Mrs. Grand, "though I was a blue and you were a gray."

"You know you are laughing at me," insisted her cousin, "and you will laugh more when you hear the rest. It is about Colonel Trask."

Mrs. Grand opened her eyes.

"Go on," she said dryly. "Go on."

"I was false to the cause," went on Carolina—"the lost cause."

"But Colonel Trask?" asked Mrs. Grand.

"I betrayed him!" Carolina said.

"You did what?" cried her cousin.

Miss Hemperley's head went down.

"It is very foolish for a woman of my age to make such a confession," she said, "but he was fond of me—he told me so—and I separated myself from any kind feeling he might have had for me."

She put her hand into the front of her gown and took out a crumpled paper. "Look at this!"

Mrs. Grand took the paper from her, lost in wonder.

"Well?" she said.

"I found it last night in the pocket of that old frock in the trunk," Miss Hemperley answered. "I wore that frock the night Colonel Trask stopped at pa's. Now do you understand?"

"Certainly not," Mrs. Grand answered.

In a sort of agony her cousin went on: "It is order No. 160. It is the order which if carried out would have annihilated your husband and his company."

Mrs. Grand caught her arm.

"Colonel Trask gave you this paper because he loved you," she said, "and because he knew that you loved me?"

"I stole it," Carolina answered drearily. "I crept into his room late at night and stole it."

"You did this for me," tremulously said Mrs. Grand. "You saved Tom because you knew I loved him."

Carolina pulled her arm free.

"No," she said. "I stole it because the execution of it would have made John Trask the murderer of his friend. Now do you understand?"

Mrs. Grand gasped.

"You loved John Trask?" she said.

"I betrayed him!" Miss Hemperley returned. "I brought the censure of his general upon him. But he was not a murderer. He did not kill his friend. It is all so long ago, Therese, but last night when I went to look for that lace, when you spoke of Colonel Trask"— Her voice trailed into silence.

"You loved the man?" demanded Mrs. Grand, quite trembling with excitement. "Tell me, Calline, dear."

"You have no right to ask me that," Carolina answered. "Give me that paper. I will tear it up and scatter it on the water that brought Arnold and Andre together."

Mrs. Grand was greatly agitated. "Why, child," she said, as though she spoke to a very young woman indeed, "you threw away your life's happiness."

"Would I have been happy if Tom Grand had been killed by John Trask?" Carolina asked. "But I might as well tell you all. I read in the newspaper that Colonel Trask was in New York. Just then I got your letter. I thought I might get a glimpse of him, just for memory's sake, so I accepted your invitation. But when I found that army order all the old wretchedness came over me, and I knew that I could not meet him."

"And," cried Mrs. Grand, "he is on this boat! I saw him coming aboard soon after we got on."

Carolina rose to her feet, her face stormy. "How dared you!" she said. "You have done a miserable thing. You forget that I am a lady."

She turned away from her cousin and found herself face to face with a white haired man. How much he had heard she dared not think. "Will you let me pass?" she said.

He held out his hand, his eyes bright as stars.

"Calline!" he said, using the old loving paraphrase of her name.

She fell back.

"I caught a glimpse of you and Mrs. Grand hurrying toward this boat," he went on, "and I followed you. I knew you at once. You have changed very little." He came closer to her. "As though I did not know who took that order! Only at the time I thought it was done for the sake of your cousin and Tom. Never till this day did I know it was because"— He stopped, then went on hastily, "The night that order was stolen I had stopped at your father's house to ask you to be my wife." His hand was still out. "You wore the blue that night. You saved my friend from me, the gray. This Memorial day is for blue and gray alike, a union and a reunion for— Calline, Calline!"

The violets at her waist quivered. Her eyes were filled with tears.

"John!" she murmured. "John!" and placed her hand in his.

CONFESSION OF FAITH

Of Presbyterian Church Adopted by General Assembly as Revised.

ALL WHO DIE IN INFANCY SAVED

Color Question of the Church Settled. Committee on Marriage and Divorce Reports—Largest Attendance at Assembly Since Opening.

Los Angeles, May 29.—The Presbyterian church of the United States in general assembly finally disposed of the question of revision of creed, which has been before the last three general assemblies, and which has agitated Presbyterian circles for the past 15 years. The assembly by unanimous vote adopted the revision of the confession of faith as prepared by the committee appointed by the general assembly in 1901. Beside clearing the calendar of this important question, the assembly disposed of the "Tennessee overture" in regard to "separate presbyteries in the same territory," which was commonly known as the "color question" of the Presbyterian church, also the report of the special committee on divorce and remarriage. Several minor reports also were heard during the day.

The fact that creed revision was to come up attracted the largest crowd since the opening. After disposing of some business of minor importance Moderator Coyle announced that Rev. Henry Van Dyke, of Princeton, N. J., chairman of the committee on bills and overtures would submit the report of the committee on revision. Before reading the report Dr. Van Dyke stated that two protests one from the presbytery of Lehigh and the other from the St. Cloud presbytery, tending to obstruct action on the revision question, had been before the committee, and it was recommended that they be thrown out. The assembly so ordered.

Overtures Adopted.

Dr. Van Dyke then proceeded with the report of the revision committee He read the detailed vote on each one of the 11 overtures, which showed that no one overture had received more than 10 negative votes. The overtures were voted upon seriatim and adopted.

By the adoption of 11 overtures, important additions, amplifications and amendments are made to the articles of the confession of faith. Of these, one of the most vital is the erection into the church doctrine of the belief that all who die in infancy are saved.

For section 6, chapter xxv, of the confession of faith, the following is substituted:

"The Lord Jesus Christ is the only head of the church, and the claim of any man to be the vicar of Christ and the head of the church is unscriptural, without warrant in fact, and is an usurpation dishonoring to the Lord Jesus Christ."

Three additional chapters are added to the confession concerning the "Love of God for all men, missions and the Holy Spirit."

Church Has Not Changed Her Base.

At the conclusion of the reading of the report Dr. Van Dyke spoke briefly upon the changes incorporated therein. He said he wished to make it clear to the assembly, and especially did he wish to say to the brethren of the press, "that this revision does not mean that the Presbyterian church has changed her base one inch, but it does mean that she has broadened and strengthened her foundations. Her divine sovereignty shall never be interpreted so as to mean fatalism."

Family cares and duties do not weigh down the well woman, and the children are never in her way. But when the womanly health fails, and there is a constant struggle with weakness and pain, household duties are a burden almost past bearing, and children are a ceaseless annoyance and worry.

Weak women are made strong and sick women are made well by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries disagreeable drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr Pierce by letter free. All correspondence strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"I had been ailing some time, troubled with female weakness," writes Mrs. Wm. H. Johnson, of Avondale, Chester Co., Pa. "Every month I would have to lie on my back. I tried many different medicines and nothing gave me relief until I began Dr. Pierce's medicines, using two bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and two of 'Golden Medical Discovery.' These medicines have cured me. When I began your treatment I was not able to do very much, but now I do the work for my family of nine, and feel better to-day than I have for a year. I thank you, doctor, from the bottom of my heart, for well do I know that you are the one who cured me."

"Favorite Prescription" has the testimony of thousands of women to its complete cure of womanly diseases. Do not accept an unknown and unproved substitute in its place.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the best laxative for family use.

SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl Street, New York.

At the afternoon session the "colored question" was disposed of promptly and without a flurry. Dr. Putnam, from the committee on bills and overtures, reported a simple recommendation that overtures on "separate presbyteries for colored ministers," which had come up from Tennessee and other southern states, be referred to a committee of five, this committee to report to the next general assembly. Dr. Roberts moved an amendment to this resolution, giving the colored element in the church representation on this committee and increasing the membership to seven. The amendment was accepted and the resolution adopted.

The report of the special committee on divorce and remarriage was then taken up, Dr. Charles A. Dickey, chairman, speaking in support of its recommendations.

There was no discussion of the report, as this had been forestalled by the passage of the resolution enjoining Presbyterian ministers from performing the marriage ceremony in cases of divorced persons at last Monday's session. The report was unanimously adopted.

After hearing the report of the committee on correspondence the assembly adjourned.

SITUATION IN JACKSON SERIOUS

Believed an Attempt was Made to Rescue Prisoners—One Lone Cow Was Killed by Militia.

Jackson, Ky., May 29.—The frustration of what the troops believe was a plot to rescue or kill Curtis Jett and Tom White Wednesday night increased the tension in Jackson. How many men were involved beside the one fired on and who returned the sentry's fire, and what relation the incident had to the placing of a searchlight on the jail grounds from a nearby mountain side earlier in the night are questions in which actual interest is felt.

The attempt to remove the special bailiff, B. J. Little, is a matter of much interest. The grounds offered are that his brother married Mrs. E. Marcum's sister and that relationship might influence him in the discharge of the duties of a sheriff.

Major Allen, who, in the absence of Colonel Williams in Lexington, is in command of the troops, gave out the following statement concerning Wednesday night's affair:

"Just as the storm broke the sentry at the south side of the jail observed a man approaching from the Jackson Deposit bank. He gave two commands to halt, which were unheeded, and then gave warning that he would fire unless the man halted. His words were answered by one or two shots. The darkness was intense and objects could only be seen by lightning flashes. The sentry and two other guards returned the fire. The marks indicate how the shots took effect. A minute later the sentry at the north side of the jail observed a moving object, which he thought was a man or a horse coming toward him. He commanded a halt three times before he fired. The object, a cow, was instantly killed."

The glass front of the bank was penetrated and an unlighted lamp on the counter was perforated. It is believed that the prowler was sheltered by the stone fence around the court house.

MAY PROVE A DOUBLE SUICIDE

Young Girl Takes Carbolic Acid and Leaves Note Where Lover's Dead Body Would Be Found.

Scranton, Pa., May 29.—Miss Mary McAndrew, a 17-year-old North Scranton girl, went home from the Klotz silk mill complaining of being ill, and while her mother was out to secure a physician she took a fatal dose of carbolic acid. In her bosom was found the following note:

"Goodbye. Forgive me, mother, if I did wrong, as I wish to be forgiven in heaven. Do not accuse John Cavanaugh. He is guilty of no crime. By this time he is on has way to Boston's, where you will find his dead body in the rear of Boston's."

Cavanaugh is a young man of about the same age as Miss McAndrew and kept company with her. They wanted to be married, but her parents objected on account of their age.

Wednesday afternoon the two went to the theater and neither returned home. Miss McAndrew told her mother that she stopped with a girl friend in another part of the city. Nothing has been seen of Cavanaugh. "Boston's" is a farm on the edge of the city. Diligent but fruitless search has been made for the body.

SPOKE ON IRRIGATION

President Talks on Utilization of Water of Rocky Mountain States.

LITTLE CHILDREN CHEER HIM

And Wave Forest of Flags—Plants Tree in State House Grounds—Two Hours Spent in City—Party Leaves for Salt Lake.

Boise, Idaho, May 29.—President Roosevelt's train reached Boise in the afternoon and left two hours later for Salt Lake City. President Roosevelt and his party marched through a lane of children as they approached the grand stand erected in the capitol grounds. Two thousand little ones cheered him and waved a forest of flags. This feature of the reception was highly pleasing to the visitors.

The city was thronged with people to see the president, and when the latter took his place on the grand stand many thousands were packed in the streets. He was introduced by Governor Morrison and spoke for 40 minutes.

After his address the president spoke a few words to the Grand Army post drawn up in the rear of the stand and also to the Spanish war veterans. A tree was then planted in the state house grounds near the one planted by President Harrison in 1891.

The president and his party were then taken for a drive about the city.

In his address the president opened with a tribute to the city and its people. He spoke principally on irrigation, good citizenship and strengthening the navy.

Big Proprietors Not Wanted.

"The forests and the grasses," said the president, "are not to be treated as we properly treat mining; that is, as material to be used up and nothing left behind. We do not want the big proprietor. It is not for him that we wish to develop irrigation. It is not for him that we must shape the grazing lands or handle our forests. Inasmuch as I myself passed a large portion of my life in the mountains and on the plains of this great western country, I feel a peculiar pride that it was given to me to sign, and thereby make into law, the act of the national government—to my mind one of the most important acts ever made into law by the national legislature—the national irrigation act of a year ago. The government, in my judgment, not only should, but must cooperate with the state government and with individual enterprises in seeing that we utilize to the fullest advantage the waters of the Rocky Mountain states by canals and great reservoirs, which shall conserve the waters that go to waste at one season, so that they can be used at other seasons.

Want Best Navy on Globe.

"I believe with all my soul in the Monroe doctrine. This western hemisphere is not to become a region for conquest over which foreign ministerial powers may acquire control. I think that should be a cardinal doctrine of our American foreign policy. But I would a great deal rather see us never announce that policy than for us to announce it and then lack either the will or the power to make it good. The one means for making it good is building up an adequate navy. I ask congress to go on with the building of the navy; that congress go on providing means to make that navy the most effective on the globe. I earnestly hope that not in our time will we see war again, but it is impossible to say that there will not be war, because it is not only necessary that we should want to act rightly toward other nations, and I think I can say that we do, but it is necessary that they should all of them want to act rightly toward us, and while I believe that they do, I think it will help them to persevere in their good intentions if we are well armed."

POSTOFFCE PROBING

Still Continues and Large Force of Inspectors Are at Work.

MACHEN HEARING SET FOR JUNE 5

Charges Against George Beavers for Paying Exhobitant Prices for Supplies—Overhauling of Free Delivery Branch Will Be Thorough.

Washington, May 29.—A large corps of inspectors, including some of the veterans of the service, were at work probing into the alleged irregularities at the postoffice department, but no further arrests were made. It is said to be possible that the intermediary who, it is alleged, figured in the transactions which led to the arrest of August W. Machen, the former general superintendent of the free delivery service, may turn state's evidence. His identity has not yet been disclosed.

Mr. Machen's counsel issued a statement asserting his ability to fully disprove all the charges. The investigating officials are equally confident. The government is anxious to expedite the trial of Machen as much as possible consistently with the proper handling of the case. It is arranging to have its witnesses at Machen's preliminary hearing June 5. The preliminary hearing of the Groff Brothers, the profits of which firm Machen is accused of sharing on a 40 per cent basis, has been set for June 9.

Postal officials refuse to give any information respecting the go-between who, it is alleged, figured in the transactions that caused Machen's arrest. It is said there is a possibility, if not a probability, that he will be used as a witness for the government. The postmaster general said:

"That there is a third party in this matter I have no doubt, but I cannot say anything further."

Charges Against Beavers.

He was asked whether the delay in making the arrest was due to failure to locate the man. The postmaster general replied in the negative and added that sometimes there were other reasons. He significantly suggested that sometimes it was found best not to be too precipitate in taking action and there was an intimation that the department might desire the go-between to turn state's evidence. A report was published here that George W. Beavers, the former superintendent of the division of salaries and allowances, was in the city, but the department denied having any such information. Mr. Payne was asked as to the nature of the charges on file against Mr. Beavers. He replied that they might be summed up as the payment of extravagant prices for materials and supplies used in his division, including time clocks and stamping machines. He said that there was only one charge that Mr. Beavers had received a commission on these supplies. This charge, he said, is under investigation.

A much more rigid overhauling of the affairs of Mr. Beavers' former office will begin shortly. The salaries and allowance division is now in charge of a former assistant superintendent, who is a veteran inspector, and the department thought for this reason it could concentrate its investigating work along other lines that needed immediate attention. The investigation of the affairs of the free delivery division, it is stated, has not been interrupted by the arrest of Machen. The inspectors who brought about that result are continuing their inquiry and will probe into other charges against Mr. Machen.

Charges Against Machen.

In this connection Postmaster General Payne said that one of the charges under investigation was an allegation that Mr. Machen had forged the name of another on an official paper about 10 years ago. He said that Mr. Machen knew of this charge and had informed him that he (Machen) was ready at any time to bring conclusive proof that he was innocent of the transaction. Other charges involve letter box contracts. Some of the charges are of a similar nature to those on which Wednesday's arrest was based.

Overhauling of the free delivery branch will be thorough and Postmaster General Payne declared with emphasis that the investigation will not end until all irregularities have been thoroughly inquired into and eradicated. He said that he did not know as yet when it would be possible to close the investigation and that he would not attempt to approximate the date. He said there had been a few charges against several other officers of the department, but the complaints of irregularities were confined practically to the free delivery service, the salary and allowances division and the office of the assistant attorney general.

Samuel A. Groff, one of the brothers arrested Wednesday, was suspended from the police force pending the hearing of his case. His return to duty depends on the result of the court proceedings against him.

West Virginia Postmasters.

Washington, May 29.—West Virginia postmasters were appointed as follows: Clinton, Ohio county, Samuel I. Smith; Viola, Marshall county, Joseph B. Thompson.

CHAMBERLAIN'S POWER PROVED

In Debate in House of Commons He Again Demonstrates His Strength.

London, May 29.—Mr. Chamberlain has again proved himself the strong man of the cabinet. In a debate, which may prove the most momentous of the present parliament, he has in a frank and bold speech further developed the policy which will be universally regarded as an entire reversal of Great Britain's fiscal position and at the same time he proved that he has managed to carry the government with him against their convictions.

The impression left on the minds of the crowded chamber was that the country is on the eve of a dissolution and that, as in 1900, Mr. Chamberlain carried the country with him on the South African war policy, he has now converted his colleagues to the belief that he will be able to carry it again on the policy of preferential trade within the empire. In addition to asking for a mandate to tax food, he asks for power to engage in a tariff war with Germany on Canada's account and to fight the American trusts. It is safe to say that no such sudden revolution has been experienced in the political situation for very many years, nor anything so sensational.

The debate practically ended with Mr. Chamberlain's speech and the house emptied into the lobbies. What little enthusiasm was displayed was on the liberal side of the house. The Conservatives listened to the speech in chilling silence, indicative of alarm and uncertainty as to the outcome of the unexpected situation. Nearly 100 Conservative members intimated to the government whip and to Mr. Chamberlain their intention to take the opinion of their constituents on the new policy during the Whitsuntide recess.

DIPLOMACY, ARBITRATION, WAR

Three Means of Settling International Disputes—Monroe Doctrine Cannot Be Arbitrated.

Lake Mohonk, N. Y., May 29.—The conference on international arbitration was opened with an address by Dr. Lyman Abbott, of New York, who declared that arbitration was not the solvent of all difficulties. The right of the free man to labor was one of the things that could not be arbitrated, he asserted, and the Monroe doctrine was another.

S. Uchida, consul general for Japan at New York, said international disputes could be settled by one of three means—diplomacy, arbitration and war. Although arbitration is highly preferable to war, he added, it would be impossible to dispense with war unless all nations agree to make arbitration the only and last means of settling international difficulties in case diplomacy fails. Japan does not want to fight and does not mean to fight unless necessary, but she must keep up her fighting strength so long as she is going ahead as a nation which is trying to make herself respected by others.

Five Years to the Pen.

St. Louis, May 29.—Guilty and five years in the penitentiary was the verdict and punishment returned by the jury in the bribery case of J. J. Hannigan, a former member of the house of delegates. Hannigan was found guilty of accepting a bribe in connection with the passage of the suburban railway bill. He is the eighteenth man tried on charges resulting from the local boodle investigation, all of whom, but one, have been convicted. Hannigan's attorneys filed a motion for a new trial, and he was released on $10,000 bond.

Governor on Vacation.

Harrisburg, May 29.—Governor Pennypacker left with his wife and daughters for his farm at Pennypacker Mills, Montgomery county, to remain during the summer. The executive mansion will remain open and the governor will pass two and three days a week here looking after his official duties.

Druggists' Strike Getting Serious.

Havana, May 29.—The druggists' strike against the imposition by the Havana provincial council of taxes on patent medicines and perfumeries is assuming serious proportions. The dealers in dress goods, etc., who also handle perfumes, closed their stores,

Sultan's Brother Poisoned.

Madrid, May 29.—A report form Ceuta says the sultan of Morocco's brother, Mulai Mohammed, is dead. He was poisoned, according to the dispatch.

Confide in a Woman

Women may write about their ills to Mrs. Pinkham, and avoid the questioning of a male physician. They can tell their story without reservation to her; she never breaks a confidence, and her advice is the best in the world.

The questions asked of a woman by a male physician are embarrassing, and often revolting to a sensitive nature. In consequence the whole truth is not told; this makes it difficult for female troubles to be successfully treated even by the best physicians, and is the reason so many women grow worse rather than better. A woman understands a woman better than a man,—there are symptoms which sick women have that a man cannot understand, simply because he is a man, but the whole truth may be told to Mrs. Pinkham, and her vast experience enables her to give advice which leads to a cure.

All women who suffer should secure Mrs. Pinkham's advice; it costs nothing but a letter addressed to her at Lynn, Mass. Female troubles are real troubles, and must be treated understandingly. For a quarter of a century Mrs. Pinkham's advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have been helping women to get strong and well, and her great file of letters prove that more than a million women have been restored to health and strength by her advice and her medicine when all other means have failed.

When you go to a druggist for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, do not let him persuade you to try something which he says is just as good; there is nothing just as good, because Mrs. Pinkham's medicine holds the record for the largest number of cures of any female medicine in the world.

Jeffords Knocks Man Out.

Savannah, Ga., May 29.—Jim Jeffords, of San Francisco, and George Feeley, of Sioux City, heavyweights, met for a 20-round contest before the Savannah Athletic club. In the third round Feeley went down under a left to the jaw and took a count of six. As he came up groggy Jeffords sent another to the same spot and Feeley was counted out. At 2 a. m. Feeley was still unconscious, notwithstanding the efforts of his seconds and two physicians to revive him. An injection of nitroglycerin was administered without having the effect of restoring consciousness. Jeffords is detained at the police station.

Entire Town Burning.

Montreal, Que., May 29.—A telephone message received at 2 a. m. from Mariesville, a small town 21 miles from here on the Central Vermont railway, says that a fire which broke out at midnight had destroyed 50 buildings and was still raging. The place has no fire protection appliances. The wind is blowing a gale.

The Wastes of the Body.

Every seven days the blood, muscles and bones of a man of average size loses two pounds of wornout tissue. This waste cannot be replenished and the health and strength kept up without perfect digestion. When the stomach and digestive organs fail to perform their functions, the strength lets down, health gives way, and disease sets up. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all of the wholesome food that may be eaten into the kind of blood that rebuilds the tissues and protects the health and strength of the mind and body. Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. It is an ideal spring tonic. Sold by Alvin H. Bulger.

Discuss Puddling and Finishing Scale.

Detroit, May 29.—The conference committees of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers and the iron manufacturers, which are discussing the puddling and finishing scale, held two sessions. It was stated satisfactory progress was being made and that no serious differences had arisen thus far during the consideration of the scale. President T. J. Shaffer was unable to attend the sessions owing to illness.

Norris Out of Race.

Youngstown, O., May 29.—Myron A. Norris, candidate for supreme judge, announced his withdrawal from the race. If conditions are favorable he will be a candidate for the nomination next year.

Correspondent Expelled.

St. Petersburg, May 29.—The government has expelled the London Times correspondent. He has been allowed three days' grace through the good offices of the British ambassador.

"It was almost a miracle. Burdock's Blood Bitters cured me of a terrible breaking out all over the body, and I am very grateful." Miss Julia Fillbridge, West Cromwell, Conn.

Running Race Record Broken.

Cleveland, May 29.—Athletes from Oberlin, Case, Ohio State, Reserve, Kenyon and Ohio Wesleyan held a field day at the Cleveland driving park. The half mile running race was done in 1:58 2-5, which breaks the western intercollegiate record by 1 2-5 seconds.

Fire in Machine Plant.

Boston, May 29.—A portion of the plant of the Perkins Machine company, in South Boston, including the foundry, pattern shop and boiler room, was burned, causing a loss of about $100,000.

Consul at San Francisco.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, May 29.—Senor Alejandro Noboa has been appointed Ecuadorean consul at San Francisco.

Until Hagee's Cordial of Cod Liver Oil was discovered the belief existed that the grease in cod liver was a part of the cure. This idea that all cod liver oils are greasy has prevented many from being restored to health by Hagee's Cordial, the only one which contains no grease.

A Woman's Complexion.

It is rank foolishness to attempt to remove sallowness or greasiness of the skin by the use of cosmetics, or "local" treatment, as advocated by the "beauty doctors." The only safe and sure way that a woman can improve her complexion is by purifying and enriching the blood, which can only be accomplished by keeping the liver healthy and active. The liver is the seat of disease and blood pollution. Green's August Flower acts directly on the liver, cleanses and enriches the blood, purifies the complexion. It also cures constipation, biliousness, nervousness, and induces refreshing sleep. A single bottle of August Flower has been known to cure the most pronounced and distressing cases of dyspepsia and indigestion. New size trial bottle, 25 cents; regular size, 75 cents. At all druggists. 1

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF OHIO.

GOVERNOR'S VETO.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio:

SECTION 1. That a proposition shall be submitted to the electors of this state, on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, A. D. 1903, to amend section 16, of article II, of the constitution of the state of Ohio, so that it shall read as follows:

ARTICLE II.

Sec. 16. Every bill shall be fully and distinctly read three different days, unless in case of urgency three-fourths of the house in which it shall be pending, shall dispense with the rule. No bill shall contain more than one subject, which shall be clearly expressed in its title, and no law shall be revived, or amended unless the new act contains the entire act revived, or the section or sections amended, and the section or sections so amended shall be repealed.

Every bill passed by both houses of the general assembly shall, before said bill can become law, be presented to the governor. If he approves he shall sign said bill and thereupon said bill shall be law. If he object he shall not sign and shall return said bill, together with his objections thereto in writing, to the house wherein said bill originated, which house shall enter at large upon its journal said objection and shall proceed to reconsider said bill. If, after said reconsideration, at least two-thirds of the members elect of that house vote to repass said bill it shall be sent, together with said objection, to the other house, which shall enter at large upon its journal said objection and shall proceed to reconsider said bill. If, after said reconsideration, at least two-thirds of the members-elect of that house vote to pass said bill it shall be law, otherwise it shall not be law. The votes for the repassage of said bill shall in each house respectively be no less than those given on the original passage. If any bill passed by both houses of the general assembly and presented to the governor is not signed and is not returned to the house wherein it originated and within ten days after being so presented, exclusive of Sunday and the day said bill was presented, said bill shall be law as in like manner as if signed, unless final adjournment of the general assembly prevents such return, in which case shall be law, unless objected to by the governor and filed, together with his objection thereto in writing, by him in the office of the secretary of state within the prescribed ten days; and the secretary of state shall at once make public said fact and shall return said bill, together with said objection, upon the opening of the next following session of the general assembly, to the house wherein said bill originated, where it shall be treated in like manner as if returned within the prescribed ten days.

If any bill passed by both houses of the general assembly and presented to the governor contains two or more sections, or two or more items of appropriation of money, he may object to one or more of said sections or to one or more of said items of appropriation of money, and approve the other portion of said bill, in which case said approved portion may be signed and then shall be law; and such section or sections, item or items of appropriation of money objected to shall be returned within the time and in the manner prescribed for, and shall be separately reconsidered as in the case of, a whole bill; but if final adjournment of the general assembly prevents such return the governor shall file said section or sections, item or items of appropriation of money, together with his objection thereto in writing, with the secretary of state as in the case of a whole bill, and the secretary of state shall then make public said fact, but shall not further act as in the case of a whole bill."

SECTION 2. At such election those electors desiring to vote for such amendment shall have placed upon their ballots the words "Constitutional amendment—governor's veto—yes;" and those opposed to such amendment shall have placed upon their ballots the words, "Constitutional amendment—governor's veto—no."

In the presence of a large and enthusiastic audience and with favorable and auspicious appointments, the class of 1903 of the East Liverpool high school was graduated last evening at the Grand opera house, to enter upon higher and broader education.

Great hopes are entertained for the success of the class of 1903, owing to its large number of 35 and sterling qualities, combined with unlimited energy.

Promptly at 8:15 o'clock the seniors marched upon the stage, making a beautiful appearance, the 10 young gentlemen in black and the 25 young ladies in elegant white gowns.

Forming in two lines, the graduates stood while the opening prayer was made by Rev. D. W. McQuiston, after which they were seated on the stage, and the scene at this point was most effective, representing a garden scene. The fancy Japanese lanterns suspended on the stage made the garden scene brilliant as well as perfect and unique. On the front of the stage the senior class colors, green and white, in crepe paper strips, were arranged in curtain effect draped back on both sides in double loops.

A feature of the evening was the excellent music rendered by the large high school chorus.

The commencement program was a new departure. The seniors took for their discussion a trip to European lands and each one talked upon the subject in an interesting manner.

The exercises began with a description of leaving home and successively

POLITICAL SKIES ARE CLEARED UP

PLACES STILL IN DOUBT

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, May 29.—The threatening clouds which overcast the political sky, have all disappeared, leaving an atmosphere of absolute tranquility. It was the masterful hand of Senator M. A. Hanua which wrought this. The R oosevelt endorsement question and its advocacy by Senator Foraker and his adherents and the shape in which the proposition confronted Senator Hanna all served to make the situation disquieting; but as soon as the president requested endorsement by Ohio, Senator Hanna at ance gave him his word that he should have it. The happy solution of the question is the sause of general satisfaction and now that it is settled there seems no reason why next week's Republican state convention should not be harmonious throughout. The slogan now is "Roosevelt, Hanna, Herrick and Harmony."

Some of the places to be filled by the c onvention are still in doubt. Herrick will be nominated for governor; Wade Ellis will be nominated for attorney general; Guilbert for auditor; McKinnon in all probability for treasurer, with the nomination for lieutenant governor, judge of the supreme court, and school commissioner are somewhat uncertain. Sheets seems to have the call for supreme judge at this time, but the contest is close. Summers, of Springfield, is pushing him hard. Norris, of Youngstown, has dropped behind in the race, but it is not impossible that he will take a spurt. Bonebrake is strong for commissioner. He is now on his second term and is backed by a powerful organization. Little attention is being paid the lieutenant governorship. Harding may be nominated. General Boothman is working hard for the honor as is Captain Nutt, of Sidney.

Senator Archeh has come out in favor of Senator Hanna for president. As he has always been known as a great Foraker man, his words have drawn much attention. "If Hanna comes out for president in 1904, I am for him," said he. "I think the Belmont county delegation is for him, too." The senator also stated that he has all along been in favor of endorsing Roosevelt.

The remains of Colonel Albert Brewer, the former pottery manufacturer, who died at his home at Tiffin Wednesday, have been taken to Trenton, N. J., his former home, for burial. He was the son of William Brewer, of Trenton, and came from a prominent and aristocratic family of New Jersey. Mrs. Brewer was Miss Harriet Niles, of New York. He leaves a seventeen-year-old daughter by a former wife. An escort of Elks accompanied the bodys to Trenton. Colonel Brewer was a graduate of Princeton college.

Nick Wessig, western representative of Marsching & Co., of New York, which supplies potteries and glass plants with color, was here yesterday, on his way to East Liverpool.

Arrested in the Yard.

Railroad Detective Jewell arrested two young men this morning in the Wellsville yards and placed them in the citl hall. They were brought before Mayor Fogo this morning, and gave their names as Jem Smith and Pat Mackessy, and their homes as Buffalo. Not being able to pay a fine they were taken back to the lockup, where they will remain for a few days.

Will Meet Two Teams.

The Crockery City base ball team will play two games at Rock Springs park tomorrow. The first will be with the Eclipse team of this city, and the second, in the afternoon, with the Federal Juniors, of Hickman, Pa.

Bids for New City Hall.

Lisbon, May 29.—(Special.)—The bids for the erection of the new city hall in Lisbon will not be opened until Monday evening.

Crew Escaped Without Injury—A Large Number of Barges Lost.

Carried along with the fierce current, the big tow boat Nellie Walton struck the dyke near Sewickley late yesterday afternoon, and in a few moments had settled to the bottom of the river. Her hull was crushed in in several places and soon filled with water. Her tow also drifted against the dyke and several of the barges laden with coal, were sunk. The loss will aggregate many thousands of dollars.

All of the officers and crew, numbering about 15, escaped to the barges from the sinking craft and were rescued without injury. The Walton is in about seven feet of water and experts think she can be easily raised.

The Walton left Pittsburg with ten barges of coal about noon yesterday, the accident occuring about 12 miles from the starting point. The boat and cargo are the property of the Monongahela Consolidated Coal & Coke company.

TWO SCHOOL BOYS KNOCKED FROM CAR

Accident Came Dangerously Near Ending Lives of Young Picnickers.

BOTH GOT BAD WOUNDS

While riding on the running board of a Rock Springs street car in Chester this morning John Franklin and William Stone, of Basil avenue, lads of about 15 years, met with an accident that came dangerously near ending their lives. They had boarded the car for the school picnic and being unable to find room on the inside, were standing on the board.

They had their backs turned to the front of the car and did not notice the actions of a frightened horse which was being driven by a farmer, who held in his hand a heavy iron pipe. In some manner when the animal reared the man lost control of the pipe and it fell from his grasp, striking Franklin and Stone with such force that they went reeling to the bricks.

The car was immediately stopped and many ran to their aid. They were found to be seriously hurt and were at once taken to the office of Dr. Hobbs. The physician examined the wounds inflicted on the boys' head and discovered Stone to be suffering from a terrible gash and Franklin from a fractured nose.

The boys displayed remarkable nerve while the physician was dressing their injuries, neither wincing while stitches were being made and plaster was being applied. The gash in Stone's head is fully an inch deep and three inches in length.

That the boys were not killed under the circumstances can hardly be accounted for, both lighting with terrific force on the hard pavement.

Robert Pollock, of Carroll, Nominated by Republicans for Senator.

Canton, May 29.—The nomination of Robert Pollock yesterday as the Republican candidate for state senator by the Republican senatorial convention in Canton was a genuine surprise. Stark county presented two candidates for the office, J. B. Snyder, ex-speaker pro tem of the house of representatives, and Pollock, who resides at North Lawrence. Carroll county, which is included in this district, together with Stark county, for years has been furnishing the Republican majorities, while Stark county always got the offices. This year little Carroll determined to get the senatorship, but after three ballots had been taken Carroll nominated Pollock by casting its entire vote for him.

The convention altogether was a very harmonious meeting, and Carroll county delegates think that by throwing their vote to Pollock their county will be well cared for by the nominee, who will be elected, since the Republican majority is quite large.

Three Arrests.

Three old stagers were arrested last night for being drunk. They were fined $2 and costs each this morning and released.

WOMAN IN LOVE WITH A CONVICT

Seeks the Pardon of John Eells' Who Killed His Brother at Lisbon.

HE SECURED A PARDON

But Is Again in Durance for Horse Stealing And His Lady Love Wants Him Set Free—A Romantic Case from Alliance.

Alliance, May 29.—A peculiar case of love and devotion is just coming to light in which an Alliance woman and a twice-convicted inmate of the Ohio penitentiary are the principals.

They became acquainted in Carroll county about 1892 and their acquaintance ripened into love, and if the story as told by the woman is true, would have culminated in matrimony, had not her lover taken a horse which did not belong to him. He was detected in the act of selling the animal, and for his offense he received a life sentence to the Ohio penitentiary at hard labor.

The story of the life of the man so devoutly loved by this woman is this: In 1875 John Eells lived at Lisbon, and in a sudden fit of anger he shot and killed his brother Charles. An effort to prove the shooting justifiable in self-defense failed. It was not a premeditated killing, and yet it was a cold-blooded murder and one of the most appalling in the annals of crime in that county. Every effort was made to lessen the crime for which he was to answer in the court, but they all failed. The trial was long and tedious and ended in the jury returning a verdict of murder and the judge sentenced him to hard labor and solitary confinement in the penitentiary for life.

In 1890, through an effort on the part of some of his friends, a petition was circulated asking for his pardon. Many believed that confinement within stone walls for 15 years was punishment sufficient to reform the man and atone for his deed.

The pardon was granted as prayed for and Eells came home and later went to Carroll county to live, where his deeds were forgotten. It was while there that he met the now Alliance woman, who was then a girl, and the two formed a mutual admiration for each other. If they had been wedded they probably would have lived happily together, but the innate desire to sin and transgress the laws was uppermost in the heart of the man and as before stated Eells stole a horse and for this crime was again sentenced for life, for his pardon was conditional that he sin no more.

Ever since their first meeting, the twain have been lovers and the nine years of incarceration in the cells of the penitentiary for his second offense has not dampened their ardor, although he is 51 and the woman 30 years of age. This is a case where love laughs at locksmiths and iron bars and stone walls are no barrier.

The woman is having her prayer in the nature of a petition drawn up and will go to Lisbon and Carrollton and try and induce the officials and the ex-officials of the two counties to aid her to open the door of the bondsman and set her lover free. Such devotion is seldom heard of but her efforts will hardly be rewarded for her pains and she will go through life unconsoled unless a second love appears upon the scene.

A CREAT RECORD BY HOMING PIGEONS

Made a Flight of 488 Miles from Indiana to This City in 24 Hours.

The six homing pigeons, owned by Teddy McDermott, Barney Peterson and Edward Sherwood, which they shipped to Terre Haute, Ind., a few days ago, were freed at the latter city yesterday morning at 5 o'clock and all of them arrived in East Liverpool, a distance of 488 miles, at daybreak this morning.

The record is said to be unparalelled and the owners are very proud.

Involved in Partition Proceedings Begun in Court By a Salem Woman.

Lisbon, May 29.—(Special.)—Partition proceedings involving a large amount of real estate have been begun in court here, Sarah A. Metzger, of Salem, through Attorneys Taylor & Baker, having filed a petition in partition against Joseph O. and Rebecca Greiner, of Salem.

The parties to the suit are joint owners of eight tracts of which the petition makes mention, 217 acres in Perry township; 161.33 acres in Ellsworth township, Manoning county; 109.17 acres in Ellsworth township; 221 acres, known as the Eli T. Arner farm, in Ellsworth township; 93 acres in Deerfield township, Portage county; 84.5 acres in Deerfield township; lot 140 in Tolerton & Kidd's addition to Salem and part of lot 886 in Assessors' addition to Salem.

The plaintiff asks that her one-third interest in this realty be set off to her.

A JOLLY TIME FOR CHILDREN

Four Thousand Youngsters Enjoy Themselves at Rock Springs Park.

ALL SORTS OF FUN ABOUND

Four thousand children, pupils of the East Liverpool schools, spent today at Rock Springs, where C. A. Smith and his scores of assistants made the day one long to be remembered by the small boy and his brother. Yesterday was the last day of school, and the youngsters, after finishing their term, were ready to cut things wide open. This they proceeded to do in the most approved and up-to-date manner.

Long before 9 o'clock this morning large crowds of school children had assembled at the Diamond, and anxiously awaited the arrival of cars to convey them to the other side of the river. All who resided in the suburbs were compelled to pay their fares on the East Liverpool railroad, but after they had been deposited in the Diamond everything was free, thanks to Mr. Smith's generous impulses. The present instance is the second upon which the management of the park has offered free transportation, admission to the park and other privileges which the pupils of the school could enjoy. Last year the affair was something of an experiment. This spring every one knew just what to expect, and all looked forward to the event with pleasant anticipation for weeks.

The East Liverpool & Rock Springs road carried over 6,000 passengers during the day, and when evening came the park was thronged with a happy crowd of youngsters, among whom had been added many of the parents, who had come over after dinner.

John Franklin and William Stone were seriously hurt during the morning and were compelled to return to the city. Aside from this no one was reported to have been hurt in any way. The day passed off without incident and was not notable for anything save the complete enjoyment of the occasion, it being a pleasant and fitting end to a busy and prosperous school year.

Johnny Headley was there from Gardendale, and he had been "staked" before he left home. With 25 cents he was enabled to see the whole show, and as the circus fiend would say, "he stayed for the concert and drank his fill of red lemonade." John is 13 years old and was in his bare feet. When he was on the grounds 10 minutes his face looked like the tattooed lady in a side show, but Johnny didn't care. He went down to the spring and threw stones at the tin cups until there was not a whole one left.

Emmet Cunningham was all by himself. He told his mother he would be good and promised to stay near his teacher. He never knew the world was so big, and when he landed in Chester, the place was so strange that he tnought he would never get home. He began to cry and not being able to locate his teacher was about to start for East Liverpool on foot. He did not know the way and no one would tell him, so he cried harder than ever. About this time "Gillie" Anderson

H. H. HUGHES FOUND DEAD WITH HIS NECK BROKEN

LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA MADE HIM HELPLESS

Lying cold in death, the result of a terrible accident, Harry H. Huges, though a resident of the city less than 15 years, one of its most widely known citizens, was found between the hours of 1 and 2 o'clock this morning by Mrs. William Fortune, at whose home, 133 Third street, he had roomed for nearly a year.

When discovered the lifeless body was in a heap at the foot of the stairs, which he had been attempting to climb when seized with an attack of locomotor ataxia, a disease of which he had been a victim for five years. It is thought that he reeled and fell backward, striking his head on the side of the wall with such force that his life was blotted out almost instantly. His neck was broken.

Mrs. Fortune thinks that life had been extinct but a few moments when she found him. She states that, contrary to his usual custom, he was about the house several times at short intervals during the early evening. At about 11 o'clock she and her daughter retired and did not awaken when he entered the house. At nearly 1 o'clock both she and daughter were suddenly aroused by a crash in the hallway, but were not frightened, believing it to be caused by Mr. Hughes, and knowing that he was subject to spasmodic attacks of his distressing malady.

However, after listening closely for further sounds and hearing nothing, they feared that he might have been rendered unconscious by a fall, and decided to investigate. Donning their wearing apparel, they approached the door leading to the hall and grasped the knob. They found it difficult to force the door. Against it lay some heavy object and their doubled strength was required to make the opening. A light had been procured and when the couple got a view of the motionless form, they realized with all its dreadfullness the true situation.

Both were horrified at the sight. From the position into which he was thrown by the fall, the blood of his body had coursed over his head, blackening the face and swelling it, until only one well acquainted with the man would have been able to recognize him. For a short time the women were so horrified that they could not conceive of the proper plan to pursue, but finally recovering from the shock, they called in a neighbor family and watch was held over the inanimate form until early morning, when Undertaker Rinehart was summoned. He quickly prepared the body

Friendly Feeling Toward Harrison County May Secure Her Honors Later.

Lisbon, May 29.—(Special.)—The Lisbon delegation returned from Wellsville last evening, well satisfied with the work and results of the senatorial convention.

The entire Columbiana county delegation has a friendly feeling toward Harrison county and its candidate, J. H. Beal, and that county will probably yet something two years hence when this county will have power to bestow it.

West Virginia Town to Give Free Site and $45,000 Bonus.

S. E. Strickline and Charles Macauley, of the Cameron Pottery company, were in the city today to confer with the local pottery machinery manufacturers. Mr. Strickline stated that they would make a contract for the machinery for a new plant the Benedum brothers, principal owners of the Cameron venture, are to build in Mannington, W. Va.

The terms by which Mannington was chosen are said to be a bonus of $45,000 and a free site of three acres. The promoters are to invest an amount equal to the bonus. All the details for the Mannington plant have been arranged and the contracts entered into. Mr. Strickline stated that ground has been broken for the buildings. The plant is to be an exact counterpart of the one at Cameron.

Victory for Elks.

The Elks base ball team defeated the Carroll club aggregation yesterday afternoon at Rock Springs park by a score of 6 to 5. The teams have played three games and the Elks have won two of them.

LAST OF SERIES D VOTES

Votes are coming in in large numbers for the candidates for the News Review prizes. The series D coupons, which expire June 1, should be sent in tonight, if possible. If any voter is unable to get them here this evening, this office will be open for a short time tomorrow evening and the votes will be received at that time. An unfortunate typographical error yesterday made it appear that Matthew Curran was going backward rather than forward, which is far from being the case. The list of votes published today gives him proper credit. The lists are mounting up rapidly, and two months more of voting will show totals for many which will be something to be proud of, even if the recipients are not prize winners.

WITH THE WORKMEN IN THE CLAY PLANTS

PEORIA NOTES.

Peoria, May 28.—The pottery here is running about the same as usual, the clay hands only working six days last pay. The trouble is a shortage of saggers. The firm claims to have lots of orders and it looks that way, as Barney Foutts sent to East Liverpool for Harry Farmer to come and help him in the packing shed.

Harris Smith, the big jumbo jigger man, is working out his notice after a service of 11 years. He will leave a host of friends who regret to see him go. He has not decided where he will locate, as he intends to rest for a few weeks and probably until the holidays and go camping with the boys. He received an offer from New Castle, but has not decided for the reasons given above.

John Blank, Harris Smith and Walt McKeone went over to Bloomington to see Kid Barker pitch Sunday, but fate was against them as it rained all day. The Kid and Godwin are taking good care of themselves and both say they never felt better in their lives, and their looks show it. The Kid is pitching wonderful ball and says they are going to win the pennant. Stoffel, who pitched for Rochester against East Liverpool in 1899, when Kid beat them 4 to 2, was to pitch against him Sunday for the first time since that game. The base ball fans are wild over the fielding, batting and base running of John Godwin and they say his fielding is the finest ever seen in Bloomington. He made a catch the other day, and when he came in they showered money on him. If they both keep up their gait they will be in one of the big leagues next season.

READY FOR THE PICNIC.

Nothing but unfavorable weather will stand in the way of the success of the N. B. of O. P. picnic, which is to be held at Rock Springs park on next Monday. The operatives are looking forward to this event with a great deal of pleasure and if the weather is fair they will not be disappointed. The picnic committee has arranged several interesting contests, among them a race for old men, a handicap race and a ball game between the pressers and jiggermen. Word from Sebring is that negotiations are on for a special train to carry the operatives from Sebring and Salineville. The New Cumberland operatives will be up in force and several other towns will be represented.

POTTERY OFFICIAL SCALDED.

T. J. McNicol, an official of the Salem China company, met with a mishap at the pottery which will confine him to his home for some time. There was something the matter with the steam pipes and the pump in the water pit and Mr. McNicol himself decided to remedy the defect. As he was going down the ladder he slipped and fell in the pit in the scalding water. He managed to save himself from falling fact downward, but as it was, both legs to the knees were immersed in the boiling water. The skin has already peeled off of one leg and it is thought that the other limb will be affected the same way.

A NEW LOCAL.

The operatives at Derry are to be organized into a local of the N. B. of O. P. by President Duffy, who will visit that city one day next week. The Derry operatives will have the distinction of being the first local organized by the new president. Many of the operatives are from this city and prior to leaving the city were members of the different locals here, so President Duffy will have no difficulty in his work. The local will be a mixed one.

WILL LEAVE THE TRADE.

Harvey Walker, the well known clarionetist of Hayne's band, has concluded that a potter's life is not one to be envied and has announced his intention of leaving the trade. He will accept a position at the Dueber Watch company's works in Canton and will leave for that place next Monday.

IMPROVEMENTS COMPLETED.

The new addition to the decorating department of the Homer Laughlin China company's plant No. 3 has been completed. A portion of the glost warehouse has been partitioned off and fitted up as a wareroom for the decorators, and four new decorating kilns have been added to the plant.

WORK RESUMED.

Work has been resumed at the Keswick China company's plant, New Brighton, after a shut down, due to a lack of material.

AMONG THE WORKERS.

Miss Kate Early has taken a finishing bench at the Dresden.

Clarence McDole, finisher at Brunt's, has gone to the Dresden.

Albert Lowe, of McNicol's kiln department, is working his notice.

Edward Bratt has accepted a jigger in the Warwick plant, Wheeling.

John McBride, clay maker at McNicol's, who has been suffering with rheumatism, is recuperating at Mt. Clemens, Mich.

Arthur Lowe, boss of the McNicol combination crew, has left the trade to devote his entire attention to his grocery business.

GUARANTEED BY WILL REED

Hyomei the Only Cure for Catarrh Which Returns Your Money If Not Satisfactory.

It is seldom that a druggist has enough faith in a medicine he sells even when prepared by himself, to be willing to refund the money if it does not cure; but Hyomei has cured so many cases of catarrh among the customers of Will Reed that he offers to refund the money to all who use it and report that they are not satisfied.

Hyomei is the simplest and most convenient remedy for catarrh ever offered to the public. Breathed through an inhaler so small that it can be carried in the vest pocket, for a few minutes four times a day, it will absolutely kill all the germs of catarrh and cure the disease.

Catarrh cannot exist where Hyomei is used. It has a two-fold action, killing all the germs in the air passages and lungs and soothing and healing the irritated mucous membrane.

Many of the prominent men and women of the country have gladly given testimonials to Hyomei. After seeking relief in vain for years, this wonderful remedy has cured them of catarrh, and it is no wonder that they want others to know it.

Rev. Dr. Stryker, of the 34th street church, New York city, writes: "Hyomei gives wonderful relief in catarrh when other remedies have failed. It has been of great service to me."

If you have catarrh, accept Will Reed's proposition and use Hyomei.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty cent and dollar sizes are sold by all good druggists.

TRIED TO TAKE HIS CHILD AWAY

Mahoning County Man Figures in a Sensation at Salineville And Is Arrested.

Salineville, May 29.—(Special.)—Salineville citizens were treated to a mild sensation Tuesday afternoon when Walter Hufford, from near Youngstown, attempted to spirit away his child from its mother, Mrs. Hufford, who is now employed at the hotel recently opened by E. E. Swisher, formerly of Petersburg, Mahoning county. Hufford arrived in town Tuesday and was seen in the vicinity of the hotel where his wife is working and who has the care of the child.

He had been drinking some in the forenoon and told several persons that he would steal away the child. About 3 p. m. the child, which is about 18 months old, was playing on the sidewalk when Hufford put in his appearance and forcibly carried it away. He started up the railway and was fast making away when H. E. Blazer saw him. He at once started in pursuit after the man, at times attempting to have him stop, but he was deaf to all alarms and kept on running with the child. A man by the name of Knox then joined in pursuit after the alleged kidnapper. Finally Blazer overtook the man, who threatened him, but his pursuer was not frightened. Hufford was overtaken and shortly overpowered.

He was then placed under arrest and brought to the city jail by Knox, where he was incarcerated in the cell. Marshal Higgins, who was busy, arrived a short time after the man was placed behind the bars. The child was left with its mother at the hotel.

The coupe have been married for some time, but they have decided to separate, she taking the child with her. He claims that the child belongs to him. Excitement ran high until it was found that the man had a right to the child, there having been no order from the court to the contrary. An investigation soon satisfied the authorities that nothing but a charge of disorderly conduct could be lodged against the man, and it was filed. Wednesday forenoon a brother of the prisoner was present. Hufford pleaded guilty, was fined $3 and costs and given his freedom.

Cured His Mother of Rheumatism.

"My mother has been a sufferer for many years with rheumatism," says W. H. Howard, of Hustand, Pa. "At times she was unable to move at all, while at all times walking was painful. I presented her with a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and after a few applications she decided it was the most wonderful pain reliever she had ever tried, in fact, she is never without it now and is at all times able to walk. An occasional application of Pain Balm keeps away the pain that she was formerly troubled with." For sale by Alvin & Bulger.

EAST END

SUNDAY SERVICES

Special Features Have Been Prepared at Several of the Churches And Field Day Will be Observed.

Wayne B. Wheeler, attorney for the Anti-Saloon league, will occupy the pulpit of the Second United Presbyterian church Sunday and will deliver a lecture upon the subject of temperance. He is one of the speakers sent to this city for the observance of the league's field day and the people of the East End are fortunate in being afforded the opportunity of hearing one of the most eloquent men in the state.

Quarterly meeting will be observd Sunday at the Erie street Methodist church. Rev. G. W. Orcutt will preach at the morning service, after which communion will be administered. Rev. Dr. C. E. Manchester, presiding elder of the district, will conduct the evening services and after the sermon the love feast will be held.

There will be services at the Second Presbyterian church both morning and evening, one of the services to be devoted to a lecture upon the subject of temperance.

The first services will be held Sunday in the new Second Christian edifice, which was dedicated last Sunday. Rev. C. A. Kleeberger will be in charge.

School Children's Outing.

The East End furnished a full quota of school children for the picnic at Rock Springs park today. The little ones were in charge of the teachers of the East End schools and were brought down town on the street cars. The children were happier than they have been for months, as they were going out for a day of pleasure and entering upon a long respite from school work. The cars down town this morning were crowded with the children until 10 o'clock this morning, and from their young throats came sweet music. There were no mishaps to mar the beginning of the day, the car crews taking particular pains for the safety of their little charges.

A Narrow Escape.

Robert Larkins, a prominent and popular young business man, had a narrow escape from serious injury Wednesday night while driving his team of spirited young colts. He was sending the animals at a rapid pace to escape an approaching storm and attempted to pass in front of a street car at the corner of Fifth and Washington streets. The car struck the rear of the vehicle, but luckily did not overturn it. The damage was very slight, and Mr. Larkins escaped unhurt.

Will Close Tomorrow.

All the establishments in the East End that usually close at 6 o'clock in the evening will remain open tonight until a late hour, owing to the fact that Memorial day is to be observed. There will be no attempt to do business tomorrow. The rush at the grocery stores commenced early this morning and continued all day, the sales including provisions sufficient for three days. Quiet will reign in the East End tomorrow.

A Wrong Impression.

The impression has been given out that the P. H. C. lodges of this section were giving the picnic, which is to be held at Rock Springs park tomorrow. This is a mistake, as the affair is entirely in the hands of the Pennsylvania orders. The five lodges hereabout nave accepted invitations to attend and have appointed committees to assist their hosts.

Trip Postponed.

Notice has been received by Pan-American court, Tribe of Ben Hur, that the meeting of the Braddock, Pa., tribe, to which they were invited, has been postponed owing to the graduating exercises which are scheduled for the same night, Wednesday, June 10. Quite a number had intended to accept the invitation and they will do so later.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

William McVay will spend Decoration day at Toronto.

Robert Hutchinson will spend tomorrow fishing at Aum Cliff.

Ray McDaniel will leave for Pittsburg in the morning to take in the ball games.

Henry Neininger, of Mulberry street, moved his family to Wedgewood street this morning.

Miss Myrtle Barber, who has been the guest of Will Andrews and family, returned to her home in Washington county today.

D. Frank White left this morning for Sharon, Pa., where he will remain for a few days on business.

A. P. Myler, field agent for the Tribe of Ben Hur, received word this morning that the new tribe at Toronto had initiated 19 candidates at its last meeting and accepted 15 additional applications.

Broke

Down With Nervous Prostration.

But Dr. Miles' Nervine Cured Permanently.

"Some six years ago I completely broke down from evangelistic work. I suffered from nervous prostration and stomach trouble and was confined to my bed and room for months. While I had as good a physician as this city affords he failed to pull me out, and I tried many remedies and they were so hard on my stomach that I could not take them. At last I found Dr. Miles' Nervine. Ah, that was a nail in a sure place and enabled me to cry out 'Eureka.' I was soon able to be out and at work. I consider Dr. Miles' Nervine the thing for nerve and stomach trouble. I also use in my family most of Dr. Miles' Medicines, as household remedies." —Rev. Geo. W. Draper, Danville, Ill.

"About a year ago I failed in health and my case was said to be nervous derangement and heart trouble. My stomach was also affected and I suffered from a variety of symptoms such as wind on the stomach, shortness of breath, smothering spells, pain around the heart and left shoulder. My ankles were frequently swollen and my face was often feverish. There were little puffs under my eyes at times and I had headache almost constantly. I wrote to you for advice and in addition to general directions as to taking care of myself you prescribed Restorative Nervine, Heart Cure and Nerve and Liver Pills. I will state that my complete and permanent return to health followed."—Miss Josephine Kern, Galena, Ill.

WEIGH YOURSELF BEFORE USING

Weigh yourself before commencing to use Mi-o-na, the great flesh-forming food. The wonderful sale on this preparation, since first introduced in East Liverpool and the remarkable results following its use, have made Will Reed such an enthusiastic believer in the great value of Mi-o-na, that he gives his personal guarantee to refund the money if Mi-o-na will not make thin people fat, cure indigestion and restore health.

This is a strong guarantee, but Druggist Will Reed has seen so many of his customers who a few weeks ago looked like walking skeletons, become plump and well, solely through the use of Mi-o-na that he feels he cannot say too much to induce people to try it.

This marvelous flesh-forming food is assimilated as soon as it is taken into the stomach, makes good, rich blood, tones up the weakened digestive organs, helps the food to digest, and makes permanent cures in the worst cases of indigestion.

Nervous Depression.

Summer months are peculiarly the months of nervous diseases, especially nervous prostration and other depressed states of the nervous system. People who are not at all inclined to be nervous or suffer from weak nerves find this time especially trying. Sultry heat and electrical disturbances of the atmosphere are probably the cause of this.

Invalids need to be particularly careful to fortify the nervous system by the use of Peruna.

Miss Helen Rolof, Kaukauna, Wis., writes:—"Several times during the past two years or more my system has been greatly in need of a tonic, and at those times Peruna has been of great help in building up the system, restoring my appetite and securing restful sleep. I know a great number of women who are using it for the troubles peculiar to the sex, and with the best results."—Helen Rolof.

MISS HELEN ROLOF.

MISS LOUISE BERTSEL.

MISS JENNIE FINLEY.

MISS LUCY M. RILEY.

PERUNA THE GREAT TONIC

Miss Louise Bertsel, 19½ Second street, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:—"My health was excellent until about six months ago, when I seemed to have a collapse from overdoing socially, and the doctor ordered an entire change of scene and climate. As this was an absolute impossibility at the time, I had to try and regain my health in another way and was induced by a friend, who gave Peruna such a good recommend, to try Peruna. I cannot tell you the condition of my nerves when I began to use it. The least noise irritated me, and I felt that life was not worth living, but Peruna soon changed me into a well woman, and now I do not know I have nerves."—Louise Bertsel.

'A newspaper contributor was lately admitted into the extensive suite of offices which constitute the headquarters of Dr. Hartman, who treats catarrh patients by the thousand. Among the busy swarm of assistant doctors, clerks, stenographers and bookkeepers, Dr. Hartman stopped long enough to say a few words.

"A large number of female patients visit me every year, but the number who are entered on my books as regular patients and are treated by correspondence is very much larger. Hundreds of letters are received and answered free every day. A yet greater multitude take my catarrh remedy, Peruna, and are cured, of whom I never hear. Some of this latter class write me years after their cure.

"I never allow a name published except by the written consent of the patient. We make no charge at any time. The medicine only is obtained by each patient at her own drug store. Those desiring to become regular patients have only to send address, duration of disease and treatment previously received, and directions for the first month's treatment will be sent at once."

Over half the women have catarrh in some form or another. And yet, probably not a tenth of the women know that their disease is catarrh. To distinguish catarrh of various organs it has been named very differently.

Miss Jennie Finley, 79 Madison Street, Memphis, Tenn., a popular young society lady of that place, writes:—"Three years ago I had very poor health, and while I was only sick abed occasionally, I was unable to enjoy life, and lacked vitality and strength. I was an easy subject to cold and malaria. Four bottles of Peruna changed my entire physical condition. My head stopped aching, my strength returned, and the poison was driven out of my blood till I felt like a new and well woman once more. It is a truly great medicine and well worthy the good things its friends say about it, and it will always have my indorsement."—Jennie Finley.

Miss Lucy M. Riley, 33 Davenport street, Cleveland, Ohio, writes:—"I wish to add my indorsement to thousands of other women who have been cured through the use of Peruna. I suffered for five years with severe backache, and when weary or worried in the least I had prolonged headache. This fall I caught a bad cold and was advised to take Peruna for it. Imagine my astonishment and pleasure to find that after taking two bottles not only was my cough gone, but I had no more backache or headache. I am now in perfect health, enjoy life and have neither an ache or pain, thanks to Peruna."—Lucy M. Riley.

One woman has dyspepsia, another bronchitis, another Bright's disease, another liver complaint, another consumption, another female complaint. These women would be very much surprised to hear that they are all suffering with chronic catarrh. But it is so, nevertheless.

Each one of these troubles and a great many more are simply catarrh—that is, chronic inflammation of the mucous lining, of which organ is affected. Any internal remedy that will cure catarrh in one location will cure it in any other location. This is why Peruna has become so justly famous in the cure of female diseases. It cures catarrh wherever located. Its cures remain. Peruna does not palliate—it cures.

Memorial day will be appropriately and impressively observed tomorrow by the veterans, sons of veterans and patriotic orders generally. It is a cause for regret that it cannot and will not be so observed by everybody. The tendency to turn it into a day of pleasure is one that ought to be frowned upon. The day was set apart for solemn services, and its quiet ought not to be disturbed by shouts of revelry and merry-making. Enjoyments ought to be in keeping with the character of the day. Fast day, in New England, first observed by the Pilgrim Fathers, has so lost its character in these modern times, that the governor of Maine, in issuing a recent proclamation appointing the day, as law and custom require, said he hoped the day would not be observed, probably meaning that he hoped it would not be observed in the usual fashion, with scarcely a thought of the causes which first led to its celebration. Let us hope that Memorial day will never fall into similar disuse and desecration. There are hundreds of days in the year which can be devoted to work or pleasure, and surely we can spare one day for recalling the bravery and the deeds of those who died for their country and holding it sacred to their memories.

The Republican senatorial convention at Wellsville resulted in nominations that are eminently satisfactory to Columbiana county and ought to be likewise to the entire district. That Messrs. Connell and Heinlein will be elected there is no doubt. The former has had one term in the senate and his good work there certainly entitles him to another. That was the view taken of the matter, not only by Columbiana county, but by the majority in the convention. With his previous experience and his well-known ability and his plainly demonstrated desire to serve his constituents faithfully, he ought to be a more valuable man than ever during his second term. Mr. Heinlein is a lawyer of acknowledged ability and high standing in Belmont county and will represent the district with credit and honor. Matters ended entirely satisfactorily to everybody, except perhaps a portion of the Jefferson county delegation. Whether justly or unjustly, Jefferson's prospects were clouded at the start by rumors of her alleged intentions, and were not helped by the disposition shown by some of the delegates to carry a county fight into the district convention and to wash dirty linen in public. However, all is well that ends well, and the convention ended in a manner that will meet with the general approval of the Republicans of the district and assure the ticket of hearty support.

When, as will be the case some day, "joint" senatorial districts shall cease to exist, it will be a cause for rejoicing among the people who now live and vote in such peculiar subdivisions as place counties of different congressional districts in the same senatorial district. Linking together counties whose community of interest is small is not the best way to produce harmonious conventions or to give all their rights politically. When the time for redistricting comes, Columbiana county and probably every other county in what is now styled the Twentieth-Twenty-second district, will be satisfied if it can be placed in one senatorial subdivision of the state and not in two.

The men most strenuously opposed to an endorsement of President Roosevet by Ohio Republicans are most positive in their declarations that there is no opposition to him. What, then, the harm of an endorsement?

A class of 35 high school graduates in East Liverpool is a great credit to the city. The graduates can, if they will, so shape their careers as to reflect still greater honor and credit upon both the city and themselves.

The milliners are joining in the crusade against the decorating of women's hats with stuffed song birds. It is evident that the milliners have found out how to make ribbons just as expensive.

A European physician contends that there is a mental disease called automobilomania. It is probably too expensive to become troublesomely common outside of a limited circle.

King Alfonso of Spain has just inherited $7,500,000. He makes no secret of it, owing to the fact that he can appoint his own tax assessors.

H. H. HUGHES FOUND DEAD WITH HIS NECK BROKEN

for a coffin and then it was thought best to inform the dead man's wife, with whom he had not lived for a number of years. She was terribly shocked upon receiving the news, but insisted that she see the body. In company with her son, Harry Louis, she went to the home, and the scene as they gazed upon husband and father was most dramatic. Mrs. Hughes was hardly able to bear the ordeal and gave way in deepest emotion. She ordered that the body be removed to her home, Walnut street, where the funeral services will be conducted.

Harry H. Hughes was 41 years of age and was born in Ohioville, where he worked as an oil operator until 1887, when, with his wife, whose maiden name was Louie Potts, and their only child, Harry Louis, he moved to this city. He accepted a position with the Bridgewater Gas company, as inspector. While in the employ of the company he worked under the superintendency of J. M. Kelly, who in the following words spoken this morning briefly but descriptively portrays the character of the man that made him quickly the friend of every acquaintance:

"Harry Hughes was a gentleman and socially there was never a better man in East Liverpool. He was generous to a fault. Though he had one common fault, his good characteristics shone bright enough to hide it."

Until 1897 he worked with the gas company, and within a few months left for the south. While at Ashville, Ky., he enlisted in Company B, of the Second U. S. Regulars, and was immediately stationed at Lithia Springs, Ga. A short time later he was ordered to Porto Rico, where his company remained but ten days, receiving orders to return to America. While stationed at Montauk Point, he contracted malaria and became so bad that he was removed to St. Peter's hospital, Brooklyn. After a while he recovered somewhat and secured a furlough. He spent the time in East Liverpool, and upon his return to camp was ordered before a nexamination board at Savannah, Ga. The physicians pronounced him a victim of locomotor ataxia and the disease rendering him totally unable to serve in the army, he was honorably discharged. He returned to his home in this city and since his arrival lived in misery from the effects of the malady. His means of support since his discharge from the army was a pension of $50 per month.

WELLSVILLE

MEMORIAL DAY

Elaborate Program for Its Observance in Wellsville.

The citizens of Wellsville have made all the necessary arrangements to have the celebrations of Memorial day be such that will be long remembered. The principals of this movement are the members of the G. A. R., W. R. C. and S. of V. The various committees appointed by the different organizations have worked unceasingly to have the day prove successful in every way.

At a recent meeting of the executive committee selected to make all arrangements the following officers were appointed: General J. W. Reilly, master of ceremonies; T. A. Lloyd, chief marshal; F. K. Hutcheson, aid; George B. Aten, officer of the day. Those who have charge of the schools are: Prof. J. L. McDonald, W. C. Fraser and T. L. Apple.

The procession will form at the public square and will march promptly at 8 a. m. down Main street to Tenth street, stopping at Ninth street, where the school will join, out Tenth to the cemetery. Returning up Tenth street, to Commerce street, Commerce to Ninth, Ninth to Main, thence to G. A. R. hall, where it will be dismissed.

The program at the cemetery will be:

Prayer .....Rev. W. C. Prewitt
Song, "America"..... Chorus
Decoration of graves.....
.....G. A. R. Services
Reading of President Lincoln's address at Gettysburg.....
..... Dr. B. R. Parke
Benediction.....Rev. C. E. Clark

Quite a number of organizations have expressed a desire to join the procession and the various labor organizations of the city have engaged Haines' band, of East Liverpool, to furnish music for the day. If this fine weather continues the celebration will be one that has never been surpassed.

An Enjoyable Musical Event.

The organ recital given last evening in the M. E. church by Paris R. Meyers, of Wheeling, was one of the finest ever rendered in this city. His program consisted of nine instrumental pieces and several selections by a male quartet from Wheeling. The church was crowded despite the hot weather and all enjoyed the program. While Mr. Meyers' pieces were exceedingly fine still the vast crowd seemed to enjoy the beautiful singing of the quartet. A neat sum, after all expenses were deducted, was added to the church's treasury.

READY FOR LIFE'S BATTLE IS THE CLASS OF 1903

described points of interest, scenes and events in the old world, including Europe, Asia and Africa, the return journey and its pleasant memories. It was all well rendered and deeply interesting to the large audience.

Following speeches of the class Prof. Rayman made a few brief remafks which were fitting and interesting and received the due appreciation o. the audience. Following these remarks the presentation of the highest honors to Miss Alta Flowers and the diplomas to the class of 1903 concluded the exercises.

The words of the closing s ong, "The Buckeye State," sung in an impressive and pleasing manner by Will A. Rhodes, were written by Walter J. Blakely, a former well known resident of East Liverpool. He now lives in St. Louis, and is a member of the Louisana purchase exposition commission. Mr. Blakely spend several days in this city about two months ago, and while visiting the schools promised the verses for the melody. The class joined in the chorus with much spirit.

The discussions of the evening are here summarized:

Bailey Davenport Gipner

Had the honor of decribing the events leading up to the beginning of the imaginary trip abroad and told of what happened to the class while it was making the journey across the sea. He explained that the board of education had agreed to pay all expenses and provide a suitable chaperon. The start was made from East Liverpool the second week in June and there was an affecting scene at the station as the class took its departure. Friends, relatives and even the enemies had assembled for the occasion and bade them godspeed. The journey to New York and the voyage across the Atlantic was without event and on the tenth day out the European shore was sighted. It was night when the class disembarked and all were too tired for sightseeing.

Mabel L. Pilgrim

Took particular notice of famous points of London and described the interesting features attached to each in a manner quickly grasped and much enjoyed. She saw Westminster abbey, the place where kings and queens held forth for more than 800 years, where the crowned and royal families lived. The coronation chair brought to mind many historical stories and impressed her deeply. The old tower of London on the Thames and the British museum were visited by her and must have been hugely enjoyed, as they were painted with the words of a poet.

Minnie Stoddard.

London's famous streets were of particular interest to Miss Stoddard and her observation and impressions of them were instructive and interesting. She told of the wanderings of the class through Trafalgar Square, one of London's most historic spots, of the famous national art galleries, the ancient cathedrals, the Nelson monument, almost as familiar to Americans who have never visited London as those who have lived years in the great English capital.

Will A. Rhodes

Enjoyed a personal interview with Lord Balfour, who is now the chief colonial secretary. He found the great statesman to be a lover of strenuous living, like our president, Theodore Roosevelt. He is refined, fastidious; loves books and has a noticeable taste for art. He delights in righteous discomfort for a rival, but never triumphs over the victory of an opponent. He enjoys a commanding influence and though now famous has seemingly only entered on his grand career.

Maude Emeline Barlow.

There was a great attraction in the homes of the English to Miss Barlow and from her observation she contrasted them with those of America. The different in our mode of living with that of our English cousins is very marked. The stately homes of England are very beautiful, the tapestry, decorations and other adornments being of a most princely and inimitable type. Regret was expressed that the stay in London was not long enough to permit of more precise investigations.

Blanche N. McDonnell.

The peculiar names given to the inns of England attracted the attention of Miss McDonnell. In every one that sheltered the members of the class they found a royal hospitality. From the names their places of shelter were selected, and among the appealing names were the White Horse, the Red Dragon and many others famous in history and fiction.

Ruby Agnes Kinsey

Remembered well the experience of her self and classmates on the glorious Fourth of July in London. She noted that American patriotism shown forth on many faces in the mother country, but thought it queer when apprised of certain restrictions placed upon the people. She knew that restrictions were made on many things in the old country, but thought that on the celebrated day rule and government should be dispensed with. She was with a crowd of Americans that chartered a boat for a sail down the Thames. One of the party fired a sky rocket and all were surprised to see a nearby ship suddenly stop and then start toward them. It was later discovered that the rocket was similar to a sign of distress.

Mary Brozka.

Sunny Spain and her people found a place in the heart of Miss Brozka, although the national capital, famous old Madrid, was a disappointment. She found Madrid a great city of almost 400,000 inhabitants, where luxury and beggary was emphasized above any other city of Europe. The number of peddlers is greater and they are a pest to the traveler, following one until the square, called "the Gate of the Sun," is reached. Here they are forbidden. Miss Brozka noted that the famous old fountains of the city were crumbling and that instead of being repaired new ones were being constructed. Madrid is the first city in the world in promenades, theaters and shows and the passion of the Spaniard for music almost equals that for bull fighting.

Jessie S. Shaw

Was much enthused over her visit in Constantinople. She saw cities more beautiful on the long trip, but the metropolis of Turkey had features to be found only in Constantinople. Narrow streets and high buildings whose eves almost intermingle from opposite sides of the thoroughfares. The streets are lined almost continuously with men, women and children. Their characteristics are plainly to be observed. Laziness seems to be a disease among them, those who can afford it having not less than three slaves to do less than the average American would scoff at as work. The streets are filled with dogs and they are ever dominating, every one being compelled to make room for them.

Josiah Clare Smith.

The crumbling ruins of Rome, the eternal city, and the capital of one of the greatest empires the world ever knew, drew the attention of Mr. Smith. He visited the forum, where once was heard the unparalleled eloquence of Cicero. He spent hours in the temple of St. Anthony, the stragetic key to the city, and was lost in wonderment at the Coliseum. There he observed the natives enter the crumbling ruins to worship at a crucifix of the virgin.

Florence L. Webber

Will never forget her sojourn in Cairo, the famous capital of ancient Egypt. Its scenes recalled the numerous biblical stories of which she had heard and read, and a gaze upon the realities made a l sting impression. Considerable time was spent in viewing the mosques. In one where the children attend daily school a noticeable feature was the absence of tiers and desks; the books being printed so that it is necessary to read from right to left, and the children before entering the mosques are seen to lay aside their shoes, but all wear hats. The streets are filled with beggars, who are mostly all cripples. It is said that one-third of Cairo's population are blind, or have defective eyesight.

Maude Shive.

Gliding upon the black waters of the Nile, aboard the Mayflower, one of the stately steamers that ply the stream, Miss Shive received her most vivid impressions of the foreign lands. Snugly esconced upon the steamer chairs the members of the class were carried past scenes historic through all the ages—past the pyramids, the giant accomplishment of ancient hordes which time has sought in vain to efface. They

NAU'S DYSPEPSIA CURE— IT CURES THE CAUSE.

"For 20 years until within the last 15 months I have been greatly troubled with indigestion and have used a great many remedies without obtaining any permanent relief. About the 15th of June, 1900 I commenced using Nau's Dyspepsia Cure, and am pleased to say that I consider myself entirely cured of all stomach troubles. I have delayed expressing to you my opinion of your valuable remedy until such a time has elapsed as to convince me of my entire recovery. At the time I began to use Nau's Dyspepsia Cure, my health was in a critical condition and my friends had almost given up hopes of my recovery, and I am satisfied in my opinion that had it not been for Nau's Dyspepsia Cure, I would not be alive to write this letter." A Series of Three Interesting Games at Central Park Promised.

The Marines, of Canton, are in Wellsville today to open a series of three games with the local team at Central park. One game will be played today and two tomorrow at 10 a. m. and 3 p. m. The visitors are strong and skillful players and will make the home team knuckle down to hard playing to win. They have crossed bats with the Y. M. C. A. team, of East Liverpool, and proved a worthy opponent.

The Wellsville team has started out on another winning streak, since Zanesville left town, and it would be a great disappointment if it loses to Canton.

The outfielders will not have a very desirable place to play, as, it is alleged, that Murphy got tired the other day while mowing the grass and broke the machine to keep from cutting it. He says ball playing is all right, but that he and "work" fell out long ago. The holes caused by the bad rain have been filled and the diamond is in the best of condition.

The crowd will probably not be so large today, but Saturday about 800 people are expected to attend, as all business houses will close.

Sebring Gets Potts.

Dennis Potts, the much-advertised base ball pitcher, who went to Alliance last week to pitch for the Alliance team this season, has already sought new pastures. Saturday Potts, with the consent of Alliance, pitched a game for Sebring against New Berlin. After the game Potts was persuaded, it is said, by the offer of a handsome salary, to agree to play with Sebring for the season. Sebring fans are enthusiastic over the valuable addition to their team, while Alliance enthusiasts are correspondingly depressed.

SPORTING MISCELLANY.

New York leads the National league in batting averages.

The Canton Marines play at Wellsville today and tomorrow.

West Virginia university defeated Homestead at Morgantown by a score of 5 to 4.

Kid McCoy is having luck playing the races and again announces his retirement from the ring.

President Comisky, of the Chicago White Stockings, wired Manager Callahan at Cleveland to purchase a hat for each member of the team as a reward for the victory of Wednesday.

The body of Hank L. Owens, a former wealthy turfman and horse owner, who was found dead in his room in a Memphis hotel Monday, was buried in the potters' field. He is said to have left an estate of $71,000 in mining property in Montana.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

Has Again and Again Cured After Physicians Have Failed.

For years men and women in every rank and walk of life have been sounding the praises of Paine's Celery Compound, and telling of its victories over disease and death. Those who were most heavily burdened with disease, victims of suffering pronounced incurable by doctors, and who stood on the brink of the grave, are the people who most gratefully remember Prof. Phelps, of Darmouth College, the eminent physician and scientist who discovered Paine's Celery Compound, the medicine that never fails to conquer blood diseases, dyspepsia, rheumatism, neuralgia, liver and kidney troubles. Mr. F. Marion Sikes, of Cronley, N. C., happily rescued from a complication of dangerous ailments, long standing dyspepsia, muscular pains and after results of typhoid fever—nervousness, weakness, watery blood and sluggish circulation, gratefully and thankfully writes for the benefit of thousands of men and women who suffer today. Mr. Sikes says:

"For many years I suffered with dyspepsia. All that I ate did me no good, and I could find nothing that would give me relief. Last year I was taken with a pain in my leg that ran from my hip to the end of my toes. I had as good a doctor as I could find in Wilmington, but he only gave me relief for awhile. I was then taken with typhoid fever and my family and friends had given up al lhope. A friend of mine, Captain Walter Taft, advised me to try Paine's Celery Compound as I was so nervous I could not stand alone. I began the use of the wonderful medicine and before I had taken half a bottle I felt like a new man. I have now used two bottles and am today a well man and feel better than I have for ten years. I thank my God for the use of this great and marvelous compound."

Read This—It Costs You Nothing

And May Be Worth Thousands of Dollars to You.

Mr. H. K. Mitchell, of New Philadelphia, O., speaks of Life Plant in the following emphatic language:

Life Plant is a wonder. We have used it in our family for nearly a year and find it to be all that is claimed for it in giving tone and vigor to the system. It certainly cures rheumatic trouble. In fact I believe it will cure any disease that is reached through the blood.

We guarantee the genuineness of every TESTIMONIAL. The above was indeed a remarkable cure, but it was simple and easy when the proper method was followed. It is a notable fact in science, that disease germs can not exist in pure matter. There must be some impurity else they die. You might arrest a disease by local application, and take some poisons fatal to disease germs, but you cannot hope for a cure by that system of treatment. You must get at the cause.

Impure blood is the cause of practically ALL diseases. To cure any disease you must by some means purify the BLOOD. Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Rheumatism, Eczema, Hives, Tetter, Catarrh and Asthma, are the most familiar forms of blood diseases. Life Plant purifies the BLOOD. It renews LIFE, it restores the vital element in the BLOOD. That is why it cures diseases, and prevents disease. It is nature's way. It's the common sense way. Try it NOW. DELAY is DANGEROUS.

READY FOR LIFE'S BATTLE IS THE CLASS OF 1903

traveled through a country where rain and even clouds are unknown and where the monotony of clear skies became oppressive.

Lillian Brookes

Chose Benares as a panoramic spot from which she could gaze upon the beauteousness of British India. She thought she was in the center of the earth. It was the greatest city of India and in it was the beginning and the creation of the universe. The trip to the city was an enjoyable one and the scenic production, all of God's handiwork, barred the description she thought it worthy of. In the city of her choice there are four noted universities and numberless colleges. There are very few in the city that have not had the advantage of a college education and all of them have studied the English language.

William Harrison George.

The idiosyncrasies of the German student solemnly impressed Mr. George, and he wondered how young men who devoted so much time and thought to educational pursuits could still maintain the ancient and cruel custom of dueling. Yet the students are proud of the scars received in combats with the sword with fellow students and the custom flourishes. There are but few if any fatalities; in fact, the percentage of permanent injury is less than in the American game of foot ball. When the class stopped at Heidelberg he met a celebrated professor and from him learned many of the methods of the great universities and the ambitions of the students.

Cora Mae Fisher

Found a most pleasing incident while visiting in the Netherlands. One day, she in company with a number of other Americans, was enjoying the enchantment of the beautiful woods surrounding Holland and all were met by a stranger, a young girl. She treated the American tourists with much courtesy and made them feel much disappointed when she suddenly left the forest with a young gentleman who had found her among the strange gathering. All were mystified as to her name. The following day they were so surprised upon seeing the very same girl riding through the streets in the royal carriage and were more surprised when upon inquiry they were informed that the lovable and common-appearing and acting lady was Wilhelmina, Holland's queen.

Anna Brozka.

The peasantry of Europe has long been an interesting subject for scientists, historians and fictionists, and in studying this class she traveled from place to place. Miss Brozka found much of interest. There is a vast difference in the peasants of the different nations of Europe. Spanish peasants, as she found them, are thrifty, and active, but ignorant. The opportunities of advanced civilization have been denied them and they live crudely but contentedly. French peasants cling to old manners and customs and have an undying love for their traditions and liberties. Italian peasants are indolent, deceitful and dishonest. These traits form a dark cloud in the moral atmosphere and hangs like a curse over that fair land.

Claudia Evelyn Gill

Did not catch the same vessel that bore her classmates home and was compelled to make the trip alone. Her experiences were thrillingly interesting and she will never regret the voyage. She never ralized, however, what grand old America means to an American born until the morning that she awoke and going to the hurricane deck noticed the sight of American soil in the distance. What a magnificent sight it was to her. She saw the nation's emblem flying in the breeze for the first time since leaving New York and was struck with its true meaning. Arriving at Boston she tarried there a short time, continued to New York and gave a sigh of relief when she landed in the union station at Pittsburg. There she had to wait an hour on a C. & P. train to carry her home, and it was an awful hour. When she did finally get the train and it pulled into the vicinity of Dry Run she was so thankful at a sight of dear, old, dark and ugly East Liverpool.

Blaine Hamlet Cochran.

During the entire trip the energies of Mr. Cochran were devoted to the observance of peculiar characters and he found many of them in all the lands that were visited. Some of them provided him with a great deal of amusement and he was moved to tell of them in rhyme. His verses jingled nicely.

Mary Belle Hill

Was genuinely surprised at the impression made upon Lady Bassett by the graduating class of '03. Her ladyship was almost unequal to the occasion. She could hardly convince herself that her appearance was such as to meet the favor and approval of such a distinguished body of American society leaders. Her confusion was soon lost to her, however, when she noticed the wincing of our crowd and the uncomfortable glances that issued from us. It was then that laughter was reversed. The awkwardness of the graduates in the presence of Lady Bassett was indeed amusing.

Mary Eusebia Beal.

On the trip down the beautiful Rhine, which pursues a winding course of 950 miles and loses itself in the German ocean, Miss Beal found the greatest points of interest. On every crag loned a magnificent castle, most of them built centuries ago in the feudal days of the Anglo-Saxon. She visited Heidelberg castle, supposed to have been built in the fifth century, and saw the huge trees growing in the moat. Between the crags are many pretty little villages inhabited by a thrifty and contented people.

Maude Harris

Was bound and determined to tell a story that when related to her was one of interest, though she knew at the time that it was merely a dream. She was informed that the Cologne cathedral was the greatest in the country, was designed by a man whose name was never known and never will be. He agreed to give the plans and specifications to a young man should he in return grant him his soul. The young man agreed, but did not fulfill it. He made an appointment with the maker of the plans and while the latter was unawares he grabbed the plans and stayed the hand of the ingenious one. The only words of reproach offered by the men were that he would never let it be known who had completed the great architectural feat—and he never did.

Hazel Hanley.

Many women go to Europe for no other reason than to shop in the great marts of Europe, and Miss Hanley confessed this to be the chief objective of the girls of the class. She visited the shops of London and soon learned to be a shrewd buyer, an accomplishment in which she took a great deal of pride. She delighted in the flower market, where a few pennies would buy huge bouquets. In Paris she encountered the shrewd and talkative merchant; in Constantinople, the bearded Turk sitting, smoking his pipe, among his wares. Miss Hanley observed three rules in her shopping—first, to always look bored; second, to exhibit no interest, and third, to apparently have no idea what she wanted to buy.

Richard Reeves Rigby

Decided after witnessing the enjoyment of the English with their common sports that they should be introduced into America. He was much taken in with the game of cricket and gave an excellent description of the sport, the one that is played by all classes of England. He also liked the great parade, in which every one of the old country indulges. Both of them demand generalship and are essential to the improvement of physical needs.

Pearle Marie Albright.

The members of the class had some amusing experiences during the visit to Germany when they discarded their native tongue and attempted the use of the language of that country, and Miss Albright told of them. One of the girls, in calling for the services of a porter, actually proposed marriage, much to the astonishment of the good man, who already had a wife and five children. They soon realized how little they knew of the language in spite of the study they had given it in the East Liverpool public schools. Miss Albright agrees with Mark Twain, when he said the German language was the most slipshod, slipper and elusive to the grasp.

Lillian Inez Deringer

Had read Longfellow's beautiful description of Nuremburg and Bruges and would never have been satisfied had she missed the visit. Both cities were her ideal living places. She loved to view the relics in the mammoth German museum and the crumbling walls that are to be seen on every side. The narrow streets in Bruges appealed to her, especially when filled with the typical Germans. The sights of the two palatial appearing cities will never pass from her memory.

Mary Ethel Fisher.

Many beautiful ballads and tales of love have been told with the scene laid in Venice, that city of canals and piazzas, gondolas and cathedrals, and there Miss Fisher was held spellbound as she contemplated the soft beauty of the streets of water, lighted by the soft moonlight. Many cities boast of their piazzas, but none equal that of Venice's San Marco, which is thronged nightly with the gayest people of the world. The very first day of her visit Miss Fisher secured a gondola and gondolier and traversed many of the 147 canals, through the beautiful arches, around sharp curves and beneath the famous bridge of sighs, by the ancient cathedral, where she heard voices take up the evening song until the chorus was swelled by three hundred.

Georgia Croxall

Avowed that Paris was the most beautiful city visited by the class. She noted the lovely characteristics of the people, the men and the women. The Parisians, she says, are a beauty-loving people. Until her visit she never half realized what a true Parisian was, and she found them an enjoyable lot, a people that believe in pleasure and only pleasure. Their capacity for enjoyment is not limited. They love sunshine, elegant attire and genteel manners. The gay capital is thought of every time the word France is spoken. Its boulevards are a blaze of light and the enchantment of the magnificent city is wonderful.

Arthur Dickson.

Like many other European tourists, Mr. Dickson found great delight in that unsurpassable work of nature, the Alps. The class visited the village of Lucerne, on the beautiful little lake of the same name. After a ride upon its clear waters, the class made the ascent of one of the mighty peaks, whose crest is reared high into the heavens, capped with snow eternally. Teams were secured and they wound around and up the mountain roads until it became impassable for the vehicles. They toiled on foot, until overtaken by a torrent, when the scene became grandly impressive. Rain fell in torrents and vivid lightning flashes rent the heavens while thunder roared from crag to crag.

Ethel Grace Herbert

Had witnessed a fog in the Smoky City and thought it mysterious but she never got lost in one. While in London one night she was promenading one of the principal thoroughfares when very suddenly one of the fogs for which the great city is widely known settled over and around her. It completely enveloped the earth. She could not penetrate its depth. For many minutes she stood in one spot, having not the least idea which way to turn. She finally started—she did not know where and it was into a most embarrassing dilemma that she found herself. Before she was rescued she had fallen down a number of times and is now suffering with a broken ankle as a result.

Mabel Claire Nellis.

Bonny Scotland is a land greatly loved and she greatly enjoyed her visit there. One of the first spots in the itinerary was famous Gretna Green, the haven of runaway or eloping couples. They saw the famous old blacksmith shop, whose smith was the necessary witness to the many marriage ceremonies. It is claimed that he made a better living from his witness fees than he did at smithing. They traversed through Dunfries, made famous by Douglas and Anna Laurie, and down the winding river of Ayr, sung so nobly by Robert Burns, Scotland's greatest poet. They visited Edinburg, Scotland's center of learning and thence on to Inverness over the highlands.

Ernest Willard Thompson

Enjoyed while visiting in foreign lands in pointing out to the countrymen where American products are being sought. It was with pride for his home country that he gazed upon the handiwork of the American at every turn. America's invasion of Europe is discovered quickly by the tourist. He found our competition in Europe to be great but in all cases it was his pleasure to note that we lead. Under a protective tariff we have been able to build up and develop. Our advantages will be more with the passing of years and though we are a great country today, we are only at the threshold of what is destined to be ours.

Alta Virginia Flowers.

The keeping of a diary for the class did not prove to be a successful experiment, although Miss Flowers had recorded many amusing experiences, incident to their travels, before it was abandoned. Through their ignorance of foreign customs they were constantly trespassing some regulation but managed to extricate themselves without serious results.

Maud Elsie Webber

Treasures the memories of her sojourn in Athens. She only regrets that she did not have more time in the metropolis of Greece. In the acropolis of the pretty city she found hundreds of things of interest. Visiting it by day and by night she saw it in every phase. It is a most picturesque city and it was with reluctance that she terminated her stay. The New Athens is a clean white city. In her opinion its the pleasantest city in the east.

William Earl Cripps.

The average American citizen regards the hotel porter with a great deal of awe and in Europe he is even more formidable but Mr. Cripps found the only way of pacifying him. One word tells the secret—tips. The ways of the porters of fleecing innocents are many and varied but Mr. Cripps learned of them all and that tipping was an ancient custom.

James Howard McBane.

Traveling is one of the greatest known educators. There is nothing that so broadens the mind. It appeals strongly to one, it develops the mind and forms character. The impression one receives is lasting and has an elevating effect. It is the only way that we can get a real idea of life. There is a kind of emotion about it and by travel all nations are sewed closer together. The speaker will ever remember the impressive sights and recommends every one wishing a true education to travel.

TRIFLING WITH YOUR HEALTH

Is like Playing with a loaded Gun. If you have Kidney Trouble attend to it at once.

It is easy to tell whether your Kidneys or bladder are diseased. Take a bottle or glass tumbler and fill it with urine. If there is a sediment—a powder-like substance—after standing a day and night, if it is pale or discolored, ropy or stringy, there is something wrong with the Kidneys. Other sure signs of disease are a desire to urinate often, pain in the back, or if your urine stains linen.

There is no question that Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the best and surest medicine in the world for diseases of the Kidneys, Liver, Bladder and Blood, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Chronic Constipation, and the sicknesses peculiar to women. It quickly relieves and cures inability to hold urine and the necessity of getting up a number of times during the night, and puts an end to the scalding pain when passing urine.

The Rev. Henry P. Miller, pastor Baptist Church, Spartenburg, S. C., writes:

"For years I suffered with Kidney, liver and heart troubles, swimming in the head, dull headache and numbness of the limbs. Physicians prescribed for me and I took different medicines, but none of them did me any good. But Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy cured me in about two weeks."

It is for sale by all druggists in the New 50 Cent Size and the regular $1.00 size bottles—less than a cent a dose.

NERVOUS HEADACHE BREEDS INSANITY

Many a person's whole pleasure in life is ruined by the fear of nervous headaches. Any little excitement, no matter what, business or social, brings them on. The feet and hands grow cold, the head is hot, the eyes stiff, the temples throb, and only in the quiet of a darkened room is relief found. This condition must be checked or it means complete mental ruin. To those people Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills come as a blessing. They do not stop, they cure the headaches. They do not blanket, they build up. They put the nervous system in a strong, vigorous, sturdy condition—a condition that gives one resistive power and enables them to again enjoy life's pleasures.

Mrs. George Hall, of No. 38½ West Market Street, East Liverpool, Ohio, says: "I was bilious—had nervous headaches, hard and constant—there was a general feeling of weakness and depression. I was asked to try Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills and did so, getting them at Larkins' drug store. The result was very good indeed as the biliousness overcome—the headaches cured and bodily and nerve strength furnished."

Mr. G. H. Garner, the well known manufacturer of ice cream at 168 Jackson street, says: "My trouble set in with a soreness and stiffness over my whole body; my appetite was poor and I was annoyed a good deal with bloating at the stomach. There was a uniary difficulty and I felt generally used up. I tried two or three different remedies, but they did not do me the least good. Having heard Doan's Kidney Pills so highly spoken of I purchased a box at the W. & W. Pharmacy. I did not take over half of it before I was entirely free from any trouble, my appetite was good, and my old time vigor restored. I recommended them to many of my friends among them P. J. Green, V. S., and they all speak of them in the highest terms."

Sold for 50 cents a box by all dealers. Foster-Milburn company, Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

Sold by W. & W. Phormacy.

CRUSHES OUT THE LIFE

The most loathsome and repulsive of all living things is the serpent, and the vilest and most degrading of all human diseases is Contagious Blood Poison. The serpent sinks its fangs into the flesh and almost instantly the poison passes through the entire body. Contagious Blood Poison, beginning with a little ulcer, soon contaminates every drop of blood and spreads throughout the whole system. Painful swellings appear in the groins, a red rash and copper colored splotches break out on the body, the mouth and throat become ulcerated, and the hair and eye brows fall out; but these symptoms are mild compared to the wretchedness and suffering that come in the latter stages of the disease when it attacks the bones and more vital parts of the body. It is then that Contagious Blood Poison is seen in all its hideousness. The deep eating abscesses and sickening ulcers and tumors show the whole system is corrupted and poisoned, and unless relief comes soon this serpent disease tightens its coils and crushes out the life. The only antidote for the awful virus is S. S. S. It is nature's remedy, composed entirely of vegetable ingredients. S. S. S. destroys every vestige of the poison, purifies the blood and removes all danger of transmitting the awful taint to others. Nothing else will do this. Strong mineral remedies, like mercury and potash, dry up the sores and drive in the disease, but do not cure permanently.

came along and with a nickel stopped the tears and secured the boy a ride on the "flying ginny." Emmet is just 9 and is a pupil of the McKinley school.

The reporter was just in time when he visited the lower end of the grove to rescue Kittie Smith's box of cake and sandwiches from the hands of "Red" Mason and "Skinny" Adams. The boys had brought no lunch, and being of the true young American stamp, they were not backward when they saw that Kittie was all alone and had a shoe box under her arm. The property was restored to its rightful owner and the boys "bummed" a dime from Charley Denning and invested it in a couple of sardine sandwiches.

Carl Thompson tore his coat all the way up the back, showing some of the fellows how the professor loops the loop. Carl is an athletic young man, but in this instance he had not made anowance for the length of his legs and they got tangled. He fell down the steps at the roller coaster and tore his stockings. This was no drawback, however, as he said he was going in his bare fell, anyhow. He was afterward seen to trade a gum ball for a stick of chewing gum, and was looking as happy as anyone on the ground. His friends say he is a "Smart Alex" anyway.

The large crowd began to disperse as early as 4 o'clock and from that time until after 7, the railway men will be busy. Not a single incident occurred at the park during the day that interfered with the complete enjoyment of the more than four thousand boys and girls.

RIVER NAVICATION IS ON ONCE MORE

Whistles of Towboats and Packets Again Heard Along the Stream.

The whistles of the packets and coal boats were heard yesterday for the first time for several weeks, signifying that navigation had been resumed on the river. A rise has been noted since early yesterday morning and before night a light boating stage had been reached. Capt. Martindill, of the wharfboat, received messages from all the boats in this trade, stating that regular trips would be resumed.

The Greenwood passed up last night at 8 o'clock with a good trip and is due down tonight at 8. The Ben Hur passed down last night, and will be one of the up boats Sunday. The Keystone State and the Kanawha gill be up on scheduled time Sunday afternoon.

The towboat Cruiser led the coal fleet, which left Pittsburg yesterday. The other boats to pass here were the Fallie, J. C. Risher, and Dave Wood. The entire shipment aggregated 700,000 bushels.

Hall-Jackson.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Good, of Seventh street, East Liverpool, last evening at 8 o'clock. The contracting parties were Samuel B. Jackson, messenger at the American plate and sheet mill, Wellsville, and Miss Katherine Hall, of this city. W. M. Payne, of Wellsville, and Miss Nora Ormes, of East Liverpool, attended the couple. Rev. J. H. Mason, of the A. M. E. church, performed the ceremony. A fine wedding supper was served. The house was very tastefully decorted. The couple left this morning for a trip through the east. They will visit Washington and other cities.

One man in New York had social aspirations which somewhat warped his admiration of his homespun father. The father actually sometimes relapses into the barbarism of eating with his knife. But the man has a little son whose eyes seek and find out the truth. The other day the little boy licked some mashed potatoes from his knife, and his mother chided him. "Sammy, dear," she said, "only stupid people eat with their knives." "How can you say that, mamma?" cried the child. "Grandpa eats with his knife. And he made all our money!"

Why We Say Bandbox.

"The collars worn by the English in the seventeenth century," said an old hat dealer, "were big, starched things a good deal like a ruff. Sometimes indeed they were bigger than the biggest ruff. They required a box of a good size to be carried about in.

"These collars were called bands. Ben Jonson in 'Volpone' says, 'This band shows not my neck enough.' Steele says, 'The next that mounted the stage was an under citizen of the bath, a person remarkable among the inferior people of that place for his great wisdom and his broad band.'

"Bands, you see, were collars, and by the same token bandboxes were collar boxes. They were big and round, just big enough to carry a clean, well starched band—just as big, in fact, as they are today.

"Whenever, therefore, you talk of bandboxes you are unconsciously referring to the collars as huge as ruffs that the English of the seventeenth century wore."

Character Building.

Character is the wool of honor from which a coat of mail can be woven that the swiftest arrow of shame or the keenest knife of disrepute cannot pierce. Every thought that enters our mind, every act we do and every word we utter adds a link to the golden chain of character. The strength of a steam engine can be estimated to within an ounce of its limit, but it is impossible to estimate the force of a noble character. The hardest hearts are softened and the most repulsive dispositions become fascinating. Our failures and our successes help to form a reputation that may be destroyed by an external force, but the destruction of a character can only be effected by some internal force.—Our Boys' Magazine.

CARE OF INSANE A GRAVE PROBLEM

Agitation Started in Stark County Reveals a Serious State of Affairs.

HOSPITALS OF THE STATE

Not In Shape to Receive Those Who Should Be Removed From Infirmaries — Improvements Not Ready For a Year—Legal Question.

Canton, May 29.—The agitation participated in by Prosecuting Attorney R. H. Day, of Stark county, and the commissioners, as to what disposition shall be made of the insane and epileptics in the infirmaries of the state after June 1, has stirred up the governor and other state officials as to the gravity of the situation, and it is possible that an extra session of the legislature may be called to make an appropriation to meet the expense of caring for the unfortunates.

When the appropriations were made for the building of the Massillon state hospital and the enlarging of other similar institutions, the condition was inserted that after June 1, 1903, it should be unlawful for any infirmary to retain any insane inmates. They should all be turned over to the state and cared for in the proper asylums. This also included epileptics.

It is now within a few days of the time when the law goes into effect and hospitals of the state are not in condition to receive the insane. Realizing that they cannot legally be kept in the infirmary, the county commissioners called the attention of Prosecutor Day to the matter about a week ago and he at once notified the authorities at the Massillon and the Ohio state hospital for epileptics at Gallipolis and Governor George K. Nash that after June 1 the state would have to take charge of the 70 or more insane and epileptics in the Stark county infirmary, as there was no warrant of law after June 1 by which the county could support them.

Prosecutor Day received a letter from Governor Nash stating that he had taken the matter up with the attorney general, and sent a copy of his communication to Sheets, in which the fact was set forth that the legislature had made no appropriation for caring for the extra number of insane which would become its charge after the law goes into effect. Money was appropriated to enlarge the asylums, but the improvements will not be completed until a year or more.

The governor submitted to the attorney general two questions which were practically those raised by Prosecutor Day, as follows:

"What can the trustees and superintendents of these hospitals legally do when the insane from the infirmaries are offered to them? And what can the county commissioners and infirmary directors of the different counties legally do under the circumstances?"

The governor promised as soon as his legal advisor gave an opinion to send a copy of it to the prosecutor.

The situation is one that is embarrassing. The insane cannot be turned loose in the community, yet apparently no one is authorized to care for them. If the infirmaries are compelled to keep them, the county may demand that the state pay the expense, by a future appropriation if no money is available at the present time.

LIVE TOPICS ABOUT TOWN

Will Reed, the popular druggist, had a pleasant experience yesterday. One of his Mi-o-na customers called at the store expressly to thank him for recommending that remedy. Although beginning its use less than a month ago, this party, a prominent business man, considers himself completely cured of indigestion today and has gained about 10 pounds in weight.

In a letter received by Mr. Reed was the following testimonial from Francis Murphy, the famous apostle of temperance. Mr. Reed wants everybody in East Liverpool to read what Mr. Murphy writes: "Mi-o-na is a wonderful remedy. I have used it and with all my heart and my renewed strength I would thank you for it. I would gladly recommend Mi-o-na to all who are suffering from indigestion or dyspepsia."

Mi-o-na has gained fame through being sold on the "No Cure No Pay" plan. Although Mr. Reed has sold hundreds of packages with his personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure, he has had less than 2 per cent ask for their money back. Remember that if Mi-o-na does not cure you, your money is cheerfully returned.

It pays to advertise articles of merit in the News Review. Mi-o-na has been advertised but little, yet Druggist Will Reed reports it the best selling medicine he handles. This shows the advantage of the News Review's advertising when one has an article of superior merit to sell on the "No Cure No Pay" plan, the way Mi-o-na is sold.

STRONG RESOLUTION WAS PASSED

By Sons of Veterans for Purpose of Bringing About a More Strict Observance of Memorial Day.

At the last meeting of the local camp Sons of Veterans, a strong and very significant resolution was passed. The organization has been endeavoring for several years to bring about a more strict observance of the day set apart for the decoration of the soldiers' graves. The resolution reads as follows:

Resolved, That we, the members of Gen. Garfield camp, No. 3, S. of V., think it proper and desire to place ourselves on record as being against anything not in accord with the proper observance of Memorial day. We call upon all patriotic citizens to refrain from pleasure seeking, ball games, picnics and all other sports. Let us give the old soldier at least one day in the year, for all that they have done for us and our country.

SUMMER THEATRE

Contracts Let for Plumbing, Scenery, and Other Work.

The contract for the plumbing work at the summer theatre at Rock Springs has been secured by D. J. Hyams, and work upon its early completion has already been started. The house was opened this afternoon, but it is far from being in a completed state. An additional force of carpenters were put to work early in the week, but the best they could do by working overtime did not result in the task being finished in the time the management had hoped.

The artist who is preparing the scenery has not progressed as rapidly as had been expected, and though there are plenty of drops and other scenery finished to permit the play house to be opened, the task promises to be long drawn out. Stage Manager Joe Bradley, who was engaged several weeks ago, is mounting the scenery as fast as the artists turn it out, and this with other duties demanding his attention, has kept him very busy lately.

The town of Malazherd, consisting of 500 houses, was destroyed and much havoc was wrought in the surrounding villages. Colonel Khalil Bey, commanding the garrison at Malazherd, with his whole family; three other officers and 80 soldiers perished in the ruins. Lieutenant Colonel Tayib-Bey, whose family perished, became insane. The telegraph operator who sent the news of the catastrophe said he himself was badly injured and that his wife and sister had been killed.

ALMOST 100 YEARS OLD IS MRS. REBECCA SHARP

A Resident of Columbiana County Who Vividly Recalls Pioneer Days.

Mrs. Nancy Roseberg Sharp is 98 years old and has lived in Columbiana county nearly all her life. She now resides with her son, Robert B. Sharp, near Clark's Mill in Washington township, on a farm where she has lived for the last 63 years. Mrs. Sharp remembers all the incidents in the early history of the county and can name many men prominent in its affairs. She is still in possession of a bright and active mind, an accurate memory and delights in recounting the incidents connected with her childhood days. She expresses keen interest in the Lisbon centennial celebration and owing to her physical infirmities will be unable to attend.

Nancy Roseberg Sharp was born in December, 1805, in Pittsburg. With her parents, Thomas and Margaret Roseburg, she descended the Ohio river to Wellsville when she was but seven weeks old. They came to West Point and later located on a farm in Wayne township which is still owned by a member of the family, George Roseberg, of Idaville, Ind. Mrs. Sharp's parents moved to this homestead in the spring of 1806, and this is where she spent her girlhood. In 1833 she was married to Dr. John Sharp and moved to Minerva. After a short residence there they moved to Clark's Mill which was then being built, and where she has since lived. Mrs. Sharp has been a life-long member of the United Presbyterian church.

To Settle the Question.

He was engaged to be married, and every one knows how the engaged man talks when he gets a friend cornered.

"She is the loveliest and best girl that ever lived," he asserted.

"Sure?" inquired the friend.

"Sure! Of course I'm sure. You don't doubt it, do you?"

"Certainly not," replied the friend hastily, "only"—

"Only what?"

"Oh, I suppose it's all right, but I'd like to introduce you to Dobley."

"Who's Dobley?"

"Oh, another friend of mine who told me yesterday that he was engaged to the loveliest and best girl that ever lived, and I'd like to have you two get together and settle the matter."—Chicago Post.

HOW TO SAVE MONEY

Take Advantage of Half Price Offer Made by B. C. Ansley.

In these times when living expenses have increased from thirty to fifty per cent, it is unusual to hear of a standard remedy being offered at half price.

Yet that is the way B. C. Ansley, the popular druggist, is selling Dr. Howard's celebrated specific for the cure of dyspepsia and constipation. In addition to selling a 50c bottle, containing a month's treatment of 60 doses, for 25c, he gives his personal guarantee with every bottle he sells to refund the money if it does not give satisfaction.

Doctor's bills can be saved by the use of Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of dyspepsia and constipation, and by taking advantage of this special half price introductory offer, our readers can save half the regular price of the specific.

This remarkable remedy is destined to have the largest sale of any medicine upon the market, for those who use it once, not only buy a second package, but they recommend it to their friends as the only relief they have found for constipation and dyspepsia. The sole limit to its sale is the fact that in only chronic cases is more than one bottle needed to cure, and its cures are permanent.

Do not let this opportunity pass to obtain a standard 50c remedy at half price. Remember that Druggist B. C. Ansley will refund your money if Dr. Howard's specific does not cure.

MONEY WASTED

By the Present System of Useless Work on the Country Roads.

The county commissioners are going to expend about $2,000 county funds toward paving about two miles of what is known as the Calcutta road. This will be the first country road to be paved in the county and the experiment will be watched with interest. There ought to be more roads permanently improved every year than there are.

Half the time and work on the roads now is time and work wasted and the sooner the farmers change the present system of useless scraping and put in their time and money in permanently fixing the bad places the better it will be for them in every sense of the word.—Columbiana Ledger.

Whitsuntide Feast.

Sunday, May 31, is an important feast of the Catholic and Episcopal churches. It commemorates the descent of the Holy Ghost upon the Apostles, as recorded in the Acts of the Apostles. It is known as Pentecost, or more commonly, Whitsunday. In the Episcopal church the faithful are commanded to receive Holy Communion three times a year, namely, Christmas, Easter and Whitsunday. In England the Whitsuntide is given over to holiday pastimes and is a season eagerly looked forward to by young and old

Letters from Women

Cured by the use of Kodol are received daily. Their troubles nearly all begin with indigestion or other stomach disorder.

If the food you eat fails to give strength to your body, it is because the juices secreted by the stomach and digestive organs are inadequate to transform the nutrient properties of the food into blood. That is indigestion. The system is deprived of the amount of nourishment required to keep up the strength, and the result is that one or more of the delicate organs gradually grows weak, and then weaker, until finally it is diseased. Here a great mistake is made. That of treating the diseased organ. The best doctors in the land make this very mistake. Why should they? It is so easy to see that the trouble is not there.

Kodol Cures

This famous remedy puts the stomach and digestive organs in a healthy condition so that rich, red blood is sent coursing through the veins and arteries of every muscle, tissue and fiber throughout every organ of the entire body, and by Nature's law of health, full strength and vigor is soon restored to each.

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders.

I have taken Kodol for nearly two months after each meal and it is the only remedy that gave relief from the terrible pains I endured. After a time I would take it but once a day, and now, while I keep a bottle handy, I seldom need it, as it has cured me. MRS. J. W. COOLBAUGH, Milo Center, N. Y.

A Memorial Day Story

By ROBERT C. V. MEYERS Copyright, 1898, by R. C. V. Meyers

TOMORROW would be Memorial day, and Mrs. Grand was not entirely pleased as she made her way into the station crowded with people to meet her expected visitor. She wondered if Carolina Hemperley were as gray as herself. She scarcely expected her to be as stout, the Hemperleys being the thin side of the family and Carolina having been decidedly lank thirty years ago. Thirty years ago! That was an age. In those thirty years she herself had gone through a lifetime—a wife, a mother, a widow whose only child had married a foreigner and now wished her mother to take up her residence with her in Paris. In those thirty years Cal had stood still—an unmarried woman, living in a secluded southern village and upon the pitiful income that had been hers after the war had taken her former possessions from her. It was just like her to live near the place where all her misery had been seen, her father shot down in battle, his property confiscated, her friends scattered and—

Here the ten minutes were exhausted, and Mrs. Grand became impatient. She was not used to waiting for any one. A servant might have come in her place, but how could she have described "Calline" to a servant? Besides, Cal had written that she would come if her cousin would be at the train to receive her. The letter detailing as much had seemed very humorous to Mrs. Grand and forced her to enter into the spirit of the thing.

"But I doubt if there is much humor in it, after all," she thought as she restlessly trod the platform. "It all comes of finding that trunk of hers now that the house is being inventoried. Another of her lapses to leave that trunk with me for thirty odd years. Why couldn't she have stayed with me that time she brought it? But, no; she must go back and see if the poor liberated slaves had any place to go to. As though she had homes to offer them! And why couldn't I have sent the trunk to her instead of writing her that I had found it? Of course then she thought of old times and must see me for the last time, as though I went to Paris to occupy a slab in the morgue, and— Here it is at last!"

For the train puffed into the shed. The people poured out. There was not a woman she recognized.

"Madam!"

For a lady had stopped in front of her, a pretty woman, with great eyes so and much brown hair rolled back from a low white forehead, a woman with a girlish figure and jauntily carrying a tiny umbrella with a bunch of violets tied to its handle.

"Therese!" she said, her eyes suffused.

"This is never you, Cal!" almost gasped Mrs. Grand. "Why, you are almost young!"

But her cousin had thrown her arms around her and was aiming kisses at her. "I knew you at once, Therese," she gurgled. "Therese, duchess of York, don't you remember, we used to call you? How handsome you are! Duchess! You look like an empress now,"

Mrs. Grand had grown to regard herself as a decidedly middle aged woman despite the exigencies of her toilet and her maid, but this flattering comment from another woman whom she had not seen for over three decades was not displeasing.

"Come," she said, pressing Miss Hemperley's hand. "The horses will be wild standing so long."

"You are just the same as ever," returned the other, with a soft little burr in her voice. "And, oh, I am so glad we go in the ferry, for I do so want to see the statue of Liberty. I read so much about it in the papers some years ago." And she went on disseminating information learned from the newspapers regarding New York city, breathlessly skipping from architecture to politics, harking away to crime and incidentally touching upon the fashions.

Mrs. Grand considerately engaged her in conversation on topics calculated to be of general interest and sincerely hoped that the magnificence of her house would not awe her visitor, the details of whose get up she had had time to note and found very sketchy. She wondered if she might not offer Cal a new gown or two without offense. Later on, when she saw Carolina come down to dinner in a much worn black silk with magnificent old lace at the throat and wrists, she concluded to say nothing about her raiment, especially as Carolina took the appointments of the establishment as a matter of course and passed over the majestic butler as she would have passed over one of the dusky servitors in her father's old home, though Carolina admired her hostess vastly as that lady, with bare neck and strewn with jewels, faced her at table.

"All you want is a crown, Therese," she remarked. "Though I read in the paper that crowns are very common in New York, all the women wear them, even at the horse show. And your house is very sweet. And to think it is all to be let to strangers! I understand how you feel."

Mrs. Grand turned the subject, bringing before her mind's eye Carolina's old pillared home, its thousand acres and its hundreds of cabins, where of nights you could hear the strumming of banjos, the squeaks of fiddles and the rich voices of the slave population.

"You see, Cal," she said, "there is a little reception tonight, some Union and Confederate officers, the blue and the gray together. I shall be gone only an hour or so. You won't mind, will you? I thought maybe you would take the time to look over your old trunk."

Carolina crunched a salted almond between her even teeth.

"Yes, indeed," she returned, "for I don't mean to take all that old trash with me. I really don't know what is in that trunk, I was so confused when I packed it. Our house was burning down when I packed it, and the bullets were singing round me. I packed it out in a cotton field. I could see very well, the flames were so bright."

There was not a tremor in her voice. She seemed perfectly callous to the recollection. Mrs. Grand felt that it was almost silly.

"What sleeves those old frocks must have in them!" Miss Hemperley went on, helping herself to glaces. "Go, dear; go to your reception. You'll be the finest woman there. Just have the trunk brought to my room, and I'll look it over. First you must show me the marquise's picture. You know I never saw her. Oh, there is so much for you to show me and tell me, for you know I am going back day after tomorrow! It was so sweet of you to ask me to come. I'll always love that old trunk for it. And, oh, Therese, you'll be late for the reception! It is 9 o'clock."

"I shall not go till 11," Mrs. Grand told her and took her to the drawing room and showed her the portrait of her daughter, the marquise.

Miss Hemperley looked at it long and silently.

"She resembles her father." Then she said softly, "She has his eyes."

"Yes," responded Mrs. Grand. "Here is Tom's picture."

She indicated a portrait on the opposite wall, the portrait of a young man in all the glory of epaulets, a sword in his hand. Her cousin slowly turned her eyes toward it. Mrs. Grand, looking at her, thought she grew suddenly old.

"Does it bring back your young days, Cal?" she smiled. "We were all such good friends in spite of differences of opinion as to the war. This was painted in 1865, just after our marriage. And I have been a widow twenty years!"

Miss Hemperley turned from Captain Grand's portrait. "And you'll write to me from Paris," she said hastily, "and tell me all about your fine goings on? What a lovely sheer stuff that is in your robe, and what pretty lace!"

"The lace is not so fine as that of yours," Mrs. Grand returned.

"Oh, this was ma's," Miss Hemperley replied clinchingly. "I've always kept my lace. There was more of it." She stopped abruptly. "Upon my word, Therese," she said, "I shouldn't be surprised if it is on one of those frocks in the old trunk. I never thought of that till this minute. Let us go and see."

Mrs. Grand let her have her way, and in a little while they were beside the trunk in Miss Hemperley's room.

"Really, Therese," Carolina said, "no one would think I am meeting you for the first time in over thirty years. Here I am acting as though I had seen you only yesterday. It was the same when I got your letter. I was wild to come to you. I seemed afraid of being alone any longer."

"I like it this way," Mrs. Grand returned quizzically. "It shows how little you have altered. And I can't help looking at you, Cal. You are positively youthful looking. I had thought you would be gray like me, for you are only a few months younger."

"Five," nodded Miss Hemperley.

"Really, if living alone has done it," her cousin said, "one might almost wish not to have married. Besides, there were your stormy experiences. One would say that they should have aged you. Maybe you have thought a great deal of young days, and that has done it."

"Maybe," laconically returned Carolina.

"But the trouble you had!" persisted Mrs. Grand, herself now lost to present surroundings. "And all the time I was north with papa enjoying the ease of the winning side. Don't you remember how I wanted you to side with the north? Some of your property might have been saved that way."

Miss Hemperley's face was quite pink as she said quietly, "I suppose Captain Grand had something to do with your siding with the north."

"Papa's interests were in the north," corrected Mrs. Grand.

"But you were in love with Captain Grand," smiled her cousin, twisting her rings round her fingers.

"It was not my fault that he took the side papa was on," said Mrs. Grand. "You know how it was at that time. Brother was against brother. Yes, your father and my father and Captain Grand and Colonel Trask were friends at West Point, and yet they took opposite sides in the war."

"Now for the trunk," inconsequentially said Miss Hemperley and tugged at a strap.

"By the way, Cal," Mrs. Grand went on, "I've met Colonel Trask several times lately. He came from Europe last month after he gave up the consulship and is in New York. We have spoken of you. He brought up the old times very vividly."

"Yes?" Carolina said. She was on her knees in front of the trunk. She had brought the key with her and was busy with it. "How rusty this lock is! So!" She had the lid open and disclosed the contents of the box, all neatly folded and laid carefully, as though a more peaceful light than that made by her burning home had served her in their arrangement.

She picked up a garment.

"Oh, Therese," she said, "look at these sleeves and this waist! How we must have laced in those days! I wonder if I could get it on now. I've a mind to try."

In great good humor she donned the gown and ran to the glass to note the effect. Peal after peal of laughter came from her lips as she regarded her reflection. "And the pocket!" she said. "Think of pockets in these days!" She slipped her hand into the aperture at the side of the skirt.

"Did we used to carry things in our pockets?" Mrs. Grand asked. Her cousin looked at her with eyes that had become glassy.

"Why, Cal!" cried Mrs. Grand.

Miss Hemperley took off the gown.

"I did not remember," she said. "This is the dress I wore that night."

"That night?"

"The night Captain Grand escaped." Mrs. Grand smiled.

"Oh, Calline!" she said, using an old loving paraphrase of Carolina's name. "You surely do not recollect the frock you wore!"

"It was this," Carolina insisted. She laid the gown in the trunk again.

"Aren't you going through the things?" Mrs. Grand asked. "Your lace may be there."

"I'll wait till you've gone to your party," was the answer. "It will give me something to do."

At this Mrs. Grand seemed to think that she was an inattentive hostess.

"I wish you would go with me," she said.

"Me!" laughed Carolina. "I look like it, don't I? Why, I haven't a white mull dress to my name!"

"Mull!" Mrs. Grand was repeating as she marched before her to the drawing room. "The next thing she will be talking about artificial roses in her hair."

Already her cousin pulled upon her. But in the drawing room Miss Hemperley's eyes were fastened on the portrait of Captain Grand. "He was a brave man," she said. Mrs. Grand called herself to account.

"I wonder," she said, "if you ever heard that incident after the Second Bull Run. His shattered arm rudely bound up, he met the general. 'Where is your company?' asked the general. My husband pointed to himself and a solitary private. 'Here,' he said. They say the tears were rolling down his face, for all the rest of his company had fallen."

Carolina's hands tightly grasped the back of a chair. Her eyes were glistening.

"You can say it like that?" she demanded.

Mrs. Grand smiled. "It is ancient history now, Cal," she said. "It was brought up quite vividly the other night by Colonel Trask. He said that it was through his own misadventure—Colonel Trask's, you know—that Tom could even say that; that if order No. 160 had not been lost the night he stopped at your father's Tom would never have said that."

"No, for he would have murdered Captain Grand," Carolina said quickly.

"They scarcely call it that in war," laughed Mrs. Grand. "The colonel had the order giving directions for the movement of the brigades the following day, and he was hurrying from headquarters to his general with it when he lost it at or near your father's house, where he was to be quartered for the night. He wrote all about it to Tom years afterward. At any rate, Tom was saved by the colonel's carelessness, though the colonel nearly lost his shoulder straps in consequence, for if Colonel Trask had 'met up with' Tom, as you would say, in obedience to that order, I should not be having to get ready to live in Paris just now." She moved to the doorway. "Now, Marker." Her maid entered with a voluminous satin wrap, which she placed upon the shoulders of her mistress. "You are sure, Cal, that you can amuse yourself? Marker, please attend to Miss Hemperley."

But Miss Hemperley rather curtly dismissed the maid and went toward a cabinet crowded with bibelots, not even responding to her hostess, who threw her a parting word over her shoulder. She occupied herself for some little time. Then she found herself in a chair contemplating Captain Grand's portrait. All at once a sob seemed to choke her. She stifled it and went to her own room, to the old trunk there. She lifted the gown she had so recently slipped on in mocking jest and held it for a moment up to her heart. Then she sat down heavily and, reaching her hand, touched a little ivory disk, and all the lights went out.

When Mrs. Grand returned home she passed by her cousin's room, the door of which was open on a crack. She looked in. All was dark.

"Is that you, Therese?" asked a low voice.

With an exclamation Mrs. Grand entered the room.

"Can't you sleep in a strange room, Cal?" she said. She touched the disk in the wall, and the chamber was brilliantly illuminated. There sat Carolina beside the open trunk, the old gown lying over her knees.

"You don't mean to say you have sat here in the dark?" cried her cousin.

THERE SAT CAROLINA BESIDE THE OPEN TRUNK.

"I have been thinking," was the answer. "Is it late?"

"It is past 2 o'clock," Mrs. Grand told her. "I don't understand. I—I should have forced you to go with me. It was wrong to leave you here to conjure up the old times. I wish you had gone. Colonel Trask was there. I told him you had come. He may call tomorrow morning."

Miss Hemperley folded the old gown and laid it in the trunk. "It is unfortunate, Therese," she said, "but tomorrow will be the only day I shall have you to myself. I—you must take me somewhere where we shall be quite alone. There is so much to talk about. I did not come to see visitors. Therese, take me somewhere—anywhere." She had clutched her cousin's arm, while there was so much energy in her that Mrs. Grand was astonished.

"Why, of course," she said. "You shall go wherever you please."

Carolina dropped her arm and gave an apologetic cough.

"I don't care for visitors," she said, "and really I do not wish to see a lot of strangers. Why should I?"

"An old friend!" retorted Mrs. Grand.

"That's it!" cried Miss Hemperley. "He remembers me as a young girl. He will see me quite an old woman. His wife"—

"He is not married," interrupted Mrs. Grand.

Miss Hemperley shrugged her shoulders.

"Therese," she said, "let us go somewhere tomorrow where we can talk for hours uninterruptedly. There will be great crowds in the city, and we want to go somewhere in the country. Where shall we go? We might as well settle it now. Can't we go up the Hudson? I've read that the trips are lovely—the American Rhine, you know. You pass by West Point, where Tom used to be, and there's Stony Point, where Arnold and Andre met to betray Washington." She laughed. "Surely I ought to see such points of historical interest. Let us go."

There was nothing to do but to let her have her way, though Mrs. Grand was not a woman to rush to a crowded boat at 9 o'clock in the morning and cast her fortunes with picnickers out for the day.

"I might have known," she told herself in the privacy of her own room, "that this visit would not do. She is positively silly. The vanity of the woman refusing to meet an old acquaintance for fear he should see the change time had made in her! It is on a par with the white mull. It was certainly foolish to write to her."

At 8 o'clock in the morning Carolina was in her room waking her.

"We'll be sure to be late, Therese!" she said.

Mrs. Grand groaned. Nor was she better pleased that her cousin stood by while Marker helped her mistress make her toilet.

"Carolina," she said at one point, "I am not used to being seen in the forenoon. Look at the lines—how, they show in this raw light. Nobody would believe that that is your own complexion."

"I've always used buttermilk," Miss Hemperley replied. "Ma used it before me. However, I never think of my skin. The truth is, Therese, I never think of time. I seem to be the same as I always have been."

"Nonsense!" dissented Mrs. Grand. "You live on memories. That's the worst of being unmarried. Why did you never marry?"

Her cousin's youthful laugh broke out. "I don't believe I ever thought of it," she answered.

"Nonsense!" Mrs. Grand said, as before. "Every woman thinks of marriage at one time in her life. Now that you have finished pulling my hair, Marker, I will have my coffee."

"No breakfast?" cried Carolina. "No wonder you're not in good humor! I've had a chop, some griddlecakes, some marmalade and two peaches."

"I never breakfast till noon," Mrs. Grand replied coldly.

Carolina laughed.

"Do we take sandwiches?" she asked.

"Do we take what?" demanded Mrs. Grand, her spoon in the air.

"Oh, excuse me!" Miss Hemperley said deprecatingly. "I suppose we get lunch on the boat. I've read that we can do that."

Mrs. Grand laid down her spoon in consternation.

"Marker," she said, "what do we do?"

Marker informed her that lunch might be had on the boat.

"Pshaw, Therese!" Miss Hemperley laughed again. "We can take a sandwich with us and make no more fuss about it."

Mrs. Grand was not used to such words, and she wondered if she and her cousin should not quarrel before the day was over.

"We shall wait till we return home," she said, "for luncheon."

"If you please," ventured Marker, "the boat won't get back until this evening."

"We shall wait till we return home," Mrs. Grand repeated, "for luncheon."

"We'll do nothing of the sort," Miss Hemperley spoke up. "I am not going on the water with a fainting woman." And she left the room.

Mrs. Grand was more than annoyed—quite fuming. But in five minutes her cousin was back, bearing a plate on which there were a smoking chop and a square of toast.

"You'll eat every scrap of this," she announced.

The humorous side of the situation appealed to Mrs. Grand, and she took the plate.

"I believe I always did obey you, Cal," she said. "I remember years ago how I obeyed you when you sent me north to be out of harm's way and"—

"Mercy! I've stuck myself!" Carolina cried. She was pinning in her corsage a fresh bunch of violets which she had got somewhere. "Now, hurry," she said. "The boat will not wait. Put a thick veil on if you are afraid of your lines."

Mrs. Grand stiffened a trifle.

"Really, Cal"— she began.

"Come, come," interrupted Carolina. "Come!"

They reached the boat, whose fluttering flags waved over a mass of struggling humanity.

"I will not go," decided Mrs. Grand. But her cousin seized her arm. In a whirl she felt herself borne along, jostled, pushed, crowded, and then she found herself on the lower deck of an immense craft seated on a carpet camp stool, Carolina straightening her bonnet for her and consoling her.

"I knew you'd enjoy it, Therese," Carolina said.

Mrs. Grand looked into her eyes.

"Cal," she said, "you are tremendous. I feel positively young again." She certainly had entered into the spirit of the thing and gave momentary expressions of her satisfaction.

Though, strange to say, Miss Hemperley had become grave, her vivacity appeared to evaporate, yet there was a look of relief on her face.

"And now we're off!" gayly cried Mrs. Grand. But Carolina's eyes were fastened on the placid waters of the Hudson.

Her cousin, with a sparkle in her eye, regarded her. She knew that Carolina paid no attention to her surroundings or to the points of interest on the twin shores of the river.

A party of men and women close at hand raised their voices in an old war song. Even this did not distract Miss Hemperley.

"Cal," Mrs. Grand said after awhile, "if we had stayed at home we should have had a call from an old acquaintance. You are not enjoying this at all."

Carolina looked up.

"It is beautiful," she said. "What"—

"Now," interrupted her cousin, "don't ask me what building that is. You know you don't care. I repeat, if we had not come here we might have received Colonel Trask."

"Yes," she said; "that is why I wanted to get away."

"You used to see a great deal of him," pursued her cousin.

"Yes," laconically replied Carolina.

"The wonder is," persisted Mrs. Grand, "that you did not get to be fond of him."

For a moment Carolina's lips tightened. Then she edged a little closer to her companion.

"Therese," she said, "I want to tell you something. This boat will take us near to the place, won't it, where Benedict Arnold met Major Andre? I am as great a traitor as Arnold ever was."

"In paying a visit to me," asked Mrs. Grand, "who did not agree with you during the great 'unpleasantness?'"

"Don't laugh at me," pleaded Carolina. "Please don't."

"I never was more serious in my life," asseverated Mrs. Grand, "though I was a blue and you were a gray."

"You know you are laughing at me," insisted her cousin, "and you will laugh more when you hear the rest. It is about Colonel Trask."

Mrs. Grand opened her eyes.

"Go on," she said dryly. "Go on."

"I was false to the cause," went on Carolina—"the lost cause."

"But Colonel Trask?" asked Mrs. Grand.

"I betrayed him!" Carolina said.

"You did what?" cried her cousin.

Miss Hemperley's head went down.

"It is very foolish for a woman of my age to make such a confession," she said, "but he was fond of me—he told me so—and I separated myself from any kind feeling he might have had for me."

She put her hand into the front of her gown and took out a crumpled paper. "Look at this!"

Mrs. Grand took the paper from her, lost in wonder.

"Well?" she said.

"I found it last night in the pocket of that old frock in the trunk," Miss Hemperley answered. "I wore that frock the night Colonel Trask stopped at pa's. Now do you understand?"

"Certainly not," Mrs. Grand answered.

In a sort of agony her cousin went on: "It is order No. 160. It is the order which if carried out would have annihilated your husband and his company."

Mrs. Grand caught her arm.

"Colonel Trask gave you this paper because he loved you," she said, "and because he knew that you loved me?"

"I stole it," Carolina answered drearily. "I crept into his room late at night and stole it."

"You did this for me," tremulously said Mrs. Grand. "You saved Tom because you knew I loved him."

Carolina pulled her arm free.

"No," she said. "I stole it because the execution of it would have made John Trask the murderer of his friend. Now do you understand?"

Mrs. Grand gasped.

"You loved John Trask?" she said.

"I betrayed him!" Miss Hemperley returned. "I brought the censure of his general upon him. But he was not a murderer. He did not kill his friend. It is all so long ago, Therese, but last night when I went to look for that lace, when you spoke of Colonel Trask"— Her voice trailed into silence.

"You loved the man?" demanded Mrs. Grand, quite trembling with excitement. "Tell me, Calline, dear."

"You have no right to ask me that," Carolina answered. "Give me that paper. I will tear it up and scatter it on the water that brought Arnold and Andre together."

Mrs. Grand was greatly agitated. "Why, child," she said, as though she spoke to a very young woman indeed, "you threw away your life's happiness."

"Would I have been happy if Tom Grand had been killed by John Trask?" Carolina asked. "But I might as well tell you all. I read in the newspaper that Colonel Trask was in New York. Just then I got your letter. I thought I might get a glimpse of him, just for memory's sake, so I accepted your invitation. But when I found that army order all the old wretchedness came over me, and I knew that I could not meet him."

"And," cried Mrs. Grand, "he is on this boat! I saw him coming aboard soon after we got on."

Carolina rose to her feet, her face stormy. "How dared you!" she said. "You have done a miserable thing. You forget that I am a lady."

She turned away from her cousin and found herself face to face with a white haired man. How much he had heard she dared not think. "Will you let me pass?" she said.

He held out his hand, his eyes bright as stars.

"Calline!" he said, using the old loving paraphrase of her name.

She fell back.

"I caught a glimpse of you and Mrs. Grand hurrying toward this boat," he went on, "and I followed you. I knew you at once. You have changed very little." He came closer to her. "As though I did not know who took that order! Only at the time I thought it was done for the sake of your cousin and Tom. Never till this day did I know it was because"— He stopped, then went on hastily, "The night that order was stolen I had stopped at your father's house to ask you to be my wife." His hand was still out. "You wore the blue that night. You saved my friend from me, the gray. This Memorial day is for blue and gray alike, a union and a reunion for— Calline, Calline!"

The violets at her waist quivered. Her eyes were filled with tears.

"John!" she murmured. "John!" and placed her hand in his.

CONFESSION OF FAITH

Of Presbyterian Church Adopted by General Assembly as Revised.

Color Question of the Church Settled. Committee on Marriage and Divorce Reports—Largest Attendance at Assembly Since Opening.

Los Angeles, May 29.—The Presbyterian church of the United States in general assembly finally disposed of the question of revision of creed, which has been before the last three general assemblies, and which has agitated Presbyterian circles for the past 15 years. The assembly by unanimous vote adopted the revision of the confession of faith as prepared by the committee appointed by the general assembly in 1901. Beside clearing the calendar of this important question, the assembly disposed of the "Tennessee overture" in regard to "separate presbyteries in the same territory," which was commonly known as the "color question" of the Presbyterian church, also the report of the special committee on divorce and remarriage. Several minor reports also were heard during the day.

The fact that creed revision was to come up attracted the largest crowd since the opening. After disposing of some business of minor importance Moderator Coyle announced that Rev. Henry Van Dyke, of Princeton, N. J., chairman of the committee on bills and overtures would submit the report of the committee on revision. Before reading the report Dr. Van Dyke stated that two protests one from the presbytery of Lehigh and the other from the St. Cloud presbytery, tending to obstruct action on the revision question, had been before the committee, and it was recommended that they be thrown out. The assembly so ordered.

Overtures Adopted.

Dr. Van Dyke then proceeded with the report of the revision committee He read the detailed vote on each one of the 11 overtures, which showed that no one overture had received more than 10 negative votes. The overtures were voted upon seriatim and adopted.

By the adoption of 11 overtures, important additions, amplifications and amendments are made to the articles of the confession of faith. Of these, one of the most vital is the erection into the church doctrine of the belief that all who die in infancy are saved.

For section 6, chapter xxv, of the confession of faith, the following is substituted:

"The Lord Jesus Christ is the only head of the church, and the claim of any man to be the vicar of Christ and the head of the church is unscriptural, without warrant in fact, and is an usurpation dishonoring to the Lord Jesus Christ."

Three additional chapters are added to the confession concerning the "Love of God for all men, missions and the Holy Spirit."

Church Has Not Changed Her Base.

At the conclusion of the reading of the report Dr. Van Dyke spoke briefly upon the changes incorporated therein. He said he wished to make it clear to the assembly, and especially did he wish to say to the brethren of the press, "that this revision does not mean that the Presbyterian church has changed her base one inch, but it does mean that she has broadened and strengthened her foundations. Her divine sovereignty shall never be interpreted so as to mean fatalism."

Family cares and duties do not weigh down the well woman, and the children are never in her way. But when the womanly health fails, and there is a constant struggle with weakness and pain, household duties are a burden almost past bearing, and children are a ceaseless annoyance and worry.

Weak women are made strong and sick women are made well by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries disagreeable drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"I had been ailing some time, troubled with female weakness," writes Mrs. Wm. H. Johnson, of Avondale, Chester Co., Pa. "Every month I would have to lie on my back. I tried many different medicines and nothing gave me relief until I began Dr. Pierce's medicines, using two bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and two of 'Golden Medical Discovery.' These medicines have cured me. When I began your treatment I was not able to do very much, but now I do the work for my family of nine, and feel better to-day than I have for a year. I thank you, doctor, from the bottom of my heart, for well do I know that you are the one who cured me."

"Favorite Prescription" has the testimony of thousands of women to its complete cure of womanly diseases. Do not accept an unknown and unproved substitute in its place.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the best laxative for family use.

SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl Street, New York.

At the afternoon session the "colored question" was disposed of promptly and without a flurry. Dr. Putnam, from the committee on bills and overtures, reported a simple recommendation that overtures on "separate presbyteries for colored ministers," which had come up from Tennessee and other southern states, be referred to a committee of five, this committee to report to the next general assembly. Dr. Roberts moved an amendment to this resolution, giving the colored element in the church representation on this committee and increasing the membership to seven. The amendment was accepted and the resolution adopted.

The report of the special committee on divorce and remarriage was then taken up, Dr. Charles A. Dickey, chairman, speaking in support of its recommendations.

There was no discussion of the report, as this had been forestalled by the passage of the resolution enjoining Presbyterian ministers from performing the marriage ceremony in cases of divorced persons at last Monday's session. The report was unanimously adopted.

After hearing the report of the committee on correspondence the assembly adjourned.

Believed an Attempt was Made to Rescue Prisoners—One Lone Cow Was Killed by Militia.

Jackson, Ky., May 29.—The frustration of what the troops believe was a plot to rescue or kill Curtis Jett and Tom White Wednesday night increased the tension in Jackson. How many men were involved beside the one fired on and who returned the sentry's fire, and what relation the incident had to the placing of a searchlight on the jail grounds from a nearby mountain side earlier in the night are questions in which actual interest is felt.

The attempt to remove the special bailiff, B. J. Little, is a matter of much interest. The grounds offered are that his brother married Mrs. E. Marcum's sister and that relationship might influence him in the discharge of the duties of a sheriff.

Major Allen, who, in the absence of Colonel Williams in Lexington, is in command of the troops, gave out the following statement concerning Wednesday night's affair:

"Just as the storm broke the sentry at the south side of the jail observed a man approaching from the Jackson Deposit bank. He gave two commands to halt, which were unheeded, and then gave warning that he would fire unless the man halted. His words were answered by one or two shots. The darkness was intense and objects could only be seen by lightning flashes. The sentry and two other guards returned the fire. The marks indicate how the shots took effect. A minute later the sentry at the north side of the jail observed a moving object, which he thought was a man or a horse coming toward him. He commanded a halt three times before he fired. The object, a cow, was instantly killed."

The glass front of the bank was penetrated and an unlighted lamp on the counter was perforated. It is believed that the prowler was sheltered by the stone fence around the court house.

MAY PROVE A DOUBLE SUICIDE

Young Girl Takes Carbolic Acid and Leaves Note Where Lover's Dead Body Would Be Found.

Scranton, Pa., May 29.—Miss Mary McAndrew, a 17-year-old North Scranton girl, went home from the Klotz silk mill complaining of being ill, and while her mother was out to secure a physician she took a fatal dose of carbolic acid. In her bosom was found the following note:

"Goodbye. Forgive me, mother, if I did wrong, as I wish to be forgiven in heaven. Do not accuse John Cavanaugh. He is guilty of no crime. By this time he is on has way to Boston's, where you will find his dead body in the rear of Boston's."

Cavanaugh is a young man of about the same age as Miss McAndrew and kept company with her. They wanted to be married, but her parents objected on account of their age.

Wednesday afternoon the two went to the theater and neither returned home. Miss McAndrew told her mother that she stopped with a girl friend in another part of the city. Nothing has been seen of Cavanaugh. "Boston's" is a farm on the edge of the city. Diligent but fruitless search has been made for the body.

SPOKE ON IRRIGATION

President Talks on Utilization of Water of Rocky Mountain States.

And Wave Forest of Flags—Plants Tree in State House Grounds—Two Hours Spent in City—Party Leaves for Salt Lake.

Boise, Idaho, May 29.—President Roosevelt's train reached Boise in the afternoon and left two hours later for Salt Lake City. President Roosevelt and his party marched through a lane of children as they approached the grand stand erected in the capitol grounds. Two thousand little ones cheered him and waved a forest of flags. This feature of the reception was highly pleasing to the visitors.

The city was thronged with people to see the president, and when the latter took his place on the grand stand many thousands were packed in the streets. He was introduced by Governor Morrison and spoke for 40 minutes.

After his address the president spoke a few words to the Grand Army post drawn up in the rear of the stand and also to the Spanish war veterans. A tree was then planted in the state house grounds near the one planted by President Harrison in 1891.

The president and his party were then taken for a drive about the city.

In his address the president opened with a tribute to the city and its people. He spoke principally on irrigation, good citizenship and strengthening the navy.

Big Proprietors Not Wanted.

"The forests and the grasses," said the president, "are not to be treated as we properly treat mining; that is, as material to be used up and nothing left behind. We do not want the big proprietor. It is not for him that we wish to develop irrigation. It is not for him that we must shape the grazing lands or handle our forests. Inasmuch as I myself passed a large portion of my life in the mountains and on the plains of this great western country, I feel a peculiar pride that it was given to me to sign, and thereby make into law, the act of the national government—to my mind one of the most important acts ever made into law by the national legislature—the national irrigation act of a year ago. The government, in my judgment, not only should, but must cooperate with the state government and with individual enterprises in seeing that we utilize to the fullest advantage the waters of the Rocky Mountain states by canals and great reservoirs, which shall conserve the waters that go to waste at one season, so that they can be used at other seasons.

Want Best Navy on Globe.

"I believe with all my soul in the Monroe doctrine. This western hemisphere is not to become a region for conquest over which foreign ministerial powers may acquire control. I think that should be a cardinal doctrine of our American foreign policy. But I would a great deal rather see us never announce that policy than for us to announce it and then lack either the will or the power to make it good. The one means for making it good is building up an adequate navy. I ask congress to go on with the building of the navy; that congress go on providing means to make that navy the most effective on the globe. I earnestly hope that not in our time will we see war again, but it is impossible to say that there will not be war, because it is not only necessary that we should want to act rightly toward other nations, and I think I can say that we do, but it is necessary that they should all of them want to act rightly toward us, and while I believe that they do, I think it will help them to persevere in their good intentions if we are well armed."

POSTOFFCE PROBING

Still Continues and Large Force of Inspectors Are at Work.

Charges Against George Beavers for Paying Exhobitant Prices for Supplies—Overhauling of Free Delivery Branch Will Be Thorough.

Washington, May 29.—A large corps of inspectors, including some of the veterans of the service, were at work probing into the alleged irregularities at the postoffice department, but no further arrests were made. It is said to be possible that the intermediary who, it is alleged, figured in the transactions which led to the arrest of August W. Machen, the former general superintendent of the free delivery service, may turn state's evidence. His identity has not yet been disclosed.

Mr. Machen's counsel issued a statement asserting his ability to fully disprove all the charges. The investigating officials are equally confident. The government is anxious to expedite the trial of Machen as much as possible consistently with the proper handling of the case. It is arranging to have its witnesses at Machen's preliminary hearing June 5. The preliminary hearing of the Groff Brothers, the profits of which firm Machen is accused of sharing on a 40 per cent basis, has been set for June 9.

Postal officials refuse to give any information respecting the go-between who, it is alleged, figured in the transactions that caused Machen's arrest. It is said there is a possibility, if not a probability, that he will be used as a witness for the government. The postmaster general said:

"That there is a third party in this matter I have no doubt, but I cannot say anything further."

Charges Against Beavers.

He was asked whether the delay in making the arrest was due to failure to locate the man. The postmaster general replied in the negative and added that sometimes there were other reasons. He significantly suggested that sometimes it was found best not to be too precipitate in taking action and there was an intimation that the department might desire the go-between to turn state's evidence. A report was published here that George W. Beavers, the former superintendent of the division of salaries and allowances, was in the city, but the department denied having any such information. Mr. Payne was asked as to the nature of the charges on file against Mr. Beavers. He replied that they might be summed up as the payment of extravagant prices for materials and supplies used in his division, including time clocks and stamping machines. He said that there was only one charge that Mr. Beavers had received a commission on these supplies. This charge, he said, is under investigation.

A much more rigid overhauling of the affairs of Mr. Beavers' former office will begin shortly. The salaries and allowance division is now in charge of a former assistant superintendent, who is a veteran inspector, and the department thought for this reason it could concentrate its investigating work along other lines that needed immediate attention. The investigation of the affairs of the free delivery division, it is stated, has not been interrupted by the arrest of Machen. The inspectors who brought about that result are continuing their inquiry and will probe into other charges against Mr. Machen.

Charges Against Machen.

In this connection Postmaster General Payne said that one of the charges under investigation was an allegation that Mr. Machen had forged the name of another on an official paper about 10 years ago. He said that Mr. Machen knew of this charge and had informed him that he (Machen) was ready at any time to bring conclusive proof that he was innocent of the transaction. Other charges involve letter box contracts. Some of the charges are of a similar nature to those on which Wednesday's arrest was based.

Overhauling of the free delivery branch will be thorough and Postmaster General Payne declared with emphasis that the investigation will not end until all irregularities have been thoroughly inquired into and eradicated. He said that he did not know as yet when it would be possible to close the investigation and that he would not attempt to approximate the date. He said there had been a few charges against several other officers of the department, but the complaints of irregularities were confined practically to the free delivery service, the salary and allowances division and the office of the assistant attorney general.

Samuel A. Groff, one of the brothers arrested Wednesday, was suspended from the police force pending the hearing of his case. His return to duty depends on the result of the court proceedings against him.

West Virginia Postmasters.

Washington, May 29.—West Virginia postmasters were appointed as follows: Clinton, Ohio county, Samuel I. Smith; Viola, Marshall county, Joseph B. Thompson.

CHAMBERLAIN'S POWER PROVED

In Debate in House of Commons He Again Demonstrates His Strength.

London, May 29.—Mr. Chamberlain has again proved himself the strong man of the cabinet. In a debate, which may prove the most momentous of the present parliament, he has in a frank and bold speech further developed the policy which will be universally regarded as an entire reversal of Great Britain's fiscal position and at the same time he proved that he has managed to carry the government with him against their convictions.

The impression left on the minds of the crowded chamber was that the country is on the eve of a dissolution and that, as in 1900, Mr. Chamberlain carried the country with him on the South African war policy, he has now converted his colleagues to the belief that he will be able to carry it again on the policy of preferential trade within the empire. In addition to asking for a mandate to tax food, he asks for power to engage in a tariff war with Germany on Canada's account and to fight the American trusts. It is safe to say that no such sudden revolution has been experienced in the political situation for very many years, nor anything so sensational.

The debate practically ended with Mr. Chamberlain's speech and the house emptied into the lobbies. What little enthusiasm was displayed was on the liberal side of the house. The Conservatives listened to the speech in chilling silence, indicative of alarm and uncertainty as to the outcome of the unexpected situation. Nearly 100 Conservative members intimated to the government whip and to Mr. Chamberlain their intention to take the opinion of their constituents on the new policy during the Whitsuntide recess.

DIPLOMACY, ARBITRATION, WAR

Three Means of Settling International Disputes—Monroe Doctrine Cannot Be Arbitrated.

Lake Mohonk, N. Y., May 29.—The conference on international arbitration was opened with an address by Dr. Lyman Abbott, of New York, who declared that arbitration was not the solvent of all difficulties. The right of the free man to labor was one of the things that could not be arbitrated, he asserted, and the Monroe doctrine was another.

S. Uchida, consul general for Japan at New York, said international disputes could be settled by one of three means—diplomacy, arbitration and war. Although arbitration is highly preferable to war, he added, it would be impossible to dispense with war unless all nations agree to make arbitration the only and last means of settling international difficulties in case diplomacy fails. Japan does not want to fight and does not mean to fight unless necessary, but she must keep up her fighting strength so long as she is going ahead as a nation which is trying to make herself respected by others.

Five Years to the Pen.

St. Louis, May 29.—Guilty and five years in the penitentiary was the verdict and punishment returned by the jury in the bribery case of J. J. Hannigan, a former member of the house of delegates. Hannigan was found guilty of accepting a bribe in connection with the passage of the suburban railway bill. He is the eighteenth man tried on charges resulting from the local boodle investigation, all of whom, but one, have been convicted. Hannigan's attorneys filed a motion for a new trial, and he was released on $10,000 bond.

Governor on Vacation.

Harrisburg, May 29.—Governor Pennypacker left with his wife and daughters for his farm at Pennypacker Mills, Montgomery county, to remain during the summer. The executive mansion will remain open and the governor will pass two and three days a week here looking after his official duties.

Druggists' Strike Getting Serious.

Havana, May 29.—The druggists' strike against the imposition by the Havana provincial council of taxes on patent medicines and perfumeries is assuming serious proportions. The dealers in dress goods, etc., who also handle perfumes, closed their stores.

Sultan's Brother Poisoned.

Madrid, May 29.—A report form Ceuta says the sultan of Morocco's brother, Mulai Mohammed, is dead. He was poisoned, according to the dispatch.

Confide in a Woman

Women may write about their ills to Mrs. Pinkham, and avoid the questioning of a male physician. They can tell their story without reservation to her; she never breaks a confidence, and her advice is the best in the world.

The questions asked of a woman by a male physician are embarrassing, and often revolting to a sensitive nature. In consequence the whole truth is not told; this makes it difficult for female troubles to be successfully treated even by the best physicians, and is the reason so many women grow worse rather than better. A woman understands a woman better than a man,—there are symptoms which sick women have that a man cannot understand, simply because he is a man, but the whole truth may be told to Mrs. Pinkham, and her vast experience enables her to give advice which leads to a cure.

All women who suffer should secure Mrs. Pinkham's advice; it costs nothing but a letter addressed to her at Lynn, Mass. Female troubles are real troubles, and must be treated understandingly. For a quarter of a century Mrs. Pinkham's advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have been helping women to get strong and well, and her great file of letters prove that more than a million women have been restored to health and strength by her advice and her medicine when all other means have failed.

When you go to a druggist for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, do not let him persuade you to try something which he says is just as good; there is nothing just as good, because Mrs. Pinkham's medicine holds the record for the largest number of cures of any female medicine in the world.

Jeffords Knocks Man Out.

Savannah, Ga., May 29.—Jim Jeffords, of San Francisco, and George Feeley, of Sioux City, heavyweights, met for a 20-round contest before the Savannah Athletic club. In the third round Feeley went down under a left to the jaw and took a count of six. As he came up groggy Jeffords sent another to the same spot and Feeley was counted out. At 2 a. m. Feeley was still unconscious, notwithstanding the efforts of his seconds and two physicians to revive him. An injection of nitroglycerin was administered without having the effect of restoring consciousness. Jeffords is detained at the police station.

Entire Town Burning.

Montreal, Que., May 29.—A telephone message received at 2 a. m. from Mariesville, a small town 21 miles from here on the Central Vermont railway, says that a fire which broke out at midnight had destroyed 50 buildings and was still raging. The place has no fire protection appliances. The wind is blowing a gale.

The Wastes of the Body.

Every seven days the blood, muscles and bones of a man of average size loses two pounds of wornout tissue. This waste cannot be replenished and the health and strength kept up without perfect digestion. When the stomach and digestive organs fail to perform their functions, the strength lets down, health gives way, and disease sets up. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all of the wholesome food that may be eaten into the kind of blood that rebuilds the tissues and protects the health and strength of the mind and body. Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. It is an ideal spring tonic. Sold by Alvin H. Bulger.

Mothers! Mothers! Mothers!

How many children are at this season feverish and constipated, with bad stomach and headache. Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for Children will always cure. If worms are present they will certainly remove them. At all druggists, 25cts. Sample mailed FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmstead, Le Roy, N. Y. 18

Are your clothes faded? Use Red Cross Bag Blue and make them white again. Large package, only 5c.

Discuss Puddling and Finishing Scale.

Detroit, May 29.—The conference committees of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers and the iron manufacturers, which are discussing the puddling and finishing scale, held two sessions. It was stated satisfactory progress was being made and that no serious differences had arisen thus far during the consideration of the scale. President T. J. Shaffer was unable to attend the sessions owing to illness.

Norris Out of Race.

Youngstown, O., May 29.—Myron A. Norris, candidate for supreme judge, announced his withdrawal from the race. If conditions are favorable he will be a candidate for the nomination next year.

Correspondent Expelled.

St. Petersburg, May 29.—The government has expelled the London Times correspondent. He has been allowed three days' grace through the good offices of the British ambassador.

"It was almost a miracle. Burdock's Blood Bitters cured me of a terrible breaking out all over the body, and I am very grateful." Miss Julia Filbridge, West Cromwell, Conn.

Running Race Record Broken.

Cleveland, May 29.—Athletes from Oberlin, Case, Ohio State, Reserve, Kenyon and Ohio Wesleyan held a field day at the Cleveland driving park. The half mile running race was done in 1:58 2-5, which breaks the western intercollegiate record by 1 2-5 seconds.

Fire in Machine Plant.

Boston, May 29.—A portion of the plant of the Perkins Machine company, in South Boston, including the foundry, pattern shop and boiler room, was burned, causing a loss of about $100,000.

Consul at San Francisco.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, May 29.—Senor Alejandro Noboa has been appointed Ecuadorean consul at San Francisco.

Until Hagee's Cordial of Cod Liver Oil was discovered the belief existed that the grease in cod liver was a part of the cure. This idea that all cod liver oils are greasy has prevented many from being restored to health by Hagee's Cordial, the only one which contains no grease.

A Woman's Complexion.

It is rank foolishness to attempt to remove sallowness or greasiness of the skin by the use of cosmetics, or "local" treatment, as advocated by the "beauty doctors." The only safe and sure way that a woman can improve her complexion is by purifying and enriching the blood, which can only be accomplished by keeping the liver healthy and active. The liver is the seat of disease and blood pollution. Green's August Flower acts directly on the liver, cleanses and enriches the blood, purifies the complexion. It also cures constipation, biliousness, nervousness, and induces refreshing sleep. A single bottle of August Flower has been known to cure the most pronounced and distressing cases of dyspepsia and indigestion. New size trial bottle, 25 cents; regular size, 75 cents. At all druggists. 1

If, after said reconsideration, at least two-thirds of the members elect of that house vote to pass said bill it shall be law, otherwise it shall not be law. The votes for the repassage of said bill shall in each house respectively be no less than those given on the original passage. If any bill passed by both houses of the general assembly and presented to the governor is not signed and is not returned to the house wherein it originated and within ten days after being so presented, exclusive of Sunday and the day said bill was presented, said bill shall be law as in like manner as if signed, unless final adjournment of the general assembly prevents such return, in which case shall be law, unless objected to by the governor and filed, together with his objection thereto in writing, by him in the office of the secretary of state within the prescribed ten days; and the secretary of state shall at once make public said fact and shall return said bill, together with said objection, upon the opening of the next following session of the general assembly, to the house wherein said bill originated, where it shall be treated in like manner as if returned within the prescribed ten days.

If any bill passed by both houses of the general assembly and presented to the governor contains two or more sections, or two or more items of appropriation of money, he may object to one or more of said sections or to one or more of said items of appropriation of money, and approve the other portion of said bill, in which case said approved portion may be signed and then shall be law; and such section or sections, item or items of appropriation of money objected to shall be returned within the time and in the manner prescribed for, and shall be separately reconsidered as in the case of a whole bill; but if final adjournment of the general assembly prevents such return the governor shall file said section or sections, item or items of appropriation of money, together with his objection thereto in writing, with the secretary of state as in the case of a whole bill, and the secretary of state shall then make public said fact, but shall not further act as in the case of a whole bill."

SECTION 2. At such election those electors desiring to vote for such amendment shall have placed upon their ballots the words "Constitutional amendment—governor's veto—yes;" and those opposed to such amendment shall have placed upon their ballots the words, "Constitutional amendment—governor's veto—no."

In the presence of a large and enthusiastic audience and with favorable and auspicious appointments, the class of 1903 of the East Liverpool high school was graduated last evening at the Grand opera house, to enter upon higher and broader education.

Great hopes are entertained for the success of the class of 1903, owing to its large number of 35 and sterling qualities, combined with unlimited energy.

Promptly at 8:15 o'clock the seniors marched upon the stage, making a beautiful appearance, the 10 young gentlemen in black and the 25 young ladies in elegant white gowns.

Forming in two lines, the graduates stood while the opening prayer was made by Rev. D. W. McQuiston, after which they were seated on the stage, and the scene at this point was most effective, representing a garden scene. The fancy Japanese lanterns suspended on the stage made the garden scene brilliant as well as perfect and unique. On the front of the stage the senior class colors, green and white, in crepe paper strips, were arranged in curtain effect draped back on both sides in double loops.

A feature of the evening was the excellent music rendered by the large high school chorus.

The commencement program was a new departure. The seniors took for tneir discussion a trip to European lands and each one talked upon the subject in an interesting manner.

The exercises began with a description of leaving home and successively

Harmony Will Rule in the Republican State Convention at Columbus.

PLACES STILL IN DOUBT

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, May 29.—The threatening clouds which overcast the political sky, have all disappeared, leaving an atmosphere of absolute tranquility. It was the masterful hand of Senator M. A. Hanua which wrought this. The R oosevelt endorsement question and its advocacy by Senator Foraker and his adherents and the shape in which the proposition confronted Senator Hanna all served to make the situation disquieting; but as soon as the president requested endorsement by Ohio, Senator Hanna at once gave him his word that he should have it. The happy solution of the question is the cause of general satisfaction and now that it is settled there seems no reason why next week's Republican state convention should not be harmonious throughout. The slogan now is "Roosevelt, Hanna, Herrick and Harmony."

Some of the places to be filled by the convention are still in doubt. Herrick will be nominated for governor; Wade Ellis will be nominated for attorney general; Guilbert for auditor; McKinnon in all probability for treasurer, with the nomination for lieutenant governor, judge of the supreme court, and school commissioner are somewhat uncertain. Sheets seems to have the call for supreme judge at this time, but the contest is close. Summers, of Springfield, is pushing him hard. Norris, of Youngstown, has dropped behind in the race, but it is not impossible that he will take a spurt. Bonebrake is strong for commissioner. He is now on his second term and is backed by a powerful organization. Little attention is being paid the lieutenant governorship. Harding may be nominated. General Boothman is working hard for the honor as is Captain Nutt, of Sidney.

Senator Archeh has come out in favor of Senator Hanna for president. As he has always been known as a great Foraker man, his words have drawn much attention. "If Hanna comes out for president in 1904, I am for him," said he. "I think the Belmont county delegation is for him, too." The senator also stated that he has all along been in favor of endorsing Roosevelt.

The remains of Colonel Albert Brewer, the former pottery manufacturer, who died at his home at Tiffin Wednesday, have been taken to Trenton, N. J., his former home, for burial. He was the son of William Brewer, of Trenton, and came from a prominent and aristocratic family of New Jersey. Mrs. Brewer was Miss Harriet Niles, of New York. He leaves a seventeen-year-old daughter by a former wife. An escort of Elks accompanied the bodys to Trenton. Colonel Brewer was a graduate of Princeton college.

Nick Wessig, western representative of Marsching & Co., of New York, which supplies potteries and glass plants with color, was here yesterday, on his way to East Liverpool.

Arrested in the Yard.

Railroad Detective Jewell arrested two young men this morning in the Wellsville yards and placed them in the citl hall. They were brought before Mayor Fogo this morning, and gave their names as Jem Smith and Pat Mackessy, and their homes as Buffalo. Not being able to pay a fine they were taken back to the lockup, where they will remain for a few days.

Will Meet Two Teams.

The Crockery City base ball team will play two games at Rock Springs park tomorrow. The first will be with the Eclipse team of this city, and the second, in the afternoon, with the Federal Juniors, of Hickman, Pa.

Bids for New City Hall.

Lisbon, May 29.—(Special.)—The bids for the erection of the new city hall in Lisbon will not be opened until Monday evening.

Crew Escaped Without Injury—A Large Number of Barges Lost.

Carried along with the fierce current, the big tow boat Nellie Walton struck the dyke near Sewickley late yesterday afternoon, and in a few moments had settled to the bottom of the river. Her hull was crushed in in several places and soon filled with water. Her tow also drifted against the dyke and several of the barges laden with coal, were sunk. The loss will aggregate many thousands of dollars.

All of the officers and crew, numbering about 15, escaped to the barges from the sinking craft and were rescued without injury. The Walton is in about seven feet of water and experts think she can be easily raised.

The Walton left Pittsburg with ten barges of coal about noon yesterday, the accident occuring about 12 miles from the starting point. The boat and cargo are the property of the Monongahela Consolidated Coal & Coke company.

TWO SCHOOL BOYS KNOCKED FROM CAR

Accident Came Dangerously Near Ending Lives of Young Picnickers.

BOTH GOT BAD WOUNDS

While riding on the running board of a Rock Springs street car in Chester this morning John Franklin and William Stone, of Basil avenue, lads of about 15 years, met with an accident that came dangerously near ending their lives. They had boarded the car for the school picnic and being unable to find room on the inside, were standing on the board.

They had their backs turned to the front of the car and did not notice the actions of a frightened horse which was being driven by a farmer, who held in his hand a heavy iron pipe. In some manner when the animal reared the man lost control of the pipe and it fell from his grasp, striking Franklin and Stone with such force that they went reeling to the bricks.

The car was immediately stopped and many ran to their aid. They were found to be seriously hurt and were at once taken to the office of Dr. Hobbs. The physician examined the wounds inflicted on the boys' head and discovered Stone to be suffering from a terrible gash and Franklin from a fractured nose.

The boys displayed remarkable nerve while the physician was dressing their injuries, neither wincing while stitches were being made and plaster was being applied. The gash in Stone's head is fully an inch deep and three inches in length.

That the boys were not killed under the circumstances can hardly be accounted for, both lighting with terrific force on the hard pavement.

Robert Pollock, of Carroll, Nominated by Republicans for Senator.

Canton, May 29.—The nomination of Robert Pollock yesterday as the Republican candidate for state senator by the Republican senatorial convention in Canton was a genuine surprise. Stark county presented two candidates for the office, J. B. Snyder, ex-speaker pro tem of the house of representatives, and Pollock, who resides at North Lawrence. Carroll county, which is included in this district, together with Stark county, for years has been furnishing the Republican majorities, while Stark county always got the offices. This year little Carroll determined to get the senatorship, but after three ballots had been taken Carroll nominated Pollock by casting its entire vote for him.

The convention altogether was a very harmonious meeting, and Carroll county delegates think that by throwing their vote to Pollock their county will be well cared for by the nominee, who will be elected, since the Republican majority is quite large.

Three Arrests.

Three old stagers were arrested last night for being drunk. They were fined $2 and costs each this morning and released.

WOMAN IN LOVE WITH A CONVICT

Seeks the Pardon of John Eells' Who Killed His Brother at Lisbon.

HE SECURED A PARDON

But Is Again in Durance for Horse Stealing And His Lady Love Wants Him Set Free—A Romantic Case from Alliance.

Alliance, May 29.—A peculiar case of love and devotion is just coming to light in which an Alliance woman and a twice-convicted inmate of the Ohio penitentiary are the principals.

They became acquainted in Carroll county about 1892 and their acquaintance ripened into love, and if the story as told by the woman is true, would have culminated in matrimony, had not her lover taken a horse which did not belong to him. He was detected in the act of selling the animal, and for his offense he received a life sentence to the Ohio penitentiary at hard labor.

The story of the life of the man so devoutly loved by this woman is this: In 1875 John Eells lived at Lisbon, and in a sudden fit of anger he shot and killed his brother Charles. An effort to prove the shooting justifiable in self-defense failed. It was not a premeditated killing, and yet it was a cold-blooded murder and one of the most appalling in the annals of crime in that county. Every effort was made to lessen the crime for which he was to answer in the court, but they all failed. The trial was long and tedious and ended in the jury returning a verdict of murder and the judge sentenced him to hard labor and solitary confinement in the penitentiary for life.

In 1890, through an effort on the part of some of his friends, a petition was circulated asking for his pardon. Many believed that confinement within stone walls for 15 years was punishment sufficient to reform the man and atone for his deed.

The pardon was granted as prayed for and Eells came home and later went to Carroll county to live, where his deeds were forgotten. It was while there that he met the now Alliance woman, who was then a girl, and the two formed a mutual admiration for each other. If they had been wedded they probably would have lived happily together, but the innate desire to sin and transgress the laws was uppermost in the heart of the man and as before stated Eells stole a horse and for this crime was again sentenced for life, for his pardon was conditional that he sin no more.

Ever since their first meeting, the twain have been lovers and the nine years of incarceration in the cells of the penitentiary for his second offense has not dampened their ardor, although he is 51 and the woman 30 years of age. This is a case where love laughs at locksmiths and iron bars and stone walls are no barrier.

The woman is having her prayer in the nature of a petition drawn up and will go to Lisbon and Carrollton and try and induce the officials and the ex-officials of the two counties to aid her to open the door of the bondsman and set her lover free. Such devotion is seldom heard of but her efforts will hardly be rewarded for her pains and she will go through life unconsoled unless a second love appears upon the scene.

A GREAT RECORD BY HOMING PIGEONS

Made a Flight of 488 Miles from Indiana to This City in 24 Hours.

The six homing pigeons, owned by Teddy McDermott, Barney Peterson and Edward Sherwood, which they shipped to Terre Haute, Ind., a few days ago, were freed at the latter city yesterday morning at 5 o'clock and all of them arrived in East Liverpool, a distance of 488 miles, at daybreak this morning.

The record is said to be unparalelled and the owners are very proud.

Lisbon, May 29.—(Special.)—Partition proceedings involving a large amount of real estate have been begun in court here, Sarah A. Metzger, of Salem, through Attorneys Taylor & Baker, having filed a petition in partition against Joseph O. and Rebecca Greiner, of Salem.

The parties to the suit are joint owners of eight tracts of which the petition makes mention, 217 acres in Perry township; 161.33 acres in Ellsworth township, Manoning county; 109.17 acres in Ellsworth township; 221 acres, known as the Eli T. Arner farm, in Ellsworth township; 93 acres in Deerfield township, Portage county; 84.5 acres in Deerfield township; lot 140 in Tolerton & Kidd's addition to Salem and part of lot 886 in Assessors' addition to Salem.

The plaintiff asks that her one-third interest in this realty be set off to her.

A JOLLY TIME FOR CHILDREN

Four Thousand Youngsters Enjoy Themselves at Rock Springs Park.

ALL SORTS OF FUN ABOUND

Four thousand children, pupils of the East Liverpool schools, spent today at Rock Springs, where C. A. Smith and his scores of assistants made the day one long to be remembered by the small boy and his brother. Yesterday was the last day of school, and the youngsters, after finishing their term, were ready to cut things wide open. This they proceeded to do in the most approved and up-to-date manner.

Long before 9 o'clock this morning large crowds of school children had assembled at the Diamond, and anxiously awaited the arrival of cars to convey them to the other side of the river. All who resided in the suburbs were compelled to pay their fares on the East Liverpool railroad, but after they had been deposited in the Diamond everything was free, thanks to Mr. Smith's generous impulses. The present instance is the second upon which the management of the park has offered free transportation, admission to the park and other privileges which the pupils of the school could enjoy. Last year the affair was something of an experiment. This spring every one knew just what to expect, and all looked forward to the event with pleasant anticipation for weeks.

The East Liverpool & Rock Springs road carried over 6,000 passengers during the day, and when evening came the park was thronged with a happy crowd of youngsters, among whom had been added many of the parents, who had come over after dinner.

John Franklin and William Stone were seriously hurt during the morning and were compelled to return to the city. Aside from this no one was reported to have been hurt in any way. The day passed off without incident and was not notable for anything save the complete enjoyment of the occasion, it being a pleasant and fitting end to a busy and prosperous school year.

Johnny Headley was there from Gardendale, and he had been "staked" before he left home. With 25 cents he was enabled to see the whole show, and as the circus fiend would say, "he stayed for the concert and drank his fill of red lemonade." John is 13 years old and was in his bare feet. When he was on the grounds 10 minutes his face looked like the tattooed lady in a side show, but Johnny didn't care. He went down to the spring and threw stones at the tin cups until there was not a whole one left.

Emmet Cunningham was all by himself. He told his mother he would be good and promised to stay near his teacher. He never knew the world was so big, and when he landed in Chester, the place was so strange that he tnought he would never get home. He began to cry and not being able to locate his teacher was about to start for East Liverpool on foot. He did not know the way and no one would tell him, so he cried harder than ever. About this time "Gillie" Anderson

H. H. HUGHES FOUND DEAD WITH HIS NECK BROKEN

LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA MADE HIM HELPLESS

Lying cold in death, the result of a terrible accident, Harry H. Huges, though a resident of the city less than 15 years, one of its most widely known citizens, was found between the hours of 1 and 2 o'clock this morning by Mrs. William Fortune, at whose home, 133 Third street, he had roomed for nearly a year.

When discovered the lifeless body was in a heap at the foot of the stairs, which he had been attempting to climb when seized with an attack of locomotor ataxia, a disease of which he had been a victim for five years. It is thought that he reeled and fell backward, striking his head on the side of the wall with such force that his life was blotted out almost instantly. His neck was broken.

Mrs. Fortune thinks that life had been extinct but a few moments when she found him. She states that, contrary to his usual custom, he was about the house several times at short intervals during the early evening. At about 11 o'clock she and her daughter retired and did not awaken when he entered the house. At nearly 1 o'clock both she and daughter were suddenly aroused by a crash in the hallway, but were not frightened, believing it to be caused by Mr. Hughes, and knowing that he was subject to spasmodic attacks of his distressing malady.

However, after listening closely for further sounds and hearing nothing, they feared that he might have been rendered unconscious by a fall, and decided to investigate. Donning their wearing apparel, they approached the door leading to the hall and grasped the knob. They found it difficult to force the door. Against it lay some heavy object and their doubled strength was required to make the opening. A light had been procured and when the couple got a view of the motionless form, they realized with all its dreadfullness the true situation.

Both were horrified at the sight. From the position into which he was thrown by the fall, the blood of his body had coursed over his head, blackening the face and swelling it, until only one well acquainted with the man would have been able to recognize him. For a short time the women were so horrified that they could not conceive of the proper plan to pursue, but finally recovering from the shock, they called in a neighbor family and watch was held over the inanimate form until early morning, when Undertaker Rinehart was summoned. He quickly prepared the body

Friendly Feeling Toward Harrison County May Secure Her Honors Later.

Lisbon, May 29.—(Special.)—The Lisbon delegation returned from Wellsville last evening, well satisfied with the work and results of the senatorial convention.

The entire Columbiana county delegation has a friendly feeling toward Harrison county and its candidate, J. H. Beal, and that county will probably yet something two years hence when this county will have power to bestow it.

West Virginia Town to Give Free Site and $45,000 Bonus.

S. E. Strickline and Charles Macauley, of the Cameron Pottery company, were in the city today to confer with the local pottery machinery manufacturers. Mr. Strickline stated that they would make a contract for the machinery for a new plant the Benedum brothers, principal owners of the Cameron venture, are to build in Mannington, W. Va.

The terms by which Mannington was chosen are said to be a bonus of $45,000 and a free site of three acres. The promoters are to invest an amount equal to the bonus. All the details for the Mannington plant have been arranged and the contracts entered into. Mr. Strickline stated that ground has been broken for the buildings. The plant is to be an exact counterpart of the one at Cameron.

Victory for Elks.

The Elks base ball team defeated the Carroll club aggregation yesterday afternoon at Rock Springs park by a score of 6 to 5. The teams have played three games and the Elks have won two of them.

THE VOTING GOES MERRILY FORWARD

Large Batches of Coupons Are Being Received Every Day.

LAST OF SERIES D VOTES

Votes are coming in in large numbers for the candidates for the News Review prizes. The series D coupons, which expire June 1, should be sent in tonight, if possible. If any voter is unable to get them here this evening, this office will be open for a short time tomorrow evening and the votes will be received at that time. An unfortunate typographical error yesterday made it appear that Matthew Curran was going backward rather than forward, which is far from being the case. The list of votes published today gives him proper credit. The lists are mounting up rapidly, and two months more of voting will show totals for many which will be something to be proud of, even if the recipients are not prize winners.

The following candidates have received 100 votes or more:

WITH THE WORKMEN IN THE CLAY PLANTS

PEORIA NOTES.

Peoria, May 28.—The pottery here is running about the same as usual, the clay hands only working six days last pay. The trouble is a shortage of saggers. The firm claims to have lots of orders and it looks that way, as Barney Foutts sent to East Liverpool for Harry Farmer to come and help him in the packing shed.

Harris Smith, the big jumbo jigger man, is working out his notice after a service of 11 years. He will leave a host of friends who regret to see him go. He has not decided where he will locate, as he intends to rest for a few weeks and probably until the holidays and go camping with the boys. He received an offer from New Castle, but has not decided for the reasons given above.

John Blank, Harris Smith and Walt McKeone went over to Bloomington to see Kid Barker pitch Sunday, but fate was against them as it rained all day. The Kid and Godwin are taking good care of themselves and both say they never felt better in their lives, and their looks show it. The Kid is pitching wonderful ball and says they are going to win the pennant. Stoffel, who pitched for Rochester against East Liverpool in 1899, when Kid beat them 4 to 2, was to pitch against him Sunday for the first time since that game. The base ball fans are wild over the fielding, bating and base running of John Godwin and they say his fielding is the finest ever seen in Bloomington. He made a catch the other day, and when he came in they showered money on him. If they both keep up their gait they will be in one of the big leagues next season.

READY FOR THE PICNIC.

Nothing but unfavorable weather will stand in the way of the success of the N. B. of O. P. picnic, which is to be held at Rock Springs park on next Monday. The operatives are looking forward to this event with a great deal of pleasure and if the weather is fair they will not be disappointed. The picnic committee has arranged several interesting contests among them a race for old men, a handicap race and a ball game between the pressers and jiggermen. Word from Sebring is that negotiations are on for a special train to carry the operatives from Sebring and Salineville. The New Cumberland operatives will be up in force and several other towns will be represented.

POTTERY OFFICIAL SCALDED.

T. J. McNicol, an official of the Salem China company, met with a mishap at the pottery which will confine him to his home for some time. There was something the matter with the steam pipes and the pump in the water pit and Mr. McNicol himself decided to remedy the defect. As he was going down the ladder he slipped and fell in the pit in the scalding water. He managed to save himself from falling fact downward, but as it was, both legs to the knees were immersed in the boiling water. The skin has already peeled off of one leg and it is thought that the other limb will be affected the same way.

A NEW LOCAL.

The operatives at Derry are to be organized into a local of the N. B. of O. P. by President Duffy, who will visit that city one day next week. The Derry operatives will have the distinction of being the first local organized by the new president. Many of the operatives are from this city and prior to leaving the city were members of the different locals here, so President Duffy will have no difficulty in his work. The local will be a mixed one.

WILL LEAVE THE TRADE.

Harvey Walker, the well known clarionetist of Hayne's band, has concluded that a potter's life is not one to be envied and has announced his intention of leaving the trade. He will accept a position at the Dueber Watch company's works in Canton and will leave for that place next Monday.

IMPROVEMENTS COMPLETED.

The new addition to the decorating department of the Homer Laughlin China company's plant No. 3 has been completed. A portion of the glost warehouse has been partitioned off and fitted up as a wareroom for the decorators, and four new decorating kilns have been added to the plant.

WORK RESUMED.

Work has been resumed at the Keswick China company's plant, New Brighton, after a shut down, due to a lack of material.

AMONG THE WORKERS.

Miss Kate Early has taken a finishing bench at the Dresden.

Clarence McDole, finisher at Brunt's, has gone to the Dresden.

Albert Lowe, of McNicol's kiln department, is working his notice.

Edward Bratt has accepted a jigger in the Warwick plant, Wheeling.

John McBride, clay maker at McNicol's, who has been suffering with rheumatism, is recuperating at Mt Clemens, Mich.

Arthur Lowe, boss of the McNicol combination crew, has left the trade to devote his entire attention to his grocery business.

GUARANTEED BY WILL REED

Hyomei the Only Cure for Catarrh Which Returns Your Money If Not Satisfactory.

It is seldom that a druggist has enough faith in a medicine he sells even when prepared by himself, to be willing to refund the money if it does not cure; but Hyomei has cured so many cases of catarrh among the customers of Will Reed that he offers to refund the money to all who use it and report that they are not satisfied.

Hyomei is the simplest and most convenient remedy for catarrh ever offered to the public. Breathed through an inhaler so small that it can be carried in the vest pocket, for a few minutes four times a day, it will absolutely kill all the germs of catarrh and cure the disease.

Catarrh cannot exist where Hyomei is used. It has a two-fold action, killing all the germs in the air passages and lungs and soothing and healing the irritated mucous membrane.

Many of the prominent men and women of the country have gladly given testimonials to Hyomei. After seeking relief in vain for years, this wonderful remedy has cured them of catarrh, and it is no wonder that they want others to know it.

Rev. Dr. Stryker, of the 34th street church, New York city, writes: "Hyomei gives wonderful relief in catarrh when other remedies have failed. It has been of great service to me."

If you have catarrh, accept Will Reed's proposition and use Hyomei.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty cent and dollar sizes are sold by all good druggists.

TRIED TO TAKE HIS CHILD AWAY

Mahoning County Man Figures in a Sensation at Salineville And Is Arrested.

Salineville, May 29.—(Special.)—Salineville citizens were treated to a mild sensation Tuesday afternoon when Walter Hufford, from near Youngstown, attempted to spirit away his child from its mother, Mrs. Hufford, who is now employed at the hotel recently opened by E. E. Swisher, formerly of Petersburg, Mahoning county. Hufford arrived in town Tuesday and was seen in the vicinity of the hotel where his wife is working and who has the care of the child.

He had been drinking some in the forenoon and told several persons that he would steal away the child. About 3 p. m. the child, which is about 18 months old, was playing on the sidewalk when Hufford put in his appearance and forcibly carried it away. He started up the railway and was fast making away when H. E. Blazer saw him. He at once started in pursuit after the man, at times attempting to have him stop, but he was deaf to all alarms and kept on running with the child. A man by the name of Knox then joined in pursuit after the alleged kidnapper. Finally Blazer overtook the man, who threatened him, but his pursuer was not frightened. Hufford was overtaken and shortly overpowered.

He was then placed under arrest and brought to the city jail by Knox, where he was incarcerated in the cell. Marshal Higgins, who was busy, arrived a short time after the man was placed behind the bars. The child was left with its mother at the hotel.

The coupe have been married for some time, but they have decided to separate, she taking the child with her. He claims that the child belongs to him. Excitement ran high until it was found that the man had a right to the child, there having been no order from the court to the contrary. An investigation soon satisfied the authorities that nothing but a charge of disorderly conduct could be lodged against the man, and it was filed. Wednesday forenoon a brother of the prisoner was present. Hufford pleaded guilty, was fined $3 and costs and given his freedom.

Cured His Mother of Rheumatism.

"My mother has been a sufferer for many years with rheumatism," says W. H. Howard, of Husband, Pa. "At times she was unable to move at all, while at all times walking was painful. I presented her with a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and after a few applications she decided it was the most wonderful pain reliever she had ever tried, in fact, she is never without it now and is at all times able to walk. An occasional application of Pain Balm keeps away the pain that she was formerly troubled with." For sale by Alvin & Bulger.

EAST END

SUNDAY SERVICES

Special Features Have Been Prepared at Several of the Churches And Field Day Will be Observed.

Wayne B. Wheeler, attorney for the Anti-Saloon league, will occupy the pulpit of the Second United Presbyterian church Sunday and will deliver a lecture upon the subject of temperance. He is one of the speakers sent to this city for the observance of the league's field day and the people of the East End are fortunate in being afforded the opportunity of hearing one of the most eloquent men in the state.

Quarterly meeting will be observd Sunday at the Erie street Methodist church. Rev. G. W. Orcutt will preach at the morning service, after which communion will be administered. Rev. Dr. C. E. Manchester, presiding elder of the district, will conduct the evening services and after the sermon the love feast will be held.

There will be services at the Second Presbyterian church both morning and evening, one of the services to be devoted to a lecture upon the subject of temperance.

The first services will be held Sunday in the new Second Christian edifice, which was dedicated last Sunday. Rev. C. A. Kleeberger will be in charge.

School Children's Outing.

The East End furnished a full quota of school children for the picnic at Rock Springs park today. The little ones were in charge of the teachers of the East End schools and were brought down town on the street cars. The children were happier than they have been for months, as they were going out for a day of pleasure and entering upon a long respite from school work. The cars down town this morning were crowded with the children until 10 o'clock this morning, and from their young throats came sweet music. There were no mishaps to mar the beginning of the day, the car crews taking particular pains for the safety of their little charges.

A Narrow Escape.

Robert Larkins, a prominent and popular young business man, had a narrow escape from serious injury Wednesday night while driving his team of spirited young colts. He was sending the animals at a rapid pace to escape an approaching storm and attempted to pass in front of a street car at the corner of Fifth and Washington streets. The car struck the rear of the vehicle, but luckily did not overturn it. The damage was very slight, and Mr. Larkins escaped unhurt.

Will Close Tomorrow.

All the establishments in the East End that usually close at 6 o'clock in the evening will remain open tonight until a late hour, owing to the fact that Memorial day is to be observed. There will be no attempt to do business tomorrow. The rush at the grocery stores commenced early this morning and continued all day, the sales including provisions sufficient for three days. Quiet will reign in the East End tomorrow.

A Wrong Impression.

The impression has been given out that the P. H. C. lodges of this section were giving the picnic, which is to be held at Rock Springs park tomorrow. This is a mistake, as the affair is entirely in the hands of the Pennsylvania orders. The five lodges hereabout nave accepted invitations to attend and have appointed committees to assist their hosts.

Trip Postponed.

Notice has been received by Pan-American court, Tribe of Ben Hur, that the meeting of the Braddock, Pa., tribe, to which they were invited, has been postponed owing to the graduating exercises which are scheduled for the same night, Wednesday, June 10. Quite a number had intended to accept the invitation and they will do so later.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

William McVay will spend Decoration day at Toronto.

Robert Hutchinson will spend tomorrow fishing at Aium Cliff.

Ray McDaniel will leave for Pittsburg in the morning to take in the ball games.

Henry Neininger, of Mulberry street, moved his family to Wedgewood street this morning.

Miss Myrtle Barber, who has been the guest of Will Andrews and family, returned to her home in Washington county today.

D. Frank White left this morning for Sharon, Pa., where he will remain for a few days on business.

A. P. Myler, field agent for the Tribe of Ben Hur, received word this morning that the new tribe at Toronto had initiated 19 candidates at its last meeting and accepted 15 additional applications.

Broke

Down With Nervous Prostration.

Confined to Bed. Doctors Failed,

But Dr. Miles' Nervine Cured Permanently.

"Some six years ago I completely broke down from evangelistic work. I suffered from nervous prostration and stomach trouble and was confined to my bed and room for months. While I had as good a physician as this city affords he failed to pull me out, and I tried many remedies and they were so hard on my stomach that I could not take them. At last I found Dr. Miles' Nervine. Ah, that was a nail in a sure place and enabled me to cry out 'Eureka.' I was soon able to be out and at work. I consider Dr. Miles' Nervine the thing for nerve and stomach trouble. I also use in my family most of Dr. Miles' Medicines, as household remedies." —Rev. Geo. W. Draper, Danville, Ill.

"About a year ago I failed in health and my case was said to be nervous derangement and heart trouble. My stomach was also affected and I suffered from a variety of symptoms such as wind on the stomach, shortness of breath, smothering spells, pain around the heart and left shoulder. My ankles were frequently swollen and my face was often feverish. There were little puffs under my eyes at times and I had headache almost constantly. I wrote to you for advice and in addition to general directions as to taking care of myself you prescribed Restorative Nervine, Heart Cure and Nerve and Liver Pills. I will state that my complete and permanent return to health followed."—Miss Josephine Kern, Galena, Ill.

WEIGH YOURSELF BEFORE USING

Weigh yourself before commencing to use Mi-o-na, the great flesh-forming food. The wonderful sale on this preparation, since first introduced in East Liverpool and the remarkable results following its use, have made Will Reed such an enthusiastic believer in the great value of Mi-o-na, that he gives his personal guarantee to refund the money if Mi-o-na will not make thin people fat, cure indigestion and restore health.

This is a strong guarantee, but Druggist Will Reed has seen so many of his customers who a few weeks ago looked like walking skeletons, become plump and well, solely through the use of Mi-o-na that he feels he cannot say too much to induce people to try it.

This marvelous flesh-forming food is assimilated as soon as it is taken into the stomach, makes good, rich blood, tones up the weakened digestive organs, helps the food to digest, and makes permanent cures in the worst cases of indigestion.

Nervous Depression.

Summer months are peculiarly the months of nervous diseases, especially nervous prostration and other depressed states of the nervous system. People who are not at all inclined to be nervous or suffer from weak nerves find this time especially trying. Sultry heat and electrical disturbances of the atmosphere are probably the cause of this.

Invalids need to be particularly careful to fortify the nervous system by the use of Peruna.

Miss Helen Rolof, Kaukauna, Wis., writes:—"Several times during the past two years or more my system has been greatly in need of a tonic, and at those times Peruna has been of great help in building up the system, restoring my appetite and securing restful sleep. I know a great number of women who are using it for the troubles peculiar to the sex, and with the best results."—Helen Rolof.

MISS HELEN ROLOF.

MISS LOUISE BERTSEL.

MISS JENNIE FINLEY.

Miss Louise Bertsel, 191½ Second street, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:—"My health was excellent until about six months ago, when I seemed to have a collapse from overdoing socially, and the doctor ordered an entire change of scene and climate. As this was an absolute impossibility at the time, I had to try and regain my health in another way and was induced by a friend, who gave Peruna such a good recommend, to try Peruna. I cannot tell you the condition of my nerves when I began to use it. The least noise irritated me, and I felt that life was not worth living, but Peruna soon changed me into a well woman, and now I do not know I have nerves."—Louise Bertsel.

A newspaper contributor was lately admitted into the extensive suite of offices which constitute the headquarters of Dr. Hartman, who treats catarrh patients by the thousand. Among the busy swarm of assistant doctors, clerks, stenographers and bookkeepers, Dr. Hartman stopped long enough to say a few words.

"A large number of female patients visit me every year, but the number who are entered on my books as regular patients and are treated by correspondence is very much larger. Hundreds of letters are received and answered free every day. A yet greater multitude take my catarrh remedy, Peruna, and are cured, of whom I never hear. Some of this latter class write me years after their cure.

"I never allow a name published except by the written consent of the patient. We make no charge at any time. The medicine only is obtained by each patient at her own drug store. Those desiring to become regular patients have only to send address, duration of disease and treatment previously received, and directions for the first month's treatment will be sent at once."

Over half the women have catarrh in some form or another. And yet, probably not a tenth of the women know that their disease is catarrh. To distinguish catarrh of various organs it has been named very differently.

One woman has dyspepsia, another bronchitis, another Bright's disease, another liver complaint, another consumption, another female complaint. These women would be very much surprised to hear that they are all suffering with chronic catarrh. But it is so, nevertheless.

Each one of these troubles and a great many more are simply catarrh—that is, chronic inflammation of the mucous lining, of which organ is affected. Any internal remedy that will cure catarrh in one location will cure it in any other location. This is why Peruna has become so justly famous in the cure of female diseases. It cures catarrh wherever located. Its cures remain. Peruna does not palliate—it cures.

"Health and Beauty," sent free by The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Miss Jennie Finley, 79 Madison Street, Memphis, Tenn., a popular young society lady of that place, writes:—"Three years ago I had very poor health, and while I was only sick abed occasionally, I was unable to enjoy life, and lacked vitality and strength. I was an easy subject to cold and malaria. Four bottles of Peruna changed my entire physical condition. My head stopped aching, my strength returned, and the poison was driven out of my blood till I felt like a new and well woman once more. It is a truly great medicine and well worthy the good things its friends say about it, and it will always have my indorsement."—Jennie Finley.

Miss Lucy M. Riley, 33 Davenport street, Cleveland, Ohio, writes:—"I wish to add my indorsement to thousands of other women who have been cured through the use of Peruna. I suffered for five years with severe backache, and when weary or worried in the least I had prolonged headache. This fall I caught a bad cold and was advised to take Peruna for it. Imagine my astonishment and pleasure to find that after taking two bottles not only was my cough gone, but I had no more backache or headache. I am now in perfect health, enjoy life and have neither an ache or pain, thanks to Peruna."—Lucy M. Riley.

Memorial day will be appropriately and impressively observed tomorrow by the veterans, sons of veterans and patriotic orders generally. It is a cause for regret that it cannot and will not be so observed by everybody. The tendency to turn it into a day of pleasure is one that ought to be frowned upon. The day was set apart for solemn services, and its quiet ought not to be disturbed by shouts of revelry and merry-making. Enjoyments ought to be in keeping with the character of the day. Fast day, in New England, first observed by the Pilgrim Fathers, has so lost its character in these modern times, that the governor of Maine, in issuing a recent proclamation appointing the day, as law and custom require, said he hoped the day would not be observed, probably meaning that he hoped it would not be observed in the usual fashion, with scarcely a thought of the causes which first led to its celebration. Let us hope that Memorial day will never fall into similar disuse and desecration. There are hundreds of days in the year which can be devoted to work or pleasure and surely we can spare one day for recalling the bravery and the deeds of those who died for their country and holding it sacred to their memories.

The Republican senatorial convention at Wellsville resulted in nominations that are eminently satisfactory to Columbiana county and ought to be likewise to the entire district. That Messrs. Connell and Heinlein will be elected there is no doubt. The former has had one term in the senate and his good work there certainly entitles him to another. That was the view taken of the matter, not only by Columbiana county, but by the majority in the convention. With his previous experience and his well known ability and his plainly demonstrated desire to serve his constituents faithfully, he ought to be a more valuable man than ever during his second term. Mr. Heinlein is a lawyer of acknowledged ability and high standing in Belmont county and will represent the district with credit and honor. Matters ended entirely satisfactorily to everybody, except perhaps a portion of the Jefferson county delegation. Whether justly or unjustly, Jefferson's prospects were clouded at the start by rumors of her alleged intentions, and were not helped by the disposition shown by some of the delegates to carry a county fight into the district convention and to wash dirty linen in public. However, all is well that ends well, and the convention ended in a manner that will meet with the general approval of the Republicans of the district and assure the ticket of hearty support.

When, as will be the case some day, "joint" senatorial districts shall cease to exist, it will be a cause for rejoicing among the people who now live and vote in such peculiar subdivisions as place counties of different congressional districts in the same senatorial district. Linking together counties whose community of interest is small is not the best way to produce harmonious conventions or to give all their rights politically. When the time for redistricting comes, Columbiana county and probably every other county in what is now styled the Twentieth-Twenty-second district, will be satisfied if it can be placed in one senatorial subdivision of the state and not in two.

The men most strenuously opposed to an endorsement of President Roosevet by Ohio Republicans are most positive in their declarations that there is no opposition to him. What, then, the harm of an endorsement?

A class of 35 high school graduates in East Liverpool is a great credit to the city. The graduates can, if they will, so shape their careers as to reflect still greater honor and credit upon both the city and themselves.

The milliners are joining in the crusade against the decorating of women's hats with stuffed song birds. It is evident that the milliners have found out how to make ribbons just as expensive.

A European physician contends that there is a mental disease called automobilomania. It is probably too expensive to become troublesomely common outside of a limited circle.

King Alfonso of Spain has just inherited $7,500,000. He makes no secret of it, owing to the fact that he can appoint his own tax assessors.

It is a great pity that the earthquakes, if they must kill off Turks, do not strike at others than inoffensive peasants.

Mr. Cleveland fully understands that a noisy fisherman gets few bites.

H. H. HUGHES FOUND DEAD WITH HIS NECK BROKEN

for a coffin and then it was thought best to inform the dead man's wife, with whom he had not lived for a number of years. She was terribly shocked upon receiving the news, but insisted that she see the body. In company with her son, Harry Louis, she went to the home, and the scene as they gazed upon husband and father was most dramatic. Mrs. Hughes was hardly able to bear the ordeal and gave way in deepest emotion. She ordered that the body be removed to her home, Walnut street, where the funeral services will be conducted.

Harry H. Hughes was 41 years of age and was born in Ohioville, where he worked as an oil operator until 1887, when, with his wife, whose maiden name was Louie Potts, and their only child, Harry Louis, he moved to this city. He accepted a position with the Bridgewater Gas company, as inspector. While in the employ of the company he worked under the superintendency of J. M. Kelly, who in the following words spoken this morning briefly but descriptively portrays the character of the man that made him quickly the friend of every acquaintance:

"Harry Hughes was a gentleman and socially there was never a better man in East Liverpool. He was generous to a fault. Though he had one common fault, his good characteristics shone bright enough to hide it."

Until 1897 he worked with the gas company, and within a few months left for the south. While at Ashville, Ky., he enlisted in Company B, of the Second U. S. Regulars, and was immediately stationed at Lithia Springs, Ga. A short time later he was ordered to Porto Rico, where his company remained but ten days, receiving orders to return to America. While stationed at Montauk Point, he contracted malaria and became so bad that he was removed to St. Peter's hospital, Brooklyn. After a while he recovered somewhat and secured a furlough. He spent the time in East Liverpool, and upon his return to camp was ordered before a nexamination board at Savannah, Ga. The physicians pronounced him a victim of locomotor ataxia and the disease rendering him totally unable to serve in the army, he was honorably discharged. He returned to his home in this city and since his arrival lived in misery from the effects of the malady. His means of support since his discharge from the army was a pension of $50 per month.

WELLSVILLE

MEMORIAL DAY

Elaborate Program for Its Observance in Wellsville.

The citizens of Wellsville have made all the necessary arrangements to have the celebrations of Memorial day be such that will be long remembered. The principals of this movement are the members of the G. A. R., W. R. C. and S. of V. The various committees appointed by the different organizations have worked unceasingly to have the day prove successful in every way.

At a recent meeting of the executive committee selected to make all arrangements the following officers were appointed: General J. W. Reilly, master of ceremonies; T. A. Lloyd, chief marshal; F. K. Hutcheson, aid; George B. Aten, officer of the day. Those who have charge of the schools are: Prof. J. L. McDonald, W. C. Fraser and T. L. Apple.

The procession will form at the public square and will march promptly at 8 a. m. down Main street to Tenth street, stopping at Ninth street, where the school will join, out Tenth to the cemetery. Returning up Tenth street, to Commerce street, Commerce to Ninth, Ninth to Main, thence to G. A. R. hall, where it will be dismissed.

The program at the cemetery will be:

Prayer .....Rev. W. C. Prewitt
Song, "America"..... Chorus
Decoration of graves.....
.....G. A. R. Services
Reading of President Lincoln's address at Gettysburg.....
..... Dr. B. R. Parke
Benediction.....Rev. C. E. Clark

Quite a number of organizations have expressed a desire to join the procession and the various labor organizations of the city have engaged Haines' band, of East Liverpool, to furnish music for the day. If this fine weather continues the celebration will be one that has never been surpassed.

An Enjoyable Musical Event.

The organ recital given last evening in the M. E. church by Paris R. Meyers, of Wheeling, was one of the finest ever rendered in this city. His program consisted of nine instrumental pieces and several selections by a male quartet from Wheeling. The church was crowded despite the hot weather and all enjoyed the program. While Mr. Meyers' pieces were exceedingly fine still the vast crowd seemed to enjoy the beautiful singing of the quartet. A neat sum, after all expenses were deducted, was added to the church's treasury.

READY FOR LIFE'S BATTLE IS THE CLASS OF 1903

described points of interest, scenes and events in the old world, including Europe, Asia and Africa, the return journey and its pleasant memories. It was all well rendered and deeply interesting to the large audience.

Following speeches of the class Prof. Rayman made a few brief remafks which were fitting and interesting and received the due appreciation o. the audience. Following these remarks the presentation of the highest honors to Miss Alta Flowers and the diplomas to the class of 1903 concluded the exercises.

The words of the closing s ong, "The Buckeye State," sung in an impressive and pleasing manner by Will A. Rhodes, were written by Walter J. Blakely, a former well known resident of East Liverpool. He now lives in St. Louis, and is a member of the Louisana purchase exposition commission. Mr. Blakely spend several days in this city about two months ago, and while visiting the schools promised the verses for the melody. The class joined in the chorus with much spirit.

The discussions of the evening are here summarized:

Bailey Davenport Gipner

Had the honor of decribing the events leading up to the beginning of the imaginary trip abroad and told of what happened to the class while it was making the journey across the sea. He explained that the board of education had agreed to pay all expenses and provide a suitable chaperon. The start was made from East Liverpool the second week in June and there was an affecting scene at the station as the class took its departure. Friends, relatives and even the enemies had assembled for the occasion and bade them godspeed. The journey to New York and the voyage across the Atlantic was without event and on the tenth day out the European shore was sighted. It was night when the class disembarked and all were too tired for sightseeing.

Mabel L. Pilgrim

Took particular notice of famous points of London and described the interesting features attached to each in a manner quickly grasped and much enjoyed. She saw Westminster abbey, the place where kings and queens held forth for more than 800 years, where the crowned and royal families lived. The coronation chair brought to mind many historical stories and impressed her deeply. The old tower of London on the Thames and the British museum were visited by her and must have been hugely enjoyed, as they were painted with the words of a poet.

Minnie Stoddard.

London's famous streets were of particular interest to Miss Stoddard and her observation and impressions of them were instructive and interesting. She told of the wanderings of the class through Trafalgar Square, one of London's most historic spots, of the famous national art galleries, the ancient cathedrals, the Nelson monument, almost as familiar to Americans who have never visited London as those who have lived years in the great English capital.

Will A. Rhodes

Enjoyed a personal interview with Lord Balfour, who is now the chief colonial secretary. He found the great statesman to be a lover of strenuous living, like our president, Theodore Roosevelt. He is refined, fastidious; loves books and has a noticeable taste for art. He delights in righteous discomfort for a rival, but never triumphs over the victory of an opponent. He enjoys a commanding influence and though now famous has seemingly only entered on his grand career.

Maude Emeline Barlow.

There was a great attraction in the homes of the English to Miss Barlow and from her observation she contrasted them with those of America. The different in our mode of living with that of our English cousins is very marked. The stately homes of England are very beautiful, the tapestry, decorations and other adornments being of a most princely and inimitable type. Regret was expressed that the stay in London was not long enough to permit of more precise investigations.

Blanche N. McDonnell.

The peculiar names given to the inns of England attracted the attention of Miss McDonnell. In every one that sheltered the members of the class they found a royal hospitality. From the names their places of shelter were selected, and among the appealing names were the White Horse, the Red Dragon and many others famous in history and fiction.

Ruby Agnes Kinsey

Remembered well the experience of her self and classmates on the glorious Fourth of July in London. She noted that American patriotism shown forth on many faces in the mother country, but thought it queer when apprised of certain restrictions placed upon the people. She knew that restrictions were made on many things in the old country, but thought that on the celebrated day rule and government should be dispensed with. She was with a crowd of Americans that chartered a boat for a sail down the Thames. One of the party fired a sky rocket and all were surprised to see a nearby ship suddenly stop and then start toward them. It was later discovered that the rocket was similar to a sign of distress.

Mary Brozka.

Sunny Spain and her people found a place in the heart of Miss Brozka, although the national capital, famous old Madrid, was a disappointment. She found Madrid a great city of almost 400,000 inhabitants, where luxury and beggary was emphasized above any other city of Europe. The number of peddlers is greater and they are a pest to the traveler, following one until the square, called "the Gate of the Sun," is reached. Here they are forbidden. Miss Brozka noted that the famous old fountains of the city were crumbling and that instead of being repaired new ones were being constructed. Madrid is the first city in the world in promenades, theaters and shows and the passion of the Spaniard for music almost equals that for bull fighting.

Jessie S. Shaw

Was much enthused over her visit in Constantinople. She saw cities more beautiful on the long trip, but the metropolis of Turkey had features to be found only in Constantinople. Narrow streets and high buildings whose eves almost intermingle from opposite sides of the thoroughfares. The streets are lined almost continuously with men, women and children. Their characteristics are plainly to be observed. Laziness seems to be a disease among them, those who can afford it having not less than three slaves to do less than the average American would scoff at as work. The streets are filled with dogs and they are ever dominating, every one being compelled to make room for them.

Josiah Clare Smith.

The crumbling ruins of Rome, the eternal city, and the capital of one of the greatest empires the world ever knew, drew the attention of Mr. Smith. He visited the forum, where once was heard the unparalleled eloquence of Cicero. He spent hours in the temple of St. Anthony, the stragetic key to the city, and was lost in wonderment at the Coliseum. There he observed the natives enter the crumbling ruins to worship at a crucifix of the virgin.

Florence L. Webber

Will never forget her sojourn in Cairo, the famous capital of ancient Egypt. Its scenes recalled the numerous biblical stories of which she had heard and read, and a gaze upon the realities made a l ting impression. Considerable time was spent in viewing the mosques. In one where the children attend daily school a noticeable feature was the absence of tiers and desks; the books being printed so that it is necessary to read from right to left, and the children before entering the mosques are seen to lay aside their shoes, but all wear hats. The streets are filled with beggars, who are mostly all cripples. It is said that one-third of Cairo's population are blind, or have defective eyesight.

Maude Shive.

Gliding upon the black waters of the Nile, aboard the Mayflower, one of the stately steamers that ply the stream, Miss Shive received her most vivid impressions of the foreign lands. Snugly esconced upon the steamer chairs the members of the class were carried past scenes historic through all the ages—past the pyramids, the giant accomplishment of ancient hordes which time has sought in vain to efface. "For 20 years until within the last 18 months I have been greatly troubled with indigestion and have used a great many remedies without obtaining any permanent relief. About the 15th of June, 1900, I commenced using Nau's Dyspepsia Cure, and am pleased to say that I consider myself entirely cured of all stomach troubles. I have delayed expressing to you my opinion of your valuable remedy until such a time has elapsed as to convince me of my entire recovery. At the time I began to use Nau's Dyspepsia Cure, my health was in a critical condition and my friends had almost given up hopes of my recovery, and I am satisfied in my opinion that had it not been for Nau's Dyspepsia Cure, I would not be alive to write this letter." ## WELLSVITLE VS. CANTON

A Series of Three Interesting Games at Central Park Promised.

The Marines, of Canton, are in Wellsville today to open a series of three games with the local team at Central park. One game will be played today and two tomorrow at 10 a. m. and 3 p. m. The visitors are strong and skillful players and will make the home team knuckle down to hard playing to win. They have crossed bats with the Y. M. C. A. team, of East Liverpool, and proved a worthy opponent.

The Wellsville team has started out on another winning streak, since Zanesville left town, and it would be a great disappointment if it loses to Canton.

The outfielders will not have a very desirable place to play, as, it is alleged, that Murphy got tired the other day while mowing the grass and broke the machine to keep from cutting it. He says ball playing is all right, but that he and "work" fell out long ago. The holes caused by the bad rain have been filled and the diamond is in the best of condition.

The crowd will probably not be so large today, but Saturday about 800 people are expected to attend, as all business houses will close.

Sebring Gets Potts.

Dennis Potts, the much-advertised base ball pitcher, who went to Alliance last week to pitch for the Alliance team this season, has already sought new pastures. Saturday Potts, with the consent of Alliance, pitched a game for Sebring against New Berlin. After the game Potts was persuaded, it is said, by the offer of a handsome salary, to agree to play with Sebring for the season. Sebring fans are enthusiastic over the valuable addition to their team, while Alliance enthusiasts are correspondingly depressed.

SPORTING MISCELLANY.

New York leads the National league in batting averages.

The Canton Marines play at Wellsville today and tomorrow.

West Virginia university defeated Homestead at Morgantown by a score of 5 to 4.

Kid McCoy is having luck playing the races and again announces his retirement from the ring.

President Comisky, of the Chicago White Stockings, wired Manager Callahan at Cleveland to purchase a hat for each member of the team as a reward for the victory of Wednesday.

The body of Hank L. Owens, a former wealthy turfman and horse owner, who was found dead in his room in a Memphis hotel Monday, was buried in the potters' field. He is said to have left an estate of $71,000 in mining property in Montana.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

Has Again and Again Cured After Physicians Have Failed.

For years men and women in every rank and walk of life have been sounding the praises of Paine's Celery Compound, and telling of its victories over disease and death. Those who were most heavily burdened with disease, victims of suffering pronounced incurable by doctors, and who stood on the brink of the grave, are the people who most gratefully remember Prof. Phelps, of Dartmouth College, the eminent physician and scientist who discovered Paine's Celery Compound, the medicine that never fails to conquer blood diseases, dyspepsia, rheumatism, neuralgia, liver and kidney troubles. Mr. F. Marion Sikes, of Cronley, N. C., happily rescued from a complication of dangerous ailments, long standing dyspepsia, muscular pains and after results of typhoid fever—nervousness, weakness, watery blood and sluggish circulation, gratefully and thankfully writes for the benefit of thousands of men and women who suffer today. Mr. Sikes says:

"For many years I suffered with dyspepsia. All that I ate did me no good, and I could find nothing that would give me relief. Last year I was taken with a pain in my leg that ran from my hip to the end of my toes. I had as good a doctor as I could find in Wilmington, but he only gave me relief for awhile. I was then taken with typhoid fever and my family and friends had given up all hope. A friend of mine, Captain Walter Taft, advised me to try Paine's Celery Compound as I was so nervous I could not stand alone. I began the use of the wonderful medicine and before I had taken half a bottle I felt like a new man. I have now used two bottles and am today a well man and feel better than I have for ten years. I thank my God for the use of this great and marvelous compound."

Read This—It Costs You Nothing

And May Be Worth Thousands of Dollars to You.

Mr. H. K. Mitchell, of New Philadelphia, O., speaks of Life Plant in the following emphatic language:

Life Plant is a wonder. We have used it in our family for nearly a year and find it to be all that is claimed for it in giving tone and vigor to the system. It certainly cures rheumatic trouble. In fact I believe it will cure any disease that is reached through the blood.

We guarantee the genuineness of every TESTIMONIAL. The above was indeed a remarkable cure, but it was simple and easy when the proper method was followed. It is a notable fact in science, that disease germs can not exist in pure matter. There must be some impurity else they die. You might arrest a disease by local application, and take some poisons fatal to disease germs, but you cannot hope for a cure by that system of treatment. You must get at the cause.

Impure blood is the cause of practically ALL diseases. To cure any disease you must by some means purify the BLOOD. Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Rheumatism, Eczema, Hives, Tetter, Catarrh and Asthma, are the most familiar forms of blood diseases. Life Plant purifies the BLOOD. It renews LIFE, it restores the vital element in the BLOOD. That is why it cures diseases, and prevents disease. It is nature's way. It's the common sense way. Try it NOW. DELAY is DANGEROUS.

READY FOR LIFE'S BATTLE IS THE CLASS OF 1903

traveled through a country where rain and even clouds are unknown and where the monotony of clear skies became oppressive.

Lillian Brookes

Chose Benares as a panoramic spot from which she could gaze upon the beauteousness of British India. She thought she was in the center of the earth. It was the greatest city of India and in it was the beginning and the creation of the universe. The trip to the city was an enjoyable one and the scenic production, all of God's handiwork, barred the description she thought it worthy of. In the city of her choice there are four noted universities and numberless colleges. There are very few in the city that have not had the advantage of a college education and all of them have studied the English language.

William Harrison George.

The idiosyncrasies of the German student solemnly impressed Mr. George, and he wondered how young men who devoted so much time and thought to educational pursuits could still maintain the ancient and cruel custom of dueling. Yet the students are proud of the scars received in combats with the sword with fellow students and the custom flourishes. There are but few if any fatalities; in fact, the percentage of permanent injury is less than in the American game of foot ball. When the class stopped at Heidelberg he met a celebrated professor and from him learned many of the methods of the great universities and the ambitions of the students.

Cora Mae Fisher

Found a most pleasing incident while visiting in the Netherlands. One day, she in company with a number of other Americans, was enjoying the enchantment of the beautiful woods surrounding Holland and all were met by a stranger, a young girl. She treated the American tourists with much courtesy and made them feel much disappointed when she suddenly left the forest with a young gentleman who had found her among the strange gathering. All were mystified as to her name. The following day they were so surprised upon seeing the very same girl riding through the streets in the royal carriage and were more surprised when upon inquiry they were informed that the lovable and common-appearing and acting lady was Wilhelmina, Holland's queen.

Anna Brozka.

The peasantry of Europe has long been an interesting subject for scientists, historians and fictionists, and in studying this class she traveled from place to place. Miss Brozka found much of interest. There is a vast difference in the peasants of the different nations of Europe. Spanish peasants, as she found them, are thrifty, and active, but ignorant. The opportunities of advanced civilization have been denied them and they live crudely but contentedly. French peasants cling to old manners and customs and have an undying love for their traditions and liberties. Italian peasants are indolent, deceitful and dishonest. These traits form a dark cloud in the moral atmosphere and hangs like a curse over that fair land.

Claudia Evelyn Gill

Did not catch the same vessel that bore her classmates home and was compelled to make the trip alone. Her experiences were thrillingly interesting and she will never regret the voyage. She never ralized, however, what grand old America means to an American born until the morning that she awoke and going to the hurricane deck noticed the sight of American soil in the distance. What a magnificent sight it was to her. She saw the nation's emblem flying in the breeze for the first time since leaving New York and was struck with its true meaning. Arriving at Boston she tarried there a short time, continued to New York and gave a sigh of relief when she landed in the union station at Pittsburg. There she had to wait an hour on a C. & P. train to carry her home, and it was an awful hour. When she did finally get the train and it pulled into the vicinity of Dry Run she was so thankful at a sight of dear, old, dark and ugly East Liverpool.

Blaine Hamlet Cochran.

During the entire trip the energies of Mr. Cochran were devoted to the observance of peculiar characters and he found many of them in all the lands that were visited. Some of them provided him with a great deal of amusement and he was moved to tell of them in rhyme. His verses jingled nicely.

Mary Belle Hill

Was genuinely surprised at the impression made upon Lady Bassett by the graduating class of '03. Her ladyship was almost unequal to the occasion. She could hardly convince herself that her appearance was such as to meet the favor and approval of such a distinguished body of American society leaders. Her confusion was soon lost to her, however, when she noticed the wincing of our crowd and the uncomfortable glances that issued from us. It was then that laughter was reversed. The awkwardness of the graduates in the presence of Lady Bassett was indeed amusing.

Mary Eusebia Beal.

On the trip down the beautiful Rhine, which pursues a winding course of 950 miles and loses itself in the German ocean, Miss Beal found the greatest points of interest. On every crag loned a magnificent castle, most of them built centuries ago in the feudal days of the Anglo-Saxon. She visited Heidelberg castle, supposed to have been built in the fifth century, and saw the huge trees growing in the moat. Between the crags are many pretty little villages inhabited by a thrifty and contented people.

Maude Harris

Was bound and determined to tell a story that when related to her was one of interest, though she knew at the time that it was merely a dream. She was informed that the Cologne cathedral was the greatest in the country, was designed by a man whose name was never known and never will be. He agreed to give the plans and specifications to a young man should he in return grant him his soul. The young man agreed, but did not fulfill it. He made an appointment with the maker of the plans and while the latter was unawares he grabbed the plans and stayed the hand of the ingenious one. The only words of reproach offered by the men were that he would never let it be known who had completed the great architectural feat—and he never did.

Hazel Hanley.

Many women go to Europe for no other reason than to shop in the great marts of Europe, and Miss Hanley confessed this to be the chief objective of the girls of the class. She visited the shops of London and soon learned to be a shrewd buyer, an accomplishment in which she took a great deal of pride. She delighted in the flower market, where a few pennies would buy huge bouquets. In Paris she encountered the shrewd and talkative merchant; in Constantinople, the bearded Turk sitting, smoking his pipe, among his wares. Miss Hanley observed three rules in her shopping—first, to always look bored; second, to exhibit no interest, and third, to apparently have no idea what she wanted to buy.

Richard Reeves Rigby

Decided after witnessing the enjoyment of the English with their common sports that they should be introduced into America. He was much taken in with the game of cricket and gave an excellent description of the sport, the one that is played by all classes of England. He also liked the great parade, in which every one of the old country indulges. Both of them demand generalship and are essential to the improvement of physical needs.

Pearle Marie Albright.

The members of the class had some amusing experiences during the visit to Germany when they discarded their native tongue and attempted the use of the language of that country, and Miss Albright told of them. One of the girls, in calling for the services of a porter, actually proposed marriage, much to the astonishment of the good man, who already had a wife and five children. They soon realized how little they knew of the language in spite of the study they had given it in the East Liverpool public schools. Miss Albright agrees with Mark Twain, when he said the German language was the most slipshod, slipper and elusive to the grasp.

Lillian Inez Deringer

Had read Longfellow's beautiful description of Nuremburg and Bruges and would never have been satisfied had she missed the visit. Both cities were her ideal living places. She loved to view the relics in the mammoth German museum and the crumbling walls that are to be seen on every side. The narrow streets in Bruges appealed to her, especially when filled with the typical Germans. The sights of the two palatial appearing cities will never pass from her memory.

Mary Ethel Fisher.

Many beautiful ballads and tales of love have been told with the scene laid in Venice, that city of canals and piazzas, gondolas and cathedrals, and there Miss Fisher was held spellbound as she contemplated the soft beauty of the streets of water, lighted by the soft moonlight. Many cities boast of their piazzas, but none equal that of Venice's San Marco, which is thronged nightly with the gayest people of the world. The very first day of her visit Miss Fisher secured a gondola and gondolier and traversed many of the 147 canals, through the beautiful arches, around sharp curves and beneath the famous bridge of sighs, by the ancient cathedral, where she heard voices take up the evening song until the chorus was swelled by three hundred.

Georgia Croxall

Avowed that Paris was the most beautiful city visited by the class. She noted the lovely characteristics of the people, the men and the women. The Parisians, she says, are a beauty-loving people. Until her visit she never half realized what a true Parisian was, and she found them an enjoyable lot, a people that believe in pleasure and only pleasure. Their capacity for enjoyment is not limited. They love sunshine, elegant attire and genteel manners. The gay capital is thought of every time the word France is spoken. Its boulevards are a blaze of light and the enchantment of the magnificent city is wonderful.

Arthur Dickson.

Like many other European tourists, Mr. Dickson found great delight in that unsurpassable work of nature, the Alps. The class visited the village of Lucerne, on the beautiful little lake of the same name. After a ride upon its clear waters, the class made the ascent of one of the mighty peaks, whose crest is reared high into the heavens, capped with snow eternally. Teams were secured and they wound around and up the mountain roads until it became impassable for the vehicles. They toiled on foot, until overtaken by a torrent, when the scene became grandly impressive. Rain fell in torrents and vivid lightning flashes rent the heavens while thunder roared from crag to crag.

Ethel Grace Herbert

Had witnessed a fog in the Smoky City and thought it mysterious but she never got lost in one. While in London one night she was promenading one of the principal thoroughfares when very suddenly one of the fogs for which the great city is widely known settled over and around her. It completely enveloped the earth. She could not penetrate its depth. For many minutes she stood in one spot, having not the least idea which way to turn. She finally started—she did not know where and it was into a most embarrassing dilemma that she found herself. Before she was rescued she had fallen down a number of times and is now suffering with a broken ankle as a result.

Mabel Claire Nellis.

Bonny Scotland is a land greatly loved and she greatly enjoyed her visit there. One of the first spots in the itinerary was famous Gretna Green, the haven of runaway or eloping couples. They saw the famous old blacksmith shop, whose smith was the necessary witness to the many marriage ceremonies. It is claimed that he made a better living from his witness fees than he did at smithing. They traversed through Dunfries, made famous by Douglas and Anna Laurie, and down the winding river of Ayr, sung so nobly by Robert Burns, Scotland's greatest poet. They visited Edinburg, Scotland's center of learning and thence on to Inverness over the highlands.

Ernest Willard Thompson

Enjoyed while visiting in foreign lands in pointing out to the countrymen where American products are being sought. It was with pride for his home country that he gazed upon the handiwork of the American at every turn. America's invasion of Europe is discovered quickly by the tourist. He found our competition in Europe to be great but in all cases it was his pleasure to note that we lead. Under a protective tariff we have been able to build up and develop. Our advantages will be more with the passing of years and though we are a great country today, we are only at the threshold of what is destined to be ours.

Alta Virginia Flowers.

The keeping of a diary for the class did not prove to be a successful experiment, although Miss Flowers had recorded many amusing experiences, incident to their travels, before it was abandoned. Through their ignorance of foreign customs they were constantly trespassing some regulation but managed to extricate themselves without serious results.

Maud Elsie Webber

Treasures the memories of her sojourn in Athens. She only regrets that she did not have more time in the metropolis of Greece. In the acropolis of the pretty city she found hundreds of things of interest. Visiting it by day and by night she saw it in every phase. It is a most picturesque city and it was with reluctance that she terminated her stay. The New Athens is a clean white city. In her opinion its the pleasantest city in the east.

William Earl Cripps.

The average American citizen regards the hotel porter with a great deal of awe and in Europe he is even more formidable but Mr. Cripps found the only way of pacifying him. One word tells the secret—tips. The ways of the porters of fleecing innocents are many and varied but Mr. Cripps learned of them all and that tipping was an ancient custom.

James Howard McBane.

Traveling is one of the greatest known educators. There is nothing that so broadens the mind. It appeals strongly to one, it develops the mind and forms character. The impression one receives is lasting and has an elevating effect. It is the only way that we can get a real idea of life. There is a kind of emotion about it and by travel all nations are sewed closer together. The speaker will ever remember the impressive sights and recommends every one wishing a true education to travel.

said a great business man, "are my partners and they need all the strength and courage I can give them," and he forthwith paid for a $1,000,000 policy in The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York Not without the most careful investigation, however, extending over six months. NERVOUS HEADACHE BREEDS INSANITY

Many a person's whole pleasure in life is ruined by the fear of nervous headaches. Any little excitement, no matter what, business or social, brings them on. The feet and hands grow cold, the head is hot, the eyes stiff, the temples throb, and only in the quiet of a darkened room is relief found. This condition must be checked or it means complete mental ruin. To those people Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills come as a blessing. They do not stop, they cure the headaches. They do not blanket, they build up. They put the nervous system in a strong, vigorous, sturdy condition—a condition that gives one resistive power and enables them to again enjoy life's pleasures.

Mrs. George Hall, of No. 330 West Market Street, East Liverpool, Ohio, says: "I was bilious—had nervous headaches, hard and constant—there was a general feeling of weakness and depression I was asked to try Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills and did so, getting them at Larkins' drug store. The result was very good indeed as the biliousness overcome—the headaches cured and bodily and nerve strength furnished."

A HINT TO THE WISE

This Advice Will Bear Repeating in East Liverpool.

"Don't chase shadows."

Doubtful proof is but a shadow.

You can rely on testimony of people you know.

You can investigate local evidence.

Mr. G. H. Garner, the well known manufacturer of ice cream at 168 Jackson street, says: "My trouble set in with a soreness and stiffness over my whole body; my appetite was poor and I was annoyed a good deal with bloating at the stomach. There was a uniary difficulty and I felt generally used up. I tried two or three different remedies, but they did not do me the least good. Having heard Doan's Kidney Pills so highly spoken of I purchased a box at the W. & W. Pharmacy. I did not take over half of it before I was entirely free from any trouble, my appetite was good, and my old time vigor restored. I recommended them to many of my friends among them P. J. Green, V. S., and they all speak of them in the highest terms."

Sold for 50 cents a box by all dealers. Foster-Milburn company, Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

Sold by W. & W. Phormacy.

TRIFLING WITH YOUR HEALTH

Is like Playing with a loaded Gun. If you have Kidney Trouble attend to it at once.

It is easy to tell whether your Kidneys or bladder are diseased. Take a bottle or glass tumbler and fill it with urine. If there is a sediment—a powder-like substance—after standing a day and night, if it is pale or discolored, ropy or stringy, there is something wrong with the Kidneys. Other sure signs of disease are a desire to urinate often, pain in the back, or if your urine stains linen.

There is no question that Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the best and surest medicine in the world for diseases of the Kidneys, Liver, Bladder and Blood, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Chronic Constipation, and the sicknesses peculiar to women. It quickly relieves and cures inability to hold urine and the necessity of getting up a number of times during the night, and puts an end to the scalding pain when passing urine.

The Rev. Henry P. Miller, pastor Baptist Church, Spartenburg, S. C., writes:

"For years I suffered with Kidney, liver and heart troubles, swimming in the head, dull headache and numbness of the limbs. Physicians prescribed for me and I took different medicines, but none of them did me any good. But Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy cured me in about two weeks."

It is for sale by all druggists in the New 50 Cent Size and the regular $1.00 size bottles—less than a cent a dose.

CRUSHES OUT THE LIFE

The most loathsome and repulsive of all living things is the serpent, and the vilest and most degrading of all human diseases is Contagious Blood Poison. The serpent sinks its fangs into the flesh and almost instantly the poison passes through the entire body. Contagious Blood Poison, beginning with a little ulcer, soon contaminates every drop of blood and spreads throughout the whole system. Painful swellings appear in the groins, a red rash and copper colored splotches break out on the body, the mouth and throat become ulcerated, and the hair and eye brows fall out; but these symptoms are mild compared to the wretchedness and suffering that come in the latter stages of the disease when it attacks the bones and more vital parts of the body. It is then that Contagious Blood Poison is seen in all its hideousness. The deep eating abscesses and sickening ulcers and tumors show the whole system is corrupted and poisoned, and unless relief comes soon this serpent disease tightens its coils and crushes out the life. The only antidote for the awful virus is S. S. S. It is nature's remedy, composed entirely of vegetable ingredients. S. S. S. destroys every vestige of the poison, purifies the blood and removes all danger of transmitting the awful taint to others. Nothing else will do this. Strong mineral remedies, like mercury and potash, dry up the sores and drive in the disease, but do not cure permanently.

Send for our home treatment book and write us if in need of medical advice or special information. This will cost you nothing.

A JOLLY TIME FOR CHILDREN

came along and with a nickel stopped the tears and secured the boy a ride on the "flying ginny." Emmet is just 9 and is a pupil of the McKinley school.

The reporter was just in time when he visited the lower end of the grove to rescue Kittie Smith's box of cake and sandwiches from the hands of "Red" Mason and "Skinny" Adams. The boys had brought no lunch, and being of the true young American stamp, they were not backward when they saw that Kittie was all alone and had a shoe box under her arm. The property was restored to its rightful owner and the boys "bummed" a dime from Charley Denning and invested it in a couple of sardine sandwiches.

Carl Thompson tore his coat all the way up the back, showing some of the fellows how the professor loops the loop. Carl is an athletic young man, but in this instance he had not made anowance for the length of his legs and they got tangled. He fell down the steps at the roller coaster and tore his stockings. This was no drawback, however, as he said he was going in his bare fell, anyhow. He was afterward seen to trade a gum ball for a stick of chewing gum, and was looking as happy as anyone on the ground. His friends say he is a "Smart Alex" anyway.

The large crowd began to disperse as early as 4 o'clock and from that time until after 7, the railway men will be busy. Not a single incident occurred at the park during the day that interfered with the complete enjoyment of the more than four thousand boys and girls.

RIVER NAVIGATION IS ON ONCE MORE

Whistles of Towboats and Packets Again Heard Along the Stream.

The whistles of the packets and coal boats were heard yesterday for the first time for several weeks, signifying that navigation had been resumed on the river. A rise has been noted since early yesterday morning and before night a light boating stage had been reached. Capt. Martindill, of the wharfboat, received messages from all the boats in this trade, stating that regular trips would be resumed.

The Greenwood passed up last night at 8 o'clock with a good trip and is due down tonight at 8. The Ben Hur passed down last night, and will be one of the up boats Sunday. The Keystone State and the Kanawha will be up on scheduled time Sunday afternoon.

The towboat Cruiser led the coal fleet, which left Pittsburg yesterday. The other boats to pass here were the Fallie, J. C. Risher, and Dave Wood. The entire shipment aggregated 700,000 bushels.

Hall-Jackson.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Good, of Seventh street, East Liverpool, last evening at 8 o'clock. The contracting parties were Samuel B. Jackson, messenger at the American plate and sheet mill, Wellsville, and Miss Katherine Hall, of this city. W. M. Payne, of Wellsville, and Miss Nora Ormes, of East Liverpool, attended the couple. Rev. J. H. Mason, of the A. M. E. church, performed the ceremony. A fine wedding supper was served. The house was very tastefully decorted. The couple left this morning for a trip through the east. They will visit Washington and other cities.

One man in New York had social aspirations which somewhat warped his admiration of his homespun father. The father actually sometimes relapses into the barbarism of eating with his knife. But the man has a little son whose eyes seek and find out the truth. The other day the little boy licked some mashed potatoes from his knife, and his mother chided him. "Sammy, dear," she said, "only stupid people eat with their knives." "How can you say that, mamma?" cried the child. "Grandpa eats with his knife. And he made all our money!"

Why We Say Bandbox.

"The collars worn by the English in the seventeenth century," said an old hat dealer, "were big, starched things a good deal like a ruff. Sometimes indeed they were bigger than the biggest ruff. They required a box of a good size to be carried about in.

"These collars were called bands. Ben Jonson in 'Volpone' says, 'This band shows not my neck enough.' Steele says, 'The next that mounted the stage was an under citizen of the bath, a person remarkable among the inferior people of that place for his great wisdom and his broad band.'

"Bands, you see, were collars, and by the same token bandboxes were collar boxes. They were big and round, just big enough to carry a clean, well starched band—just as big, in fact, as they are today.

"Whenever, therefore, you talk of bandboxes you are unconsciously referring to the collars as huge as ruffs that the English of the seventeenth century wore."

Character Building.

Character is the wool of honor from which a coat of mail can be woven that the swiftest arrow of shame or the keenest knife of disrepute cannot pierce. Every thought that enters our mind, every act we do and every word we utter adds a link to the golden chain of character. The strength of a steam engine can be estimated to within an ounce of its limit, but it is impossible to estimate the force of a noble character. The hardest hearts are softened and the most repulsive dispositions become fascinating. Our failures and our successes help to form a reputation that may be destroyed by an external force, but the destruction of a character can only be effected by some internal force.—Our Boys' Magazine.

CARE OF INSANE A GRAVE PROBLEM

HOSPITALS OF THE STATE

Not In Shape to Receive Those Who Should Be Removed From Infirmaries — Improvements Not Ready For a Year—Legal Question.

Canton, May 29.—The agitation participated in by Prosecuting Attorney R. H. Day, of Stark county, and the commissioners, as to what disposition shall be made of the insane and epileptics in the infirmaries of the state after June 1, has stirred up the governor and other state officials as to the gravity of the situation, and it is possible that an extra session of the legislature may be called to make an appropriation to meet the expense of caring for the unfortunates.

When the appropriations were made for the building of the Massillon state hospital and the enlarging of other similar institutions, the condition was inserted that after June 1, 1903, it should be unlawful for any infirmary to retain any insane inmates. They should all be turned over to the state and cared for in the proper asylums. This also included epileptics.

It is now within a few days of the time when the law goes into effect and hospitals of the state are not in condition to receive the insane. Realizing that they cannot legally be kept in the infirmary, the county commissioners called the attention of Prosecutor Day to the matter about a week ago and he at once notified the authorities at the Massillon and the Ohio state hospital for epileptics at Gallipolis and Governor George K. Nash that after June 1 the state would have to take charge of the 70 or more insane and epileptics in the Stark county infirmary, as there was no warrant of law after June 1 by which the county could support them.

Prosecutor Day received a letter from Governor Nash stating that he had taken the matter up with the attorney general, and sent a copy of his communication to Sheets, in which the fact was set forth that the legislature had made no appropriation for caring for the extra number of insane which would become its charge after the law goes into effect. Money was appropriated to enlarge the asylums, but the improvements will not be completed until a year or more.

The governor submitted to the attorney general two questions which were practically those raised by Prosecutor Day, as follows:

"What can the trustees and superintendents of these hospitals legally do when the insane from the infirmaries are offered to them? And what can the county commissioners and infirmary directors of the different counties legally do under the circumstances?"

The governor promised as soon as his legal advisor gave an opinion to send a copy of it to the prosecutor.

The situation is one that is embarrassing. The insane cannot be turned loose in the community, yet apparently no one is authorized to care for them. If the infirmaries are compelled to keep them, the county may demand that the state pay the expense, by a future appropriation if no money is available at the present time.

LIVE TOPICS ABOUT TOWN

Will Reed, the popular druggist, had a pleasant experience yesterday. One of his Mi-o-na customers called at the store expressly to thank him for recommending that remedy. Although beginning its use less than a month ago, this party, a prominent business man, considers himself completely cured of indigestion today and has gained about 10 pounds in weight.

In a letter received by Mr. Reed was the following testimonial from Francis Murphy, the famous apostle of temperance. Mr. Reed wants everybody in East Liverpool to read what Mr. Murphy writes: "Mi-o-na is a wonderful remedy. I have used it and with all my heart and my renewed strength I would thank you for it. I would gladly recommend Mi-o-na to all who are suffering from indigestion or dyspepsia."

Mi-o-na has gained fame through being sold on the "No Cure No Pay" plan. Although Mr. Reed has sold hundreds of packages with his personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure, he has had less than 2 per cent ask for their money back. Remember that if Mi-o-na does not cure you, your money is cheerfully returned.

It pays to advertise articles of merit in the News Review. Mi-o-na has been advertised but little, yet Druggist Will Reed reports it the best selling medicine he handles. This shows the advantage of the News Review's advertising when one has an article of superior merit to sell on the "No Cure No Pay" plan, the way Mi-o-na is sold.

STRONG RESOLUTION WAS PASSED

By Sons of Veterans for Purpose of Bringing About a More Strict Observance of Memorial Day.

At the last meeting of the local camp Sons of Veterans, a strong and very significant resolution was passed. The organization has been endeavoring for several years to bring about a more strict observance of the day set apart for the decoration of the soldiers' graves. The resolution reads as follows:

Resolved, That we, the members of Gen. Garfield camp, No. 3, S. of V., think it proper and desire to place ourselves on record as being against anything not in accord with the proper observance of Memorial day. We call upon all patriotic citizens to refrain from pleasure seeking, ball games, picnics and all other sports. Let us give the old soldier at least one day in the year, for all that they have done for us and our country.

SUMMER THEATRE

Contracts Let for Plumbing, Scenery, and Other Work.

The contract for the plumbing work at the summer theatre at Rock Springs has been secured by D. J. Hyams, and work upon its early completion has already been started. The house was opened this afternoon, but it is far from being in a completed state. An additional force of carpenters were put to work early in the week, but the best they could do by working overtime did not result in the task being finished in the time the management had hoped.

The artist who is preparing the scenery has not progressed as rapidly as had been expected, and though there are plenty of drops and other scenery finished to permit the play house to be opened, the task promises to be long drawn out. Stage Manager Joe Bradley, who was engaged several weeks ago, is mounting the scenery as fast as the artists turn it out, and this with other duties demanding his attention, has kept him very busy lately.

EARTHQUAKE KILLS THOUSANDS

Details of Calamity of April 29 Received from British Consul at Erzroom.

Constantinople, May 29.—Two thousand persons were killed by the recent earthquake in the town of Malazherd.

London, May 29.—The foreign office received some details from the British consul at Erzroom regarding the recent earthquake at Malazherd, according to which a strong earthquake, lasting 30 seconds, was felt in the morning of April 29 throughout the entire district between Lake Van and the Russian frontier and as far west as Kharput. The town of Malazherd, consisting of 500 houses, was destroyed and much havoc was wrought in the surrounding villages Colonel Khalil Bey, commanding the garrison at Malazherd, with his whole family; three other officers and 80 soldiers perished in the ruins. Lieutenant Colonel Tayib-Bey, whose family perished, became insane. The telegraph operator who sent the news of the catastrophe said he himself was badly injured and that his wife and sister had been killed.

The foreign office has appealed for subscriptions for the relief of the destitute Mohammedans and Christians of the Malazhard district.

ALMOST 100 YEARS OLD IS MRS. REBECCA SHARP

A Resident of Columbiana County Who Vividly Recalls Pioneer Days.

Mrs. Nancy Roseberg Sharp is 98 years old and has lived in Columbiana county nearly all her life. She now resides with her son, Robert B. Sharp, near Clark's Mill in Washington township, on a farm where she has lived for the last 63 years. Mrs Sharp remembers all the incidents in the early history of the county and can name many men prominent in its affairs. She is still in possession of a bright and active mind, an accurate memory and delights in recounting the incidents connected with her childhood days. She expresses keen interest in the Lisbon centennial celebration and owing to her physical infirmities will be unable to attend.

Nancy Roseberg Sharp was born in December, 1805, in Pittsburg. With her parents, Thomas and Margaret Roseburg, she descended the Ohio river to Wellsville when she was but seven weeks old. They came to West Point and later located on a farm in Wayne township which is still owned by a member of the family, George Roseberg, of Idaville, Ind. Mrs. Sharp's parents moved to this homestead in the spring of 1806, and this is where she spent her girlhood. In 1833 she was married to Dr. John Sharp and moved to Minerva. After a short residence there they moved to Clark's Mill which was then being built, and where she has since lived. Mrs. Sharp has been a life-long member of the United Presbyterian church.

Bulgarians Worsted.

Salonica, European Turkey, May 29.—In an encounter between Turks and Bulgarians, May 26, in the forest near Smerdesh, south of Lake Presba, 17 Bulgarians and 3 Turks were killed. At Ploshka the Bulgarians destroyed a Turkish tower with dynamite, after which a detachment of Turkish troops arrived on the scene and routed the insurgents, killing four of them.

Emperor Introduces New Exercises.

Berlin, May 29.—Emperor William assembled all the commanding generals of Germany at the annual review on the Doeberitz drill ground, near Potsdam, to initiate them into new exercises, which are kept a profound secret from the public. No civilians were permitted to be present. A grand concert preceding the military spectacle contained only pieces by royal composers.

McGovern and Attell Matched.

Buffalo, May 29.—Terry McGovern and Abe Attell have been matched to fight 20 rounds at Fort Erie, June 15.

To Settle the Question.

He was engaged to be married, and every one knows how the engaged man talks when he gets a friend cornered.

"She is the loveliest and best girl that ever lived," he asserted.

"Sure?" inquired the friend.

"Sure! Of course I'm sure. You don't doubt it, do you?"

"Certainly not," replied the friend hastily, "only"—

"Only what?"

"Oh, I suppose it's all right, but I'd like to introduce you to Dobley."

"Who's Dobley?"

"Oh, another friend of mine who told me yesterday that he was engaged to the loveliest and best girl that ever lived, and I'd like to have you two get together and settle the matter."—Chicago Post.

HOW TO SAVE MONEY

Take Advantage of Half Price Offer Made by B. C. Ansley.

In these times when living expenses have increased from thirty to fifty per cent, it is unusual to hear of a standard remedy being offered at half price.

Yet that is the way B. C. Ansley, the popular druggist, is selling Dr. Howard's celebrated specific for the cure of dyspepsia and constipation. In addition to selling a 50c bottle, containing a month's treatment of 60 doses, for 25c, he gives his personal guarantee with every bottle he sells to refund the money if it does not give satisfaction.

Doctor's bills can be saved by the use of Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of dyspepsia and constipation, and by taking advantage of this special half price introductory offer, our readers can save half the regular price of the specific.

This remarkable remedy is destined to have the largest sale of any medicine upon the market, for those who use it once, not only buy a second package, but they recommend it to their friends as the only relief they have found for constipation and dyspepsia. The sole limit to its sale is the fact that in only chronic cases is more than one bottle needed to cure, and its cures are permanent.

Do not let this opportunity pass to obtain a standard 50c remedy at half price. Remember that Druggist B. C. Ansley will refund your money if Dr. Howard's specific does not cure.

MONEY WASTED

By the Present System of Useless Work on the Country Roads.

The county commissioners are going to expend about $2,000 county funds toward paving about two miles of what is known as the Calcutta road. This will be the first country road to be paved in the county and the experiment will be watched with interest. There ought to be more roads permanently improved every year than there are.

Half the time and work on the roads now is time and work wasted and the sooner the farmers change the present system of useless scraping and put in their time and money in permanently fixing the bad places the better it will be for them in every sense of the word.—Columbiana Ledger.

Whitsuntide Feast.

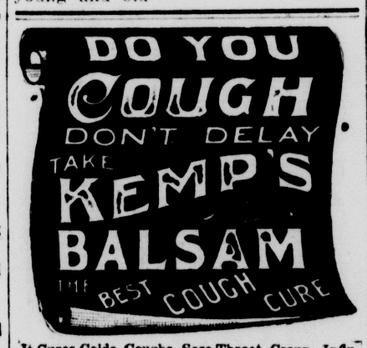
Sunday, May 31, is an important feast of the Catholic and Episcopal churches. It commemorates the descent of the Holy Ghost upon the Apostles, as recorded in the Acts of the Apostles. It is known as Pentecost, or more commonly, Whitsunday. In the Episcopal church the faithful are commanded to receive Holy Communion three times a year, namely, Christmas, Easter and Whitsunday. In England the Whitsuntide is given over to holiday pastimes and is a season eagerly looked forward to by young and old



It Cures Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Croup, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. # Letters from Women

Cured by the use of Kodol are received daily. Their troubles nearly all begin with indigestion or other stomach disorder.

If the food you eat fails to give strength to your body, it is because the juices secreted by the stomach and digestive organs are inadequate to transform the nutrient properties of the food into blood. That is indigestion. The system is deprived of the amount of nourishment required to keep up the strength, and the result is that one or more of the delicate organs gradually grows weak, and then weaker, until finally it is diseased. Here a great mistake is made. That of treating the diseased organ. The best doctors in the land make this very mistake. Why should they? It is so easy to see that the trouble is not there.

Kodol Cures

This famous remedy puts the stomach and digestive organs in a healthy condition so that rich, red blood is sent coursing through the veins and arteries of every muscle, tissue and fiber throughout every organ of the entire body, and by Nature's law of health, full strength and vigor is soon restored to each.

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders.

I have taken Kodol for nearly two months after each meal and it is the only remedy that gave relief from the terrible pains I endured. After a time I would take it but once a day, and now, while I keep a bottle handy, I seldom need it, as it has cured me. MRS. J. W. COOLBAUGH, Milo Center, N. Y.

A Memorial Day Story

By ROBERT C. V. MEYERS

Copyright, 1898, by R. C. V. Meyers

TOMORROW would be Memorial day, and Mrs. Grand was not entirely pleased as she made her way into the station crowded with people to meet her expected visitor. She wondered if Carolina Hemperley were as gray as herself. She scarcely expected her to be as stout, the Hemperleys being the thin side of the family and Carolina having been decidedly lank thirty years ago. Thirty years ago! That was an age. In those thirty years she herself had gone through a lifetime—a wife, a mother, a widow whose only child had married a foreigner and now wished her mother to take up her residence with her in Paris. In those thirty years Cal had stood still—an unmarried woman, living in a secluded southern village and upon the pitiful income that had been hers after the war had taken her former possessions from her. It was just like her to live near the place where all her misery had been seen, her father shot down in battle, his property confiscated, her friends scattered and—

Here the ten minutes were exhausted, and Mrs. Grand became impatient. She was not used to waiting for any one. A servant might have come in her place, but how could she have described "Calline" to a servant? Besides, Cal had written that she would come if her cousin would be at the train to receive her. The letter detailing as much had seemed very humorous to Mrs. Grand and forced her to enter into the spirit of the thing.

"But I doubt if there is much humor in it, after all," she thought as she restlessly trod the platform. "It all comes of finding that trunk of hers now that the house is being inventoried. Another of her lapses to leave that trunk with me for thirty odd years. Why couldn't she have stayed with me that time she brought it? But, no; she must go back and see if the poor liberated slaves had any place to go to. As though she had homes to offer them! And why couldn't I have sent the trunk to her instead of writing her that I had found it? Of course then she thought of old times and must see me for the last time, as though I went to Paris to occupy a slab in the morgue, and— Here it is at last!"

For the train puffed into the shed. The people poured out. There was not a woman she recognized.

"Madam!"

For a lady had stopped in front of her, a pretty woman, with great eyes and much brown hair rolled back from a low white forehead, a woman with a girlish figure and jauntily carrying a tiny umbrella with a bunch of violets tied to its handle.

"Therese!" she said, her eyes suffused.

"This is never you, Cal!" almost gasped Mrs. Grand. "Why, you are almost young!"

But her cousin had thrown her arms around her and was aiming kisses at her. "I knew you at once, Therese," she gurgled. "Therese, duchess of York, don't you remember, we used to call you? How handsome you are! Duchess! You look like an empress now."

Mrs. Grand had grown to regard herself as a decidedly middle aged woman despite the exigencies of her toilet and her maid, but this flattering comment from another woman whom she had not seen for over three decades was not displeasing.

"Come," she said, pressing Miss Hemperley's hand. "The horses will be wild standing so long."

"You are just the same as ever," returned the other, with a soft little burr in her voice. "And, oh, I am so glad we go in the ferry, for I do so want to see the statue of Liberty. I read so much about it in the papers some years ch—d." And she went on disseminating d— formation learned from the newspa— T— regarding New York city, breathlessly skipping from architecture to politics, harking away to crime and incidentally touching upon the fashions.

Mrs. Grand considerately engaged her in conversation on topics calculated to be of general interest and sincerely hoped that the magnificence of her house would not awe her visitor, the details of whose get up she had had time to note and found very sketchy. She wondered if she might not offer Cal a new gown or two without giving offense. Later on, when she saw Carolina come down to dinner in a much worn black silk with magnificent old lace at the throat and wrists, she concluded to say nothing about raiment, especially as Carolina took the appointments of the establishment as a matter of course and passed over the majestic butler as she would have passed over one of the dusky servitors in her father's old home, though Carolina admired her hostess vastly as that lady, with bare neck and strewn with jewels, faced her at table.

"All you want is a crown, Therese," she remarked. "Though I read in the paper that crowns are very common in New York, all the women wear them, even at the horse show. And your house is very sweet. And to think it is all to be let to strangers! I understand how you feel."

Mrs. Grand turned the subject, bringing before her mind's eye Carolina's old pillared home, its thousand acres and its hundreds of cabins, where of nights you could hear the strumming of banjos, the squeaks of fiddles and the rich voices of the slave population.

"You see, Cal," she said, "there is a little reception tonight, some Union and Confederate officers, the blue and the gray together. I shall be gone only an hour or so. You won't mind, will you? I thought maybe you would take the time to look over your old trunk."

Carolina crunched a salted almond between her even teeth.

"Yes, indeed," she returned, "for I don't mean to take all that old trash with me. I really don't know what is in that trunk, I was so confused when I packed it. Our house was burning down when I packed it, and the bullets were singing round me. I packed it out in a cotton field. I could see very well, the flames were so bright."

There was not a tremor in her voice. She seemed perfectly callous to the recollection. Mrs. Grand felt that it was almost silly.

"What sleeves those old frocks must have in them!" Miss Hemperley went on, helping herself to glaces. "Go, dear; go to your reception.' You'll be the finest woman there. Just have the trunk brought to my room, and I'll look it over. First you must show me the marquise's picture. You know I never saw her. Oh, there is so much for you to show me and tell me, for you know I am going back day after tomorrow! It was so sweet of you to ask me to come. I'll always love that old trunk for it. And, oh, Therese, you'll be late for the reception! It is 9 o'clock."

"I shall not go till 11," Mrs. Grand told her and took her to the drawing room and showed her the portrait of her daughter, the marquise.

Miss Hemperley looked at it long and silently.

"She resembles her father." Then she said softly, "She has his eyes."

"Yes," responded Mrs. Grand. "Here is Tom's picture."

She indicated a portrait on the opposite wall, the portrait of a young man in all the glory of epaulets, a sword in his hand. Her cousin slowly turned her eyes toward it. Mrs. Grand, looking at her, thought she grew suddenly old.

"Does it bring back your young days, Cal?" she smiled. "We were all such good friends in spite of differences of opinion as to the war. This was painted in 1865, just after our marriage. And I have been a widow twenty years!"

Miss Hemperley turned from Captain Grand's portrait. "And you'll write to me from Paris," she said hastily, "and tell me all about your fine goings on? What a lovely sheer stuff that is in your robe, and what pretty lace!"

"The lace is not so fine as that of yours," Mrs. Grand returned.

"Oh, this was ma's," Miss Hemperley replied clinchingly. "I've always kept my lace. There was more of it." She stopped abruptly. "Upon my word, Therese," she said, "I shouldn't be surprised if it is on one of those frocks in the old trunk. I never thought of that till this minute. Let us go and see."

Mrs. Grand let her have her way, and in a little while they were beside the trunk in Miss Hemperley's room.

"Really, Therese," Carolina said, "no one would think I am meeting you for the first time in over thirty years. Here I am acting as though I had seen you only yesterday. It was the same when I got your letter. I was wild to come to you. I seemed afraid of being alone any longer."

"I like it this way," Mrs. Grand returned quizzically. "It shows how little you have altered. And I can't help looking at you, Cal. You are positively youthful looking. I had thought you would be gray like me, for you are only a few months younger."

"Five," nodded Miss Hemperley.

"Really, if living alone has done it," her cousin said, "one might almost wish not to have married. Besides, there were your stormy experiences. One would say that they should have aged you. Maybe you have thought a great deal of young days, and that has done it."

"Maybe," laconically returned Carolina.

"But the trouble you had!" persisted Mrs. Grand, herself now lost to present surroundings. "And all the time I was north with papa enjoying the ease of the winning side. Don't you remember how I wanted you to side with the north? Some of your property might have been saved that way."

Miss Hemperley's face was quite pink as she said quietly, "I suppose Captain Grand had something to do with your siding with the north."

"Papa's interests were in the north,' corrected Mrs. Grand.

"But you were in love with Captain Grand," smiled her cousin, twisting her rings round her fingers.

"It was not my fault that he took the side papa was on," said Mrs. Grand. "You know how it was at that time. Brother was against brother. Yes, your father and my father and Captain Grand and Colonel Trask were friends at West Point, and yet they took opposite sides in the war."

"Now for the trunk," inconsequentially said Miss Hemperley and tugged at a strap.

"By the way, Cal," Mrs. Grand went on, "I've met Colonel Trask several times lately. He came from Europe last month after he gave up the consulship and is in New York. We have spoken of you. He brought up the old times very vividly."

"Yes?" Carolina said. She was on her knees in front of the trunk. She had brought the key with her and was busy with it. "How rusty this lock is! So!" She had the lid open and disclosed the contents of the box, all neatly folded and laid carefully, as though a more peaceful light than that made by her burning home had served her in their arrangement.

She picked up a garment.

"Oh, Therese," she said, "look at these sleeves and this waist! How we must have laced in those days! I wonder if I could get it on now. I've a mind to try."

In great good humor she donned the gown and ran to the glass to note the effect. Peal after peal of laughter came from her lips as she regarded her reflection. "And the pocket!" she said. "Think of pockets in these days!" She slipped her hand into the aperture at the side of the skirt.

"Did we used to carry things in our pockets?" Mrs. Grand asked. Her cousin looked at her with eyes that had become glassy.

"Why, Cal!" cried Mrs. Grand.

Miss Hemperley took off the gown.

"I did not remember," she said. "This is the dress I wore that night."

"That night?"

"The night Captain Grand escaped."

Mrs. Grand smiled.

"Oh, Calline!" she said, using an old loving paraphrase of Carolina's name. "You surely do not recollect the frock you wore!"

"It was this," Carolina insisted. She laid the gown in the trunk again.

"Aren't you going through the things?" Mrs. Grand asked. "Your lace may be there."

"I'll wait till you've gone to your party," was the answer. "It will give me something to do."

At this Mrs. Grand seemed to think that she was an inattentive hostess.

"I wish you would go with me," she said.

"Me!" laughed Carolina. "I look like it, don't I? Why, I haven't a white mull dress to my name!"

"Mull!" Mrs. Grand was repeating as she marched before her to the drawing room. "The next thing she will be talking about artificial roses in her hair."

Already her cousin pulled upon her. But in the drawing room Miss Hemperley's eyes were fastened on the portrait of Captain Grand. "He was a brave man," she said. Mrs. Grand called herself to account.

"I wonder," she said, "if you ever heard that incident after the Second Bull Run. His shattered arm rudely bound up, he met the general. 'Where is your company?' asked the general. My husband pointed to himself and a solitary private. 'Here,' he said. They say the tears were rolling down his face, for all the rest of his company had fallen."

Carolina's hands tightly grasped the back of a chair. Her eyes were glistening.

"You can say it like that?" she demanded.

Mrs. Grand smiled. "It is ancient history now, Cal," she said. "It was brought up quite vividly the other night by Colonel Trask. He said that it was through his own misadventure—Colonel Trask's, you know—that Tom could even say that; that if order No. 160 had not been lost the night he stopped at your father's Tom would never have said that."

"No, for he would have murdered Captain Grand," Carolina said quickly.

"They scarcely call it that in war," laughed Mrs. Grand. "The colonel had the order giving directions for the movement of the brigades the following day, and he was hurrying from headquarters to his general with it when he lost it at or near your father's house, where he was to be quartered for the night. He wrote all about it to Tom years afterward. At any rate, Tom was saved by the colonel's carelessness, though the colonel nearly lost his shoulder straps in consequence, for if Colonel Trask had 'met up with' Tom, as you would say, in obedience to that order, I should not be having to get ready to live in Paris just now." She moved to the doorway. "Now, Marker." Her maid entered with a voluminous satin wrap, which she placed upon the shoulders of her mistress. "You are sure, Cal, that you can amuse yourself? Marker, please attend to Miss Hemperley."

But Miss Hemperley rather curtly dismissed the maid and went toward a cabinet crowded with bibelots, not even responding to her hostess, who threw her a parting word over her shoulder. She occupied herself for some little time. Then she found herself in a chair contemplating Captain Grand's portrait. All at once a sob seemed to choke her. She stifled it and went to her own room, to the old trunk there. She lifted the gown she had so recently slipped on in mocking jest and held it for a moment up to her heart. Then she sat down heavily and, reaching her hand, touched a little ivory disk, and all the lights went out.

When Mrs. Grand returned home she passed by her cousin's room, the door of which was open on a crack. She looked in. All was dark.

"Is that you, Therese?" asked a low voice.

With an exclamation Mrs. Grand entered the room.

"Can't you sleep in a strange room, Cal?" she said. She touched the disk in the wall, and the chamber was brilliantly illuminated. There sat Carolina beside the open trunk, the old gown lying over her knees.

"You don't mean to say you have sat here in the dark?" cried her cousin.

THERE SAT CAROLINA BESIDE THE OPEN TRUNK.

"I have been thinking," was the answer. "Is it late?"

"It is past 2 o'clock," Mrs. Grand told her. "I don't understand. I—I should have forced you to go with me. It was wrong to leave you here to conjure up the old times. I wish you had gone. Colonel Trask was there. I told him you had come. He may call tomorrow morning."

Miss Hemperley folded the old gown and laid it in the trunk. "It is unfortunate, Therese," she said, "but tomorrow will be the only day I shall have you to myself. I—you must take me somewhere where we shall be quite alone. There is so much to talk about. I did not come to see visitors, Therese, take me somewhere—anywhere." She had clutched her cousin's arm, while there was so much energy in her that Mrs. Grand was astonished.

"Why, of course," she said. "You shall go wherever you please."

Carolina dropped her arm and gave an apologetic cough.

"I don't care for visitors," she said, "and really I do not wish to see a lot of strangers. Why should I?"

"An old friend!" retorted Mrs. Grand.

"That's it!" cried Miss Hemperley. "He remembers me as a young girl. He will see me quite an old woman. His wife"—

"He is not married," interrupted Mrs. Grand.

Miss Hemperley shrugged her shoulders.

"Therese," she said, "let us go somewhere tomorrow where we can talk for hours uninterruptedly. There will be great crowds in the city, and we want to go somewhere in the country. Where shall we go? We might as well settle it now. Can't we go up the Hudson? I've read that the trips are lovely—the American Rhine, you know. You pass by West Point, where Tom used to be, and there's Stony Point, where Arnold and Andre met to betray Washington." She laughed. "Surely I ought to see such points of historical interest. Let us go."

There was nothing to do but to let her have her way, though Mrs. Grand was not a woman to rush to a crowded boat at 9 o'clock in the morning and cast her fortunes with picnickers out for the day.

"I might have known," she told herself in the privacy of her own room, "that this visit would not do. She is positively silly. The vanity of the woman refusing to meet an old acquaintance for fear he should see the change time had made in her! It is on a par with the white mull. It was certainly foolish to write to her."

At 8 o'clock in the morning Carolina was in her room waking her.

"We'll be sure to be late, Therese!" she said.

Mrs. Grand groaned. Nor was she better pleased that her cousin stood by while Marker helped her mistress make her toilet.

"Carolina," she said at one point, "I am not used to being seen in the forenoon. Look at the lines—how, they show in this raw light. Nobody would believe that that is your own complexion."

"I've always used buttermilk," Miss Hemperley replied. "Ma used it before me. However, I never think of my skin. The truth is, Therese, I never think of time. I seem to be the same as I always have been."

"Nonsense!" dissented Mrs. Grand. "You live on memories. That's the worst of being unmarried. Why did you never marry?"

Her cousin's youthful laugh broke out. "I don't believe I ever thought of it," she answered.

"Nonsense!" Mrs. Grand said, as before. "Every woman thinks of marriage at one time in her life. Now that you have finished pulling my hair, Marker, I will have my coffee."

"No breakfast?" cried Carolina. "No wonder you're not in good humor! I've had a chop, some griddlecakes, some marmalade and two peaches."

"I never breakfast till noon," Mrs. Grand replied coldly.

Carolina laughed.

"Do we take sandwiches?" she asked.

"Do we take what?" demanded Mrs. Grand, her spoon in the air.

"Oh, excuse me!" Miss Hemperley said deprecatingly. "I suppose we get lunch on the boat. I've read that we can do that."

Mrs. Grand laid down her spoon in consternation.

"Marker," she said, "what do we do?"

Marker informed her that lunch might be had on the boat.

"Pshaw, Therese!" Miss Hemperley laughed again. "We can take a sandwich with us and make no more fuss about it."

Mrs. Grand was not used to such words, and she wondered if she and her cousin should not quarrel before the day was over.

"We shall wait till we return home," she said, "for luncheon."

"If you please," ventured Marker, "the boat won't get back until this evening."

"We shall wait till we return home," Mrs. Grand repeated, "for luncheon."

"We'll do nothing of the sort," Miss Hemperley spoke up. "I am not going on the water with a fainting woman." And she left the room.

Mrs. Grand was more than annoyed—quite fuming. But in five minutes her cousin was back, bearing a plate on which there were a smoking chop and a square of toast.

"You'll eat every scrap of this," she announced.

The humorous side of the situation appealed to Mrs. Grand, and she took the plate.

"I believe I always did obey you, Cal," she said. "I remember years ago how I obeyed you when you sent me north to be out of harm's way and"—

"Mercy! I've stuck myself!" Carolina cried. She was pinning in her corsage a fresh bunch of violets which she had got somewhere. "Now, hurry," she said. "The boat will not wait. Put a thick veil on if you are afraid of your lines."

Mrs. Grand stiffened a trifle.

"Really, Cal"— she began.

"Come, come," interrupted Carolina. "Come!"

They reached the boat, whose fluttering flags waved over a mass of struggling humanity.

"I will not go," decided Mrs. Grand. But her cousin seized her arm. In a whirl she felt herself borne along, jostled, pushed, crowded, and then she found herself on the lower deck of an immense craft seated on a carpet camp stool, Carolina straightening her bonnet for her and consoling her.

"I knew you'd enjoy it, Therese," Carolina said.

Mrs. Grand looked into her eyes.

"Cal," she said, "you are tremendous. I feel positively young again." She certainly had entered into the spirit of the thing and gave momentary expressions of her satisfaction.

Though, strange to say, Miss Hemperley had become grave, her vivacity appeared to evaporate, yet there was a look of relief on her face.

"And now we're off!" gayly cried Mrs. Grand. But Carolina's eyes were fastened on the placid waters of the Hudson.

Her cousin, with a sparkle in her eye, regarded her. She knew that Carolina paid no attention to her surroundings or to the points of interest on the twin shores of the river.

A party of men and women close at hand raised their voices in an old war song. Even this did not distract Miss Hemperley.

"Cal," Mrs. Grand said after awhile, "if we had stayed at home we should have had a call from an old acquaintance. You are not enjoying this at all."

Carolina looked up.

"It is beautiful," she said. "What"—

"Now," interrupted her cousin, "don't ask me what building that is. You know you don't care. I repeat, if we had not come here we might have received Colonel Trask."

"Yes," she said; "that is why I wanted to get away."

"You used to see a great deal of him," pursued her cousin.

"Yes," laconically replied Carolina.

"The wonder is," persisted Mrs. Grand, "that you did not get to be fond of him."

For a moment Carolina's lips tightened. Then she edged a little closer to her companion.

"Therese," she said, "I want to tell you something. This boat will take us near to the place, won't it, where Benedict Arnold met Major Andre? I am as great a traitor as Arnold ever was."

"In paying a visit to me," asked Mrs. Grand, "who did not agree with you during the great 'unpleasantness?'"

"Don't laugh at me," pleaded Carolina. "Please don't."

"I never was more serious in my life," asseverated Mrs. Grand, "though I was a blue and you were a gray."

"You know you are laughing at me," insisted her cousin, "and you will laugh more when you hear the rest. It is about Colonel Trask."

Mrs. Grand opened her eyes.

"Go on," she said dryly. "Go on."

"I was false to the cause," went on Carolina—"the lost cause."

"But Colonel Trask?" asked Mrs. Grand.

"I betrayed him!" Carolina said.

"You did what?" cried her cousin.

Miss Hemperley's head went down.

"It is very foolish for a woman of my age to make such a confession," she said, "but he was fond of me—he told me so—and I separated myself from any kind feeling he might have had for me."

She put her hand into the front of her gown and took out a crumpled paper. "Look at this!"

Mrs. Grand took the paper from her, lost in wonder.

"Well?" she said.

"I found it last night in the pocket of that old frock in the trunk," Miss Hemperley answered. "I wore that frock the night Colonel Trask stopped at pa's. Now do you understand?"

"Certainly not," Mrs. Grand answered.

In a sort of agony her cousin went on: "It is order No. 160. It is the order which if carried out would have annihilated your husband and his company."

Mrs. Grand caught her arm.

"Colonel Trask gave you this paper because he loved you," she said, "and because he knew that you loved me?"

"I stole it," Carolina answered drearily. "I crept into his room late at night and stole it."

"You did this for me," tremulously said Mrs. Grand. "You saved Tom because you knew I loved him."

Carolina pulled her arm free.

"No," she said. "I stole it because the execution of it would have made John Trask the murderer of his friend. Now do you understand?"

Mrs. Grand gasped.

"You loved John Trask?" she said.

"I betrayed him!" Miss Hemperley returned. "I brought the censure of his general upon him. But he was not a murderer. He did not kill his friend. It is all so long ago, Therese, but last night when I went to look for that lace, when you spoke of Colonel Trask"— Her voice trailed into silence.

"You loved the man?" demanded Mrs. Grand, quite trembling with excitement. "Tell me, Calline, dear."

"You have no right to ask me that," Carolina answered. "Give me that paper. I will tear it up and scatter it on the water that brought Arnold and Andre together."

Mrs. Grand was greatly agitated. "Why, child," she said, as though she spoke to a very young woman indeed, "you threw away your life's happiness."

"Would I have been happy if Tom Grand had been killed by John Trask?" Carolina asked. "But I might as well tell you all. I read in the newspaper that Colonel Trask was in New York. Just then I got your letter. I thought I might get a glimpse of him, just for memory's sake, so I accepted your invitation. But when I found that army order all the old wretchedness came over me, and I knew that I could not meet him."

"And," cried Mrs. Grand, "he is on this boat! I saw him coming aboard soon after we got on."

Carolina rose to her feet, her face stormy. "How dared you!" she said. "You have done a miserable thing. You forget that I am a lady."

She turned away from her cousin and found herself face to face with a white haired man. How much he had heard she dared not think. "Will you let me pass?" she said.

He held out his hand, his eyes bright as stars.

"Calline!" he said, using the old loving paraphrase of her name.

She fell back.

"I caught a glimpse of you and Mrs. Grand hurrying toward this boat," he went on, "and I followed you. I knew you at once. You have changed very little." He came closer to her. "As though I did not know who took that order! Only at the time I thought it was done for the sake of your cousin and Tom. Never till this day did I know it was because"— He stopped, then went on hastily, "The night that order was stolen I had stopped at your father's house to ask you to be my wife." His hand was still out. "You wore the blue that night. You saved my friend from me, the gray. This Memorial day is for blue and gray alike, a union and a reunion for— Calline, Calline!"

The violets at her waist quivered. Her eyes were filled with tears.

"John!" she murmured. "John!" and placed her hand in his.

CONFESSION OF FAITH

Of Presbyterian Church Adopted by General Assembly as Revised.

ALL WHO DIE IN INFANCY SAVED

Color Question of the Church Settled. Committee on Marriage and Divorce Reports—Largest Attendance at Assembly Since Opening.

Los Angeles, May 29.—The Presbyterian church of the United States in general assembly finally disposed of the question of revision of creed, which has been before the last three general assemblies, and which has agitated Presbyterian circles for the past 15 years. The assembly by unanimous vote adopted the revision of the confession of faith as prepared by the committee appointed by the general assembly in 1901. Beside clearing the calendar of this important question, the assembly disposed of the "Tennessee overture" in regard to "separate presbyteries in the same territory," which was commonly known as the "color question" of the Presbyterian church, also the report of the special committee on divorce and remarriage. Several minor reports also were heard during the day.

The fact that creed revision was to come up attracted the largest crowd since the opening. After disposing of some business of minor importance Moderator Coyle announced that Rev. Henry Van Dyke, of Princeton, N. J., chairman of the committee on bills and overtures would submit the report of the committee on revision. Before reading the report Dr. Van Dyke stated that two protests one from the presbytery of Lehigh and the other from the St. Cloud presbytery, tending to obstruct action on the revision question, had been before the committee, and it was recommended that they be thrown out. The assembly so ordered.

Overtures Adopted.

Dr. Van Dyke then proceeded with the report of the revision committee He read the detailed vote on each one of the 11 overtures, which showed that no one overture had received more than 10 negative votes. The overtures were voted upon seriatim and adopted.

By the adoption of 11 overtures, important additions, amplifications and amendments are made to the articles of the confession of faith. Of these, one of the most vital is the erection into the church doctrine of the belief that all who die in infancy are saved.

For section 6, chapter xxv, of the confession of faith, the following is substituted:

"The Lord Jesus Christ is the only head of the church, and the claim of any man to be the vicar of Christ and the head of the church is unscriptural, without warrant in fact, and is an usurpation dishonoring to the Lord Jesus Christ."

Three additional chapters are added to the confession concerning the "Love of God for all men, missions and the Holy Spirit."

Church Has Not Changed Her Base.

At the conclusion of the reading of the report Dr. Van Dyke spoke briefly upon the changes incorporated therein. He said he wished to make it clear to the assembly, and especially did he wish to say to the brethren of the press, "that this revision does not mean that the Presbyterian church has changed her base one inch, but it does mean that she has broadened and strengthened her foundations. Her divine sovereignty shall never be interpreted so as to mean fatalism."

Family cares and duties do not weigh down the well woman, and the children are never in her way. But when the womanly health fails, and there is a constant struggle with weakness and pain, household duties are a burden almost past bearing, and children are a ceaseless annoyance and worry.

Weak women are made strong and sick women are made well by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries disagreeable drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"I had been ailing some time, troubled with female weakness," writes Mrs. Wm. H. Johnson, of Avondale, Chester Co., Pa. "Every month I would have to lie on my back. I tried many different medicines and nothing gave me relief until I began Dr. Pierce's medicines, using two bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and two of 'Golden Medical Discovery.' These medicines have cured me. When I began your treatment I was not able to do very much, but now I do the work for my family of nine, and feel better to-day than I have for a year. I thank you, doctor, from the bottom of my heart, for well do I know that you are the one who cured me."

"Favorite Prescription" has the testimony of thousands of women to its complete cure of womanly diseases. Do not accept an unknown and unproved substitute in its place.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the best laxative for family use.

SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl Street, New York.

At the afternoon session the "colored question" was disposed of promptly and without a flurry. Dr. Putnam, from the committee on bills and overtures, reported a simple recommendation that overtures on "separate presbyteries for colored ministers," which had come up from Tennessee and other southern states, be referred to a committee of five, this committee to report to the next general assembly. Dr. Roberts moved an amendment to this resolution, giving the colored element in the church representation on this committee and increasing the membership to seven. The amendment was accepted and the resolution adopted.

The report of the special committee on divorce and remarriage was then taken up, Dr. Charles A. Dickey, chairman, speaking in support of its recommendations.

There was no discussion of the report, as this had been forestalled by the passage of the resolution enjoining Presbyterian ministers from performing the marriage ceremony in cases of divorced persons at last Monday's session. The report was unanimously adopted.

After hearing the report of the committee on correspondence the assembly adjourned.

SITUATION IN JACKSON SERIOUS

Believed an Attempt was Made to Rescue Prisoners—One Lone Cow Was Killed by Militia.

Jackson, Ky., May 29.—The frustration of what the troops believe was a plot to rescue or kill Curtis Jett and Tom White Wednesday night increased the tension in Jackson. How many men were involved beside the one fired on and who returned the sentry's fire, and what relation the incident had to the placing of a searchlight on the jail grounds from a nearby mountain side earlier in the night are questions in which actual interest is felt.

The attempt to remove the special bailiff, B. J. Little, is a matter of much interest. The grounds offered are that his brother married Mrs. E. Marcum's sister and that relationship might influence him in the discharge of the duties of a sheriff.

Major Allen, who, in the absence of Colonel Williams in Lexington, is in command of the troops, gave out the following statement concerning Wednesday night's affair:

"Just as the storm broke the sentry at the south side of the jail observed a man approaching from the Jackson Deposit bank. He gave two commands to halt, which were unheeded, and then gave warning that he would fire unless the man halted. His words were answered by one or two shots. The darkness was intense and objects could only be seen by lightning flashes. The sentry and two other guards returned the fire. The marks indicate how the shots took effect. A minute later the sentry at the north side of the jail observed a moving object, which he thought was a man or a horse coming toward him. He commanded a halt three times before he fired. The object, a cow, was instantly killed."

The glass front of the bank was penetrated and an unlighted lamp on the counter was perforated. It is believed that the prowler was sheltered by the stone fence around the court house.

MAY PROVE A DOUBLE SUICIDE

Young Girl Takes Carbolic Acid and Leaves Note Where Lover's Dead Body Would Be Found.

Scranton, Pa., May 29.—Miss Mary McAndrew, a 17-year-old North Scranton girl, went home from the Klotz silk mill complaining of being ill, and while her mother was out to secure a physician she took a fatal dose of carbolic acid. In her bosom was found the following note:

"Goodbye. Forgive me, mother, if I did wrong, as I wish to be forgiven in heaven. Do not accuse John Cavanaugh. He is guilty of no crime. By this time he is on has way to Boston's, where you will find his dead body in the rear of Boston's."

Cavanaugh is a young man of about the same age as Miss McAndrew and kept company with her. They wanted to be married, but her parents objected on account of their age.

Wednesday afternoon the two went to the theater and neither returned home. Miss McAndrew told her mother that she stopped with a girl friend in another part of the city. Nothing has been seen of Cavanaugh. "Boston's" is a farm on the edge of the city. Diligent but fruitless search has been made for the body.

SPOKE ON IRRIGATION

President Talks on Utilization of Water of Rocky Mountain States.

LITTLE CHILDREN CHEER HIM

And Wave Forest of Flags—Plants Tree in State House Grounds—Two Hours Spent in City—Party Leaves for Salt Lake.

Boise, Idaho, May 29.—President Roosevelt's train reached Boise in the afternoon and left two hours later for Salt Lake City. President Roosevelt and his party marched through a lane of children as they approached the grand stand erected in the capitol grounds. Two thousand little ones cheered him and waved a forest of flags. This feature of the reception was highly pleasing to the visitors.

The city was thronged with people to see the president, and when the latter took his place on the grand stand many thousands were packed in the streets. He was introduced by Governor Morrison and spoke for 40 minutes.

After his address the president spoke a few words to the Grand Army post drawn up in the rear of the stand and also to the Spanish war veterans. A tree was then planted in the state house grounds near the one planted by President Harrison in 1891.

The president and his party were then taken for a drive about the city.

In his address the president opened with a tribute to the city and its people. He spoke principally on irrigation, good citizenship and strengthening the navy.

Big Proprietors Not Wanted.

"The forests and the grasses," said the president, "are not to be treated as we properly treat mining; that is, as material to be used up and nothing left behind. We do not want the big proprietor. It is not for him that we wish to develop irrigation. It is not for him that we must shape the grazing lands or handle our forests. Inasmuch as I myself passed a large portion of my life in the mountains and on the plains of this great western country, I feel a peculiar pride that it was given to me to sign, and thereby make into law, the act of the national government—to my mind one of the most important acts ever made into law by the national legislature—the national irrigation act of a year ago. The government, in my judgment, not only should, but must cooperate with the state government and with individual enterprises in seeing that we utilize to the fullest advantage the waters of the Rocky Mountain states by canals and great reservoirs, which shall conserve the waters that go to waste at one season, so that they can be used at other seasons.

Want Best Navy on Globe.

"I believe with all my soul in the Monroe doctrine. This western hemisphere is not to become a region for conquest over which foreign ministerial powers may acquire control. I think that should be a cardinal doctrine of our American foreign policy. But I would a great deal rather see us never announce that policy than for us to announce it and then lack either the will or the power to make it good. The one means for making it good is building up an adequate navy. I ask congress to go on with the building of the navy; that congress go on providing means to make that navy the most effective on the globe. I earnestly hope that not in our time will we see war again, but it is impossible to say that there will not be war, because it is not only necessary that we should want to act rightly toward other nations, and I think I can say that we do, but it is necessary that they should all of them want to act rightly toward us, and while I believe that they do, I think it will help them to persevere in their good intentions if we are well armed."

POSTOFFCE PROBING

Still Continues and Large Force of Inspectors Are at Work.

Charges Against George Beavers for Paying Exhobitant Prices for Supplies—Overhauling of Free Delivery Branch Will Be Thorough.

Washington, May 29.—A large corps of inspectors, including some of the veterans of the service, were at work probing into the alleged irregularities at the postoffice department, but no further arrests were made. It is said to be possible that the intermediary who, it is alleged, figured in the transactions which led to the arrest of August W. Machen, the former general superintendent of the free delivery service, may turn state's evidence. His identity has not yet been disclosed.

Mr. Machen's counsel issued a statement asserting his ability to fully disprove all the charges. The investigating officials are equally confident. The government is anxious to expedite the trial of Machen as much as possible consistently with the proper handling of the case. It is arranging to have its witnesses at Machen's preliminary hearing June 5. The preliminary hearing of the Groff Brothers, the profits of which firm Machen is accused of sharing on a 40 per cent basis, has been set for June 9.

Postal officials refuse to give any information respecting the go-between who, it is alleged, figured in the transactions that caused Machen's arrest. It is said there is a possibility, if not a probability, that he will be used as a witness for the government. The postmaster general said:

"That there is a third party in this matter I have no doubt, but I cannot say anything further."

Charges Against Beavers.

He was asked whether the delay in making the arrest was due to failure to locate the man. The postmaster general replied in the negative and added that sometimes there were other reasons. He significantly suggested that sometimes it was found best not to be too precipitate in taking action and there was an intimation that the department might desire the go-between to turn state's evidence. A report was published here that George W. Beavers, the former superintendent of the division of salaries and allowances, was in the city, but the department denied having any such information. Mr. Payne was asked as to the nature of the charges on file against Mr. Beavers. He replied that they might be summed up as the payment of extravagant prices for materials and supplies used in his division, including time clocks and stamping machines. He said that there was only one charge that Mr. Beavers had received a commission on these supplies. This charge, he said, is under investigation.

A much more rigid overhauling of the affairs of Mr. Beavers' former office will begin shortly. The salaries and allowance division is now in charge of a former assistant superintendent, who is a veteran inspector, and the department thought for this reason it could concentrate its investigating work along other lines that needed immediate attention. The investigation of the affairs of the free delivery division, it is stated, has not been interrupted by the arrest of Machen. The inspectors who brought about that result are continuing their inquiry and will probe into other charges against Mr. Machen.

Charges Against Machen.

In this connection Postmaster General Payne said that one of the charges under investigation was an allegation that Mr. Machen had forged the name of another on an official paper about 10 years ago. He said that Mr. Machen knew of this charge and had informed him that he (Machen) was ready at any time to bring conclusive proof that he was innocent of the transaction. Other charges involve letter box contracts. Some of the charges are of a similar nature to those on which Wednesday's arrest was based.

Overhauling of the free delivery branch will be thorough and Postmaster General Payne declared with emphasis that the investigation will not end until all irregularities have been thoroughly inquired into and eradicated. He said that he did not know as yet when it would be possible to close the investigation and that he would not attempt to approximate the date. He said there had been a few charges against several other officers of the department, but the complaints of irregularities were confined practically to the free delivery service, the salary and allowances division and the office of the assistant attorney general.

Samuel A. Groff, one of the brothers arrested Wednesday, was suspended from the police force pending the hearing of his case. His return to duty depends on the result of the court proceedings against him.

West Virginia Postmasters.

Washington, May 29.—West Virginia postmasters were appointed as follows: Clinton, Ohio county, Samuel I. Smith; Viola, Marshall county, Joseph B. Thompson.

CHAMBERLAIN'S POWER PROVED

In Debate in House of Commons He Again Demonstrates His Strength.

London, May 29.—Mr. Chamberlain has again proved himself the strong man of the cabinet. In a debate, which may prove the most momentous of the present parliament, he has in a frank and bold speech further developed the policy which will be universally regarded as an entire reversal of Great Britain's fiscal position and at the same time he proved that he has managed to carry the government with him against their convictions.

The impression left on the minds of the crowded chamber was that the country is on the eve of a dissolution and that, as in 1900, Mr. Chamberlain carried the country with him on the South African war policy, he has now converted his colleagues to the belief that he will be able to carry it again on the policy of preferential trade within the empire. In addition to asking for a mandate to tax food, he asks for power to engage in a tariff war with Germany on Canada's account and to fight the American trusts. It is safe to say that no such sudden revolution has been experienced in the political situation for very many years, nor anything so sensational.

The debate practically ended with Mr. Chamberlain's speech and the house emptied into the lobbies. What little enthusiasm was displayed was on the liberal side of the house. The Conservatives listened to the speech in chilling silence, indicative of alarm and uncertainty as to the outcome of the unexpected situation. Nearly 100 Conservative members intimated to the government whip and to Mr. Chamberlain their intention to take the opinion of their constituents on the new policy during the Whitsuntide recess.

DIPLOMACY, ARBITRATION, WAR

Three Means of Settling International Disputes—Monroe Doctrine Cannot Be Arbitrated.

Lake Mohonk, N. Y., May 29.—The conference on international arbitration was opened with an address by Dr. Lyman Abbott, of New York, who declared that arbitration was not the solvent of all difficulties. The right of the free man to labor was one of the things that could not be arbitrated, he asserted, and the Monroe doctrine was another.

S. Uchida, consul general for Japan at New York, said international disputes could be settled by one of three means—diplomacy, arbitration and war. Although arbitration is highly preferable to war, he added, it would be impossible to dispense with war unless all nations agree to make arbitration the only and last means of settling international difficulties in case diplomacy fails. Japan does not want to fight and does not mean to fight unless necessary, but she must keep up her fighting strength so long as she is going ahead as a nation which is trying to make herself respected by others.

Five Years to the Pen.

St. Louis, May 29.—Guilty and five years in the penitentiary was the verdict and punishment returned by the jury in the bribery case of J. J. Hannigan, a former member of the house of delegates. Hannigan was found guilty of accepting a bribe in connection with the passage of the suburban railway bill. He is the eighteenth man tried on charges resulting from the local boodle investigation, all of whom, but one, have been convicted. Hannigan's attorneys filed a motion for a new trial, and he was released on $10,000 bond.

Governor on Vacation.

Harrisburg, May 29.—Governor Pennypacker left with his wife and daughters for his farm at Pennypacker Mills, Montgomery county, to remain during the summer. The executive mansion will remain open and the governor will pass two and three days a week here looking after his official duties.

Druggists' Strike Getting Serious.

Havana, May 29.—The druggists' strike against the imposition by the Havana provincial council of taxes on patent medicines and perfumeries is assuming serious proportions. The dealers in dress goods, etc., who also handle perfumes, closed their stores,

Sultan's Brother Poisoned.

Madrid, May 29.—A report form Ceuta says the sultan of Morocco's brother, Mulai Mohammed, is dead. He was poisoned, according to the dispatch.

Confide in a Woman

Women may write about their ills to Mrs. Pinkham, and avoid the questioning of a male physician. They can tell their story without reservation to her; she never breaks a confidence, and her advice is the best in the world.

The questions asked of a woman by a male physician are embarrassing, and often revolting to a sensitive nature. In consequence the whole truth is not told; this makes it difficult for female troubles to be successfully treated even by the best physicians, and is the reason so many women grow worse rather than better. A woman understands a woman better than a man,—there are symptoms which sick women have that a man cannot understand, simply because he is a man, but the whole truth may be told to Mrs. Pinkham, and her vast experience enables her to give advice which leads to a cure.

All women who suffer should secure Mrs. Pinkham's advice; it costs nothing but a letter addressed to her at Lynn, Mass. Female troubles are real troubles, and must be treated understandingly. For a quarter of a century Mrs. Pinkham's advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have been helping women to get strong and well, and her great file of letters prove that more than a million women have been restored to health and strength by her advice and her medicine when all other means have failed.

When you go to a druggist for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, do not let him persuade you to try something which he says is just as good; there is nothing just as good, because Mrs. Pinkham's medicine holds the record for the largest number of cures of any female medicine in the world.

Jeffords Knocks Man Out.

Savannah, Ga., May 29.—Jim Jeffords, of San Francisco, and George Feeley, of Sioux City, heavyweights, met for a 20-round contest before the Savannah Athletic club. In the third round Feeley went down under a left to the jaw and took a count of six. As he came up groggy Jeffords sent another to the same spot and Feeley was counted out. At 2 a. m. Feeley was still unconscious, notwithstanding the efforts of his seconds and two physicians to revive him. An injection of nitroglycerin was administered without having the effect of restoring consciousness. Jeffords is detained at the police station.

Entire Town Burning.

Montreal, Que., May 29.—A telephone message received at 2 a. m. from Mariesville, a small town 21 miles from here on the Central Vermont railway, says that a fire which broke out at midnight had destroyed 50 buildings and was still raging. The place has no fire protection appliances. The wind is blowing a gale.

The Wastes of the Body.

Every seven days the blood, muscles and bones of a man of average size loses two pounds of wornout tissue. This waste cannot be replenished and the health and strength kept up without perfect digestion. When the stomach and digestive organs fail to perform their functions, the strength lets down, health gives way, and disease sets up. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all of the wholesome food that may be eaten into the kind of blood that rebuilds the tissues and protects the health and strength of the mind and body. Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. It is an ideal spring tonic. Sold by Alvin H. Bulger.

Mothers! Mothers! Mothers!

How many children are at this season feverish and constipated, with bad stomach and headache. Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for Children will always cure. If worms are present they will certainly remove them. At all druggists, 25cts. Sample mailed FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmstead, Le Roy, N. Y. 16

Are your clothes faded? Use Red Cross Bag Blue and make them white again. Large package, only 5c.

Discuss Puddling and Finishing Scale.

Detroit, May 29.—The conference committees of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers and the iron manufacturers, which are discussing the puddling and finishing scale, held two sessions. It was stated satisfactory progress was being made and that no serious differences had arisen thus far during the consideration of the scale. President T. J. Shaffer was unable to attend the sessions owing to illness.

Norris Out of Race.

Youngstown, O., May 29.—Myron A. Norris, candidate for supreme judge, announced his withdrawal from the race. If conditions are favorable he will be a candidate for the nomination next year.

Correspondent Expelled.

St. Petersburg, May 29.—The government has expelled the London Times correspondent. He has been allowed three days' grace through the good offices of the British ambassador.

"It was almost a miracle. Burdock's Blood Bitters cured me of a terrible breaking out all over the body, and I am very grateful." Miss Julia Fillbridge, West Cromwell, Conn.

Running Race Record Broken.

Cleveland, May 29.—Athletes from Oberlin, Case, Ohio State, Reserve, Kenyon and Ohio Wesleyan held a field day at the Cleveland driving park. The half mile running race was done in 1:58 2-5, which breaks the western intercollegiate record by 1 2-5 seconds.

Fire in Machine Plant.

Boston, May 29.—A portion of the plant of the Perkins Machine company, in South Boston, including the foundry, pattern shop and boiler room, was burned, causing a loss of about $100,000.

Consul at San Francisco.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, May 29.—Senor Alejandro Noboa has been appointed Ecuadorean consul at San Francisco.

Until Hagee's Cordial of Cod Liver Oil was discovered the belief existed that the grease in cod liver was a part of the cure. This idea that all cod liver oils are greasy has prevented many from being restored to health by Hagee's Cordial, the only one which contains no grease.

A Woman's Complexion.

It is rank foolishness to attempt to remove sallowness or greasiness of the skin by the use of cosmetics, or "local" treatment, as advocated by the "beauty doctors." The only safe and sure way that a woman can improve her complexion is by purifying and enriching the blood, which can only be accomplished by keeping the liver healthy and active. The liver is the seat of disease and blood pollution. Green's August Flower acts directly on the liver, cleanses and enriches the blood, purifies the complexion. It also cures constipation, biliousness, nervousness, and induces refreshing sleep. A single bottle of August Flower has been known to cure the most pronounced and distressing cases of dyspepsia and indigestion. New size trial bottle, 25 cents; regular size, 75 cents. At all druggists. 1

The Town of Chester, reserves the right to redeem any or all of said bonds after May 1, 1913.

Bidders will be required to state in writing and in figures the gross amount they pay for the bonds bid for besides the accrued interest at the date of delivery. Bidders will be required to deposit with each bid an amount of money, or a certified check, payable to the Bond Commissioners, on some National Bank, in the sum of $100.00, as a guaranty that the bid was made in good faith and if successful will be fulfilled in accordance with the terms thereof and the requirements of the law. All money or checks deposited as guaranteed shall be returned to the depositor or held by the Bond Commissioners subject to his recall, except that of the successful bidder, which shall be held and considered and accepted as part payment of the bonds to be sold; but should there be any repudiation of the contract or agreement or refusal to accept and pay for the bonds so sold, then in that case the deposit shall be forfeited to the town of Chester, W. Va., and shall become the property of said town in compensation for said loss and expense attending the sale of bonds, and as liquidated damages for repudiation of bids, and no bid shall be received unless accompanied by check aforesaid.

The said Bond Commission reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to accept the proposal within two weeks after opening bids. All proposals should be addressed to

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio:

SECTION 1. That a proposition shall be submitted to the electors of this state, on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, A. D. 1903, to amend section 16, of article II, of the constitution of the state of Ohio, so that it shall read as follows:

ARTICLE II.

Sec. 16. Every bill shall be fully and distinctly read three different days, unless in case of urgency three-fourths of the house in which it shall be pending, shall dispense with the rule. No bill shall contain more than one subject, which shall be clearly expressed in its title, and no law shall be revived, or amended unless the new act contains the entire act revived, or the section or sections amended, and the section or sections so amended shall be repealed.

Every bill passed by both houses of the general assembly shall, before said bill can become law, be presented to the governor. If he approves he shall sign said bill and thereupon said bill shall be law. If he object he shall not sign and shall return said bill, together with his objections thereto in writing, to the house wherein said bill originated, which house shall enter at large upon its journal said objection and shall proceed to reconsider said bill. If, after said reconsideration, at least two-thirds of the members elect of that house vote to repass said bill it shall be sent, together with said objection, to the other house, which shall enter at large upon its journal said objection and shall proceed to reconsider said bill. If, after said reconsideration, at least two-thirds of the members elect of that house vote to pass said bill it shall be law, otherwise it shall not be law. The votes for the repassage of said bill shall in each house respectively be no less than those given on the original passage. If any bill passed by both houses of the general assembly and presented to the governor is not signed and is not returned to the house wherein it originated and within ten days after being so presented, exclusive of Sunday and the day said bill was presented, said bill shall be law as in like manner as if signed, unless final adjournment of the general assembly prevents such return, in which case shall be law, unless objected to by the governor and filed, together with his objection thereto in writing, by him in the office of the secretary of state within the prescribed ten days; and the secretary of state shall at once make public said fact and shall return said bill, together with said objection, upon the opening of the next following session of the general assembly, to the house wherein said bill originated, where it shall be treated in like manner as if returned within the prescribed ten days.

If any bill passed by both houses of the general assembly and presented to the governor contains two or more sections, or two or more items of appropriation of money, he may object to one or more of said sections or to one or more of said items of appropriation of money, and approve the other portion of said bill, in which case said approved portion may be signed and then shall be law; and such section or sections, item or items of appropriation of money objected to shall be returned within the time and in the manner prescribed for, and shall be separately reconsidered as in the case of, a whole bill; but if final adjournment of the general assembly prevents such return the governor shall file said section or sections, item or items of appropriation of money, together with his objection thereto in writing, with the secretary of state as in the case of a whole bill, and the secretary of state shall then make public said fact, but shall not further act as in the case of a whole bill."

SECTION 2. At such election those electors desiring to vote for such amendment shall have placed upon their ballots the words "Constitutional amendment—governor's veto—yes;" and those opposed to such amendment shall have placed upon their ballots the words, "Constitutional amendment—governor's veto—no."
